AIRWAY WORKERS WALKOUT HAS 17 HOUR DURATION

Both Sides In Pan-American Dispute Agree To Submit Issues To Arbitration

FLIGHT ATTENDANTS AGREE TO RETURN IMMEDIATELY

NEW YORK, May 13. —(AP)— A strike of 700 Pan-American World Airways flight attendants, supported by 3,000 maintenance workers, was called off today 17 hours after it started.

The walkout which began last midnight was cancelled in late afternoon when both sides agreed to submit disputed issues to arbitration.

An airline official said the strikers had agreed to return to work immediately.

Agreement came after a three and a half hour meeting conducted by Federal Mediator Ross J. Foran.

The strikers, and the maintenance workers who refused to cross their picket lines, all are members of the C. I. O. Transport Workers Union.

The flight service employes—stewards, stewardesses and pursers—walked off the job early today following the collapse of 11th hour mediation talks.

The union has demanded an $8 a month wage increase, a system-wide seniority program and improved severance pay. The union said the company offered to arbitrate the wage issue but not other demands.

A spokesman for the airline said that except for some delays flights schedules were being maintained throughout the giant system. Supervisory employes were carrying on the maintenance work, he said.

Pan-American flies routes to 67 foreign countries and U. S. territories. It operates no domestic runs but has terminals in New York, New Orleans, Miami, Houston, San Francisco, Seattle and Brownsville, Tex.

Pickets marched before all of these terminals.

William Grogan, T. W. U. international vice - president, said present wages range from $237 to $282 for stewards and stewardesses, and $292 to $352 for pursers. They spend about 85 hours monthly in the air and also perform pre-flight duties on the ground, he said.

Pan-American, which operates a fleet of 140 planes, has a total of 14,000 employes.

The line's European Middle East flights originate in New York, those to Latin America in Miami and Brownsville, and flights to the Far East in San Francisco. Alaskan flights operate out of Seattle.

REPORT RAID ON CHINA MAINLAND

Nationalist Claim Commando-Type Thrust 140 Miles South Of Shanghai

TAIPEI, Formosa, Sunday, May 14.—(AP)— A new commando - type raid on the Communist mainland 140 miles south of Shanghai was reported today in official Chinese nationalist dispatches.

The account said Nationalist guerrillas landed Friday at Shihpu and struck inland. No details were given but the action apparently was intended to divert some of the Communists who are massing for an invasion of Chushan, Nationalist island 90 miles northeast of Shihpu.

All indications in this Nationalist capital were that the expected Red invasion of Chushan was still hanging fire. Some reports said the attack might start at any moment, but others said the Communists were not ready yet.

Gen. Chiang Ching-Kuo, oldest son of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek asserted that the Reds planned to invade both Chushan and the island of Quemoy (Chinmen) near Amoy, during May. He said this decision was taken at a conference with a Russian General in Shanghai in April. He also warned the public that invasion of Formosa itself was coming.

While he warned against Communist infiltration tactics, the defense ministry issued a statement that a series of arrests starting last December had smashed a Communist working committee on Formosa and foiled plans for an internal rising.

'Born 'n Bred' Texas Demo Joins Republican Bandwagon

First G. O. P. Solon From Texas In 19 Years Raps Administration

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)— Anti-administration forces in the house gained a recruit from the Democratic ranks today with the arrival of Ben H. Guill, the first Republican representative from Texas in 19 years.

The 40-year-old navy veteran, who said he was "born 'n bred" a Democrat and voted twice for President Roosevelt, reported that people in his section of the Lone Star State are "fed up" with the administration.

"They can't understand why with incomes and taxes so high we can't stay within the national budget," Guill told his first news conference here.

"If President Truman ran today in the Panhandle, he would be soundly defeated," Guill said. "That is, if the Republicans had a good leader."

The new congressman went on to say he thinks Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower fitted that specification, but that Harold Stassen also is "very popular" in Texas.

Guill, who is due to be sworn in next week — probably Monday —defeated ten Democratic opponents in a special election to fill out the unexpired term of Rep. Eugene Worley who recently was named a federal judge. However, he polled only 22 per cent of the vote —a victory margin he'll have to better if he expects to cop the regular congressional election in November.

The ex-Democrat met newsmen in the office of House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts who offered him use of a chair that once belonged to a fellow Texan, Former Vice-President Garner.

But Guill declined, saying "I'd rather take this on my feet." He then took the rapid-fire questions in stride and in good humor.

Asked why he had switched parties, Guill replied that "when you

CONGRESS FACES POTENT ISSUES

FEPC, John Lewis Grilling On Agenda For Next Week's Activity

WASHINGTON, May 13. —(AP)— Two explosive possibilities confront congress next week—a test of the power of southern Democrats to kill civil rights legislation in the senate, and grilling of John L. Lewis in the house.

Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois has promised the senate that he will force a vote, probably Friday, on limiting debate on his motion to take up fair employment practices legislation.

He needs 64 votes. He probably can't get them. That would mean the southerners could filibuster to their hearts' content unless the gag were voted later.

In the house, Rep. Jacobs (D.-Ind.), head of a labor subcommittee studying union practices, invited Lewis to appear Tuesday night. The group also plans to question Lloyd Sidener, former United Miner Workers local official who has accused Lewis of using secret signals to keep his miners on strike last February while publicly calling on them to obey a court's back to work order.

Unless something else intervenes the senate probably will spend the week talking about FEPC, although consideration of resolutions rejecting some of the president's reorganization plans could side-

GIRL IS STRANGLED WITH TOPCOAT BELT

Attacked While Returning Home From School Play During The Night

MILLVILLE, N. J., May 13.—(AP) —A 17-year-old high school girl returning home from a school play was strangled early today with the green belt from her topcoat.

Director of public safety David Reid said he believed the girl, Lorraine Hess, a junior at Millville High, knew the person who killed her. Other than that belief, the only clue police had were footprints around the spot where the slight girl's fully-clothed body was found.

Reid declined to elaborate on his theory that the girl knew her slayer. He did say that the body of the quiet, studious girl bore no marks or scratches, even though there was evidence of a struggle at the scene. One of her shoes was found 100 feet away.

Police questioned other high school students who watched the play, "June Vad," a three-act comedy, with the brunette daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorraine Hess. Two of her classmates, June McLaughlin and Mildred Crowley, told police they walked part of the way home with Lorraine and left her about 11:30 p.m. (E. S. T.).

Dr. Marvin Atkinson, Cumberland county physician, said no criminal attack was made on the girl. Her body was left lying between two bungalows.

RAILWAY STRIKE EXTENDED FROM COAST TO COAST

200,000 PERSONS IDLE WITH NO SIGN OF PEACE

CHICAGO, May 13. —(AP)— Locomotive firemen extended their strike to a stretch of a fifth rail system today and sought to cut the Pennsylvania Railroad's operations in the east and south.

The move had the effect of stretching the strike operations from coast to coast, although only a relatively few trains are involved.

The brotherhood of locomotive firemen and enginemen directed its members to refuse to man Union Pacific trains over 100 miles of track between Baggett and San Bernardino, Calif., starting tonight. The union said these tracks are owned by the strike-crippled Santa Fe system.

The union also set up picket lines at its important division point of Harrisburg, Pa., in an effort to halt eastbound traffic to Philadelphia and New York. The union charged the PRR violated a "neutrality agreement," by operating freight trains in strike territory with supervisory personnel.

The strike of 18,000 firemen was called Wednesday against parts of the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Santa Fe and Southern Rail systems. The union is demanding a second fireman on big Diesel locomotives and a fireman on little switch Diesels.

The four-day strike already has forced some 200,000 persons into idleness and no new peace moves were announced. However, the national (railway) mediation board remained in Chicago, keeping its services available.

The strike has cut off one fourth of western Pennsylvania's soft coal production and several industries

PINS HOPE FOR PEACE ON U. S.

Truman Indicates That Huge National Budget Helps Build Strong Nation

FORT PECK DAM, Mont., May 13. —(AP)— President Truman today termed a strong and prosperous United States "the world's best hope for peace."

Speaking at the huge dam here, he said:

"Projects like Fort Peck are investments in the future of our country, just as a new factory is an investment in the future of a corporation.

"You should keep that fact in mind when you examine the federal budget.

"We need more projects like Fort Peck. They are helping to build a stronger United States. A stronger and more prosperous United States is the world's best hope for peace."

The president, in his prepared remarks, spoke of functions of flood control and power projects as his "non - political" stumping tour brought him close to North Dakota and Minnesota, two states in the recent flood news.

His special train headed into North Dakota en route to Fargo for a night speech. He will talk about foreign policy at Madison, Wis., tomorrow.

M'Ginty Hearing Set To Be Heard June 9-10

BATON ROUGE, La., May 13.—(AP)—Complaints against a Louisiana college president and a request for his ouster are scheduled to be heard June 9-10 at Alexandria.

The state board of education fixed the dates today, after receiving the request May 2 from the student federation of Louisiana colleges and universities. The federation, by resolution of its executive committee, asked that Dr. G. W. McGinty "not be considered . . for re-appointment" as acting president of Northwestern State College, Natchitoches.

Robert E. Wall of New Orleans, 20-year-old pre-law student at Louisiana State University, signed the resolution as federation president. He appeared at today's meeting of the board and asked that the hearing be kept public.

"We want an open hearing because we don't want anybody believing rumors of efforts to make this a petty political matter," Wall said.

Board Chairman George Madison of Bastrop said:

"The hearing will be open so long as it remains orderly. We may have to limit the size of the audience. We don't want a cheering section."

B-36 BOMBARDIER FALLS FIVE MILES

Blown From High-Flying Craft By Freakish Explosive Decompression

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 13.—(AP)—First Lieut. Freeman B. Horner, 32, formerly of Miles City, Mont., was presumed dead today after a freakish accident that blew him from a B-36 bomber more than five miles in the air.

Horner was blown from the craft late yesterday when the bombardier's sighting window blew out while the B-36 was flying at 28,000 feet about 80 miles south of Phoenix, Ariz. The bomber was en route from Fort Worth to Fairchild-Suisun air base, Calif.

Air and ground crews searched today for Horner's body.

Airmen explained the accident as an explosive decompression—the violent blast of air from within a pressurized high-flying plane out into the thin air of a high altitude.

WINNIPEG FLOOD PERIL INCREASES

20 Additional City Blocks Inundated By Rampant River Water

WINNIPEG, Man., May 13.—(AP) —The swollen Red river flooded 20 more blocks of residential and industrial property here today and won undisputed mastery of a key bridge.

The army called diking crews from a losing effort to open the Norwood bridge, linking Central Winnipeg and St. Boniface, its sister city to the east. Floodwaters boiled across the pavement at the Winnipeg end. Authorities said the work at the bridge was endangering nearby dikes.

The 20 blocks of newly flooded property were in Fort Rouge.

Hundreds of blocks elsewhere in greater Winnipeg have been flooded since the river, built up by heavy rainfall in North Dakota, Minnesota and Manitoba, smashed most of the city's dikes a week ago.

Angry Statement Indicates Further Moves Against Czechs In Offing

INABILITY TO RUN OWN FOREIGN POLICY CHARGED

WASHINGTON, May 13. — (AP) — The United States today ordered a wholesale ouster of Czech diplomats from this country and charged that Czechoslovakia's Soviet satellite government is unable to control its own foreign policy.

The American counterstroke, following a Czech rejection of about 40 U. S. diplomats this week, will send an estimated 22 out of the 33 Czech representatives homeward "within a reasonable time."

The Prague government was ordered to close its consulates in Pittsburgh and Cleveland, leaving only the Washington embassy and the New York consulate to operate at a reduced level.

Furthermore, the state department declared in a coldly angry statement "this government is examining the situation not only also for the future"—a clear hint with respect to the present but of possible further moves against the Czechs.

The action was announced by the state department as the latest in a series of clashes with the eastern European state which, in its pre-Communist days, was closely tied to the United States in friendship and trade.

Previously the United States had closed the Czech consulate at Chicago after the Czech government had cracked down on the United States information service offices at Prague and Bratislava and forced the recall of American press attache Joseph C. Kolarek.

The Czech government made the usual charges of spy activities on the part of the United States, which hotly denied them.

Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs called at the Prague foreign office today and presented a note, which was also handed to the Czech ambassador, Dr. Vladimir Outrata, here.

The note employed the standard diplomatic formula of "requesting" that the Czech government slash its personnel in the United States. The Czechs have no alternative but to comply. The reduction which the United States has in mind is a total of two-thirds—or 22 out of 33 Czech employes and diplomats here according to state department figures.

Funeral services will be held at the First National Funeral Home in Winnsboro with Rev. J. H. Keys officiating.

Interment will follow in Ogden cemetery near Liddieville with Masonic services at the graveside. The time has not been set pending the arrival of distant relatives.

Prisoner Secretly Records Parole Board's Hearings

DES MOINES, May 13. —(AP)— The case of a prisoner who used an "electric grapevine" to listen in on secret parole board sessions and smuggled wire recordings outside the walls set Iowa officialdom buzzing today.

Gov. William S. Beardsley, who said he was intrigued but not amused by the prisoner's feat, ordered an immediate investigation.

The governor said he was particularly interested in the question of how 47-year-old Pete Hellyer, a life-termer, was able to smuggle out the spools of wire recordings.

The story was disclosed last night in a copyrighted broadcast by Jim Bormann, news director of radio station WMT at Cedar Rapids.

Bormann interspersed his broadcast with excerpts of recorded interviews between parole board members and prisoners seeking clemency. He said he got the recordings from an intermediary for Hellyer in a Chicago airport rendezvous.

Bormann related the story as follows:

Hillyer entered the Iowa men's reformatory at Anamosa 19 years ago to serve life for a sex crime. Later, he was placed in charge of the prison radio shop which pipes standard broadcasts through the institution. In this shop he built a wire recorder and a powerful radio transmitter.

Months ago, with the help of other prisoners, Hellyer's microphone was planted in the warden's conference office. His electric eavesdropping on parole board interviews was recorded on wire smuggled into him.

When he was not busy recording, Hellyer was working on his radio transmitter and making hand-tooled leather bags which he was permitted to mail to friends and purchasers. In some of these bags, Bormann said, the prisoner ingeniously concealed the wire recordings.

Reformatory officials, meanwhile, apparently considered Hell-

TALLULAH, La., May 13.—(Special)—Two youths were seriously injured in a traffic accident two miles south of Tallulah Saturday morning when the car in which they were driving was struck by a truck which dragged their automobile a hundred feet.

Dean Novlick of Iowa, a student at Louisiana State University, suffered a fractured pelvis and James Washburn Tallulah High School senior suffered a fractured vertebra. They are receiving treatment in a Vicksburg hospital.

According to a highway patrolman the accident occured when Dick Sevier driver of the car, lost control in his attempt to pass a parked car and was met by the truck owned by Loftin and Loftin of Delhi and driven by Tommy McGrew.

France-Germany Economic Merger Paints New Picture

PARIS, May 13.—(AP)—France's proposal to put her own coal and steel under a joint management with west Germany's has changed the political and economic picture in Europe radically—and evidently for the better.

It has eased the disputes between France and west Germany over the Saar coal. Now they can join in asking that neither Britain nor the United States get in the way of an arrangement the sponsors regard as rich with promise.

For both west Germany and France, it offers mutual aid in solving unemployment and reconstruction problems.

If the plan works as France hopes, both west Germany and France will be seeing a larger share of world markets, aided by lower prices. France hopes Britain and other nations will come into the program.

The French government feels it has made a businessman's approach to unification of Europe where the political approach had bogged down.

When Robert Schuman, French foreign minister, first made known the proposal at a news conference Tuesday there was a widespread assumption that it was at least 50 per cent intended for political effect on the eve of the meeting of the big three foreign ministers in London. It has developed since that this probably was not so.

The proposal was not hatched in Schuman's foreign office, but five blocks away in the organization created after the war for "modernization and equipment of France." This organization is headed by Jean Monnet. It does long range industrial and recovery planning.

This fact makes it necessary to look at the thing more from

Attacked While Returning Home From School Play During The Night

MILLVILLE, N. J., May 13.—(AP) —A 17-year-old high school girl returning home from a school play was strangled early today with the green belt from her topcoat.

Director of public safety David Reid said he believed the girl, Lorraine Hess, a junior at Millville High, knew the person who killed her. Other than that belief, the only clue police had were footprints around the spot where the slight girl's fully-clothed body was found.

Reid declined to elaborate on his theory that the girl knew her slayer. He did say that the body of the quiet, studious girl bore no marks or scratches, even though there was evidence of a struggle at the scene. One of her shoes was found 100 feet away.

Police questioned other high school students who watched the play. "June Vad," a three-act comedy, with the brunette daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorraine Hess. Two of her classmates, June McLaughlin and Mildred Crowley, told police they walked part of the way home with Lorraine and left her about 11:30 p.m. (E. S. T.).

Dr. Marvin Atkinson, Cumberland county physician, said no criminal attack was made on the girl. Her body was left lying between two bungalows.

Prisoner Secretly Records Parole Board's Hearings

DES MOINES, May 13. —(AP)— The case of a prisoner who used an "electric grapevine" to listen in on secret parole board sessions and smuggled wire recordings outside the walls set Iowa officialdom buzzing today.

Gov. William S. Beardsley, who said he was intrigued but not amused by the prisoner's feat, ordered an immediate investigation.

The governor said he was particularly interested in the question of how 47-year-old Pete Hellyer, a life-termer, was able to smuggle out the spools of wire recordings.

The story was disclosed last night in a copyrighted broadcast by Jim Bormann, news director of radio station WMT at Cedar Rapids.

Bormann interspersed his broadcast with excerpts of recorded interviews between parole board members and prisoners seeking clemency. He said he got the recordings from an intermediary for Hellyer in a Chicago airport rendezvous.

Bormann related the story as follows:

Hillyer entered the Iowa men's reformatory at Anamosa 19 years ago to serve life for a sex crime. Later, he was placed in charge of the prison radio shop which pipes standard broadcasts through the institution. In this shop he built a wire recorder and a powerful radio transmitter.

Months ago, with the help of other prisoners, Hellyer's microphone was planted in the warden's conference office. His electric eavesdropping on parole board interviews was recorded on wire smuggled into him.

When he was not busy recording, Hellyer was working on his radio transmitter and making hand-tooled leather bags which he was permitted to mail to friends and purchasers. In some of these bags, Bormann said, the prisoner ingeniously concealed the wire recordings.

Reformatory officials, meanwhile, apparently considered Hell-

RAILWAY STRIKE EXTENDED FROM COAST TO COAST

200,000 PERSONS IDLE WITH NO SIGN OF PEACE

CHICAGO, May 13. —(AP)— Locomotive firemen extended their strike to a stretch of a fifth rail system today and sought to cut the Pennsylvania Railroad's operations in the east and south.

The move had the effect of stretching the strike operations from coast to coast, although only a relatively few trains are involved.

The brotherhood of locomotive firemen and enginement directed its members to refuse to man Union Pacific trains over 100 miles of track between Baggett and San Bernardino, Calif., starting tonight. The union said these tracks are owned by the strike-crippled Santa Fe system.

The union also set up picket lines at its important division point of Harrisburg, Pa., in an effort to halt eastbound traffic to Philadelphia and New York. The union charged the PRR violated a "neutrality agreement," by operating freight trains in strike territory with supervisory personnel.

The strike of 18,000 firemen was called Wednesday against parts of the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Santa Fe and Southern Rail systems. The union is demanding a second fireman on big Diesel locomotives and a fireman on little switch Diesels.

The four-day strike already has forced some 200,000 persons into idleness and no new peace moves were announced. However, the national (railway) mediation board remained in Chicago, keeping its services available.

The strike has cut off one fourth of western Pennsylvania's soft coal production and several industries

PINS HOPE FOR PEACE ON U. S.

Truman Indicates That Huge National Budget Helps Build Strong Nation

FORT PECK DAM, Mont., May 13. —(AP)— President Truman today termed a strong and prosperous United States "the world's best hope for peace."

Speaking at the huge dam here, he said:

"Projects like Fort Peck are investments in the future of our country, just as a new factory is an inevestment in the future of a corporation.

"You should keep that fact in mind when you examine the federal budget.

"We need more projects like Fort Peck. They are helping to build a stronger United States. A stronger and more prosperous United States is the world's best hope for peace."

The president, in his prepared remarks, spoke of functions of flood control and power projects as his "non-political" stumping tour brought him close to North Dakota and Minnesota, two states in the recent flood news.

His special train headed into North Dakota en route to Fargo for a night speech. He will talk about foreign policy at Madison, Wis., tomorrow.

Auto-Truck Crash Near Tallulah Injures Two

TALLULAH, La., May 13.—(Special)—Two youths were seriously injured in a traffic accident two miles south of Tallulah Saturday morning when the car in which they were driving was struck by a truck which dragged their automobile a hundred feet.

Seven Killed, 7 Hurt In La. - Miss. Mishaps

(By the Associated Press)

Seven persons were killed and seven injured in four traffic accidents in Mississippi and Louisiana, Saturdays' report showed.

Three persons lost their lives and two were seriously injured in a highway accident near Seminary in Covington county, Miss., the highway patrol said.

Patrolman George Saucier identified one of the dead as Mrs. W. C. Edwards of Jackson, Miss. He said her husband was one of the injured.

The other dead and injured were not immediately identified. Saucier said the accident happened when two cars collided on highway 49 about 8 a.m. (C. S. T.) Saturday.

At Tunica, Miss., two persons were killed and two seriously injured when their car was in collision with a truck just outside the city Friday.

The state highway patrol identified the dead as Irene Watkins and Bobby Earl Watkins, both Negroes of Detroit, Mich.

Mattie McIntyre and Willie Watkins, Negroes, were hospitalized in Memphis, Tenn.

Sheriff J. W. Jeansonne of Marksville, La., said three persons were seriously injured when an automobile struck the side of a K. C. S. train at Hessmer, La., five miles west of Marksville Saturday.

The sheriff identified the three as Gordy Deloach, his wife and four year old son. All three were in serious condition at Marksville hospital.

Raymond Odom, of Stateline, Miss., was killed when struck by a north-bound G. M. & O. train just south of stateline at 3:30 a.m. Saturday.

Near Church Point, La., Harry C. Lewis, 40, Bunkie, La., truck driver, was killed when two automobiles were in collision. Lewis' wife was taken to a Bunkie hospital with a broken back.

M'Ginty Hearing Set To Be Heard June 9-10

BATON ROUGE, La., May 13.—(AP)—Complaints against a Louisiana college president and a request for his ouster are scheduled to be heard June 9-10 at Alexandria.

The state board of education fixed the dates today, after receiving the request May 2 from the student federation of Louisiana colleges and universities. The federation, by resolution of its executive committee, asked that Dr. G. W. McGinty "not be considered. . . for re-appointment" as acting president of Northwestern State College, Natchitoches.

Robert E. Wall of New Orleans, 20-year-old pre-law student at Louisiana State University, signed the resolution as federation president. He appeared at today's meeting of the board and asked that the hearing be kept public.

"We want an open hearing because we don't want anybody believing rumors of efforts to make this a petty political matter," Wall said.

Board Chairman George Madison of Bastrop said:

"The hearing will be open so long as it remains orderly. We may have to limit the size of the audience. We don't want a cheering section."

Blown From High-Flying Craft By Freakish Explosive Decompression

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 13.—(AP)—First Lieut. Freeman B. Horner, 32, formerly of Miles City, Mont., was presumed dead today after a freakish accident that blew him from a B-36 bomber more than five miles in the air.

Horner was blown from the craft late yesterday when the bombardier's sighting window blew out while the B-36 was flying at 28,000 feet about 80 miles south of Phoenix, Ariz. The bomber was en route from Fort Worth to Fairchild-Suisun air base, Calif.

Air and ground crews searched today for Horner's body.

Airmen explained the accident as an explosive decompression—the violent blast of air from within a pressurized high-flying plane out into the thin air of a high altitude.

WINNIPEG FLOOD PERIL INCREASES

20 Additional City Blocks Inundated By Rampant River Water

WINNIPEG, Man., May 13.—(AP) —The swollen Red river flooded 20 more blocks of residential and industrial property here today and won undisputed mastery of a key bridge.

The army called diking crews from a losing effort to open the Norwood bridge, linking Central Winnipeg and St. Boniface, its sister city to the east. Floodwaters boiled across the pavement at the Winnipeg end. Authorities said the work at the bridge was endangering nearby dikes.

The 20 blocks of newly flooded property were in Fort Rouge.

Hundreds of blocks elsewhere in greater Winnipeg have been flooded since the river, built up by heavy rainfall in North Dakota, Minnesota and Manitoba, smashed most of the city's dikes a week ago.

France-Germany Economic Merger Paints New Picture

PARIS, May 13.—(AP)—France's proposal to put her own coal and steel under a joint management with west Germany's has changed the political and economic picture in Europe radically—and evidently for the better.

It has eased the disputes between France and west Germany over the Saar coal. Now they can join in asking that neither Britain nor the United States get in the way of an arrangement the sponsors regard as rich with promise.

For both west Germany and France, it offers mutual aid in solving unemployment and reconstruction problems.

If the plan works as France hopes, both west Germany and France will be seeing a larger share of world markets, aided by lower prices. France hopes Britain and other nations will come into the program.

The French government feels it has made a businessman's approach to unification of Europe where the political approach had bogged down.

When Robert Schuman, French foreign minister, first made known the proposal at a news conference Tuesday there was a widespread assumption that it was at least 50 per cent intended for political effect on the eve of the meeting of the big three foreign ministers in London. It has developed since that this probably was not so.

The proposal was not hatched in Schuman's foreign office, but five blocks away in the organization created after the war for "modernization and equipment of France." This organization is headed by Jean Monnet. It does long range industrial and recovery planning.

This fact makes it necessary to look at the thing more from

Angry Statement Indicates Further Moves Against Czechs In Offing

INABILITY TO RUN OWN FOREIGN POLICY CHARGED

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP) — The United States today ordered a wholesale ouster of Czech diplomats from this country and charged that Czechoslovakia's Soviet satellite government is unable to control its own foreign policy.

The American counterstroke, following a Czech rejection of about 40 U. S. diplomats this week, will send an estimated 22 out of the 33 Czech representatives homeward "within a reasonable time."

The Prague government was ordered to close its consulates in Pittsburgh and Cleveland, leaving only the Washington embassy and the New York consulate to operate at a reduced level.

Furthermore, the state department declared in a coldly angry statement "this government is examining the situation not only also for the future"—a clear hint with respect to the present but of possible further moves against the Czechs.

The action was announced by the state department as the latest in a series of clashes with the eastern European state which, in its pre-Communist days, was closely tied to the United States in friendship and trade.

Previously the United States had closed the Czech consulate at Chicago after the Czech government had cracked down on the United States information service offices at Prague and Bratislava and forced the recall of American press attache Joseph C. Kolarek.

The Czech government made the usual charges of spy activities on the part of the United States, which hotly denied them.

Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs called at the Prague foreign office today and presented a note, which was also handed to the Czech ambassador, Dr. Vladimir Outrata, here.

The note employed the standard diplomatic formula of "requesting" that the Czech government slash its personnel in the United States. The Czechs have no alternative but to comply. The reduction which the United States has in mind is a total of two-thirds—or 22 out of 33 Czech employes and diplomats here according to state department figures.

As to whether he considered himself a "permanent Republican," the Pampa real estate broker said:

"I consider myself an American citizen and vote as I please. I think I have a right to switch forces."

Guill declined to comment on whether he thinks his election constitutes a "trend", but he said he was hopfeul it indicates the growth of the two-party system in Texas.

"Will Rogers once said that the reason we have the two party system is because they can't get all the crooks in one party," he said. "But maybe now one party has been in so long it has got most of them — maybe it is time to change."

When asked his own stand on current problems, Guill declared he is against the administration's proposal to set up a fair employment practices commission and is "unalterably opposed" to the Brannan Farm Plan.

Guill reported that 95 per cent of the Panhandle farmers also are against the Brannan Plan, with each one having a different idea of what kind of program should be adopted.

Martin said he hopes to get Guill placed on the house agriculture committee where Worley served.

When seated, Guill will become the first Texas Republican in Congress since Frank M. Wurzbach of San Antonio died in office in 1931.

The cooperation received from your office can never be praised enough—and you will never know how much I appreciate what was done, because Ido not have a vocabulary great enough to express my thoughts. This being evident, I am asking that each and everyone of you secure all dictionaries, reference books and other volumes that define to the fullest the word appreciation—add to all these the age-old 'I thank you' and sign it, Sincerely, Mrs. G. B. Wilson, state chairman of the Louisiana P. T. A."

Reading this effusive commendation recalls a story. A certain man, whose life had not been too exemplary, died and the funeral was held, conducted by a pastor who was a master of English. He told how wonderful the man had been, how perfect had been his conduct, his philanthropy and general love of mankind. The widow sitting near the casket, suddenly rose from her seat, walked to the coffin, and glanced critically within. Someone interrupted the service to ask what was the trouble, to which she replied that she wanted to be sure it was her husband and not someone else who was the subject of such eulogy.

D. C. Metcalf, of the Brown papermill staff, on a visit to the News-Star-World offices the other day, admitted that he had himself started life as a newspaperman.

'But I didn't stay with it long," he admitted. "My job was to write news and get "ads" and for a few days all went well. Then one day I was handed a news story that should have seemingly been an advertisement. This offended my newspaper sensibilities, and I rather loudly decried the chap who ever turned in such a piece of work. I was then informed that the editor of the paper (who was within earshot in the next room) was the one responsible.

"I turned in my resignation that day."

Young Harper was the first here to complete requirements and to wear the uniform of the squad. He also has many hours in the air to his credit and has aided on some civil air patrol missions.

FRANCE

an industrial and economic standpoint than from a diplomatic standpoint.

The men who framed it support Schuman strongly in his insistence that it is not just a new type of cartel, under which prices would be kept high and market territory apportioned secretly They are trying hard to prevent the name of Cartel being even associated with it. Cartel is a bad word in America.

Here is one phase of the situation with which it is proposed to deal: at present, west Germany sells her good coking coal to German steel plants at a price 50 per cent under the price she charges to foreign buyers. That amounts to a subsidy for German steel. France buys much of her coking coal from west Germany. There is very little in France.

In turn, France sells considerable iron ore to west Germany. She charges about 50 per cent more for the ore than she charges French mills. It is the age-old movement of coal from the Ruhr and ore from Lorraine about which wars have been fought.

Under the proposed agreement, France and west Germany would cut out the special charges to foreign buyers. France would get cheaper coal, west Germany cheaper ore. It would allow both to lower the prices of steel.

The scope of the agreement is easy to see when production figures are stood side by side. West Germany and France produce almost as much steel as the rest of Western Europe and Britain put together.

The production figures for 1949, provided by ECA tabulators, are: France and the Saar, 10,880,000 tons; West Germany 9,152,000 tons; Belgium and Luxembourg 6,121,000 tons; Britain 15,800,000 tons.

Just for comparison, Russia produces between 21,000,000 and 22,000,000 tons, and the United States more than 70,000,00.

France doesn't plan to reduce steel prices all at once. The process will be gradual, perhaps spread over a couple of years.

RAILWAY

reported they expected to run into trouble next week if the work stoppage continues.

A union spokesman said the strike against the Union Pacific stretch meant the railroad would have to find some other way of manning its trains over those tracks. He said union firemen would continue to man the trains on all other parts of the line.

The railroad's Los Angeles limited left Chicago on schedule and the railroad said it also would send out its City of Los Angeles on schedule tonight. However, the Gold Coast planned to carry cars only for San Francisco and Portland, Ore., the Los Angeles cars being dropped.

The picket lines at Harrisburg would affect only eastbound and southbound traffic from that division point. The union spokesman said. He added trains still could b made up with union firemen at eastern and southern terminals for trips to Harrisburg.

The strike zone covers Pennsylvania railroad territory west and north of Harrisburg. However, traffic east and south of that city had been curtailed dratically.

On the very day Hellyer planned to go on the air with his transmitter, he was caught, Bormann said. He said he hard, unofficially, that Hellyer was put into solitary confinement but that his reports indicate "his full privileges were restored when he cooly told authorities about the recordings."

Bormann described the quality of Hellyer's recordings as "not very good."

"A microphone sensitive enough to detect even the breathing of the parole board members necessarily picks up "outside sounds," such as the ringing of bells, the slamming of doors," Bormann explained.

Bormann said he did not know why Hellyer "was willing to take such a desperate gamble." He said he was told Hellyer had let other prisoners knew "he was determined to tell the outside world" about reformatory conditions "regardless of the consequences."

Robert C. Lappen, member of the board of control which supervises the institution, said that he not think it unusual that Hellyer was able to build the recorder or transmitter in the prison radio shop.

"What is interesting," Lappen said, "is how he was able to secret the microphone in the room."

Two of the plans were defeated last Thursday by the senate.

A vote on four more of them is slated in the house late in the week. The plans awaiting house action deal with administrative operation of federal agencies and are less controversial than those rejected by the senate.

Under terms of the reorganization law, rejection by either branch of congress kills a proposed shuffling of executive agencies. More than 20 such plans have been submitted by the president. Those not rejected will become effective May 24.

As to whether he considered himself a "permanent Republican," the Pampa real estate broker said:

"I consider myself an American citizen and vote as I please. I think I have a right to switch forces."

Guill declined to comment on whether he thinks his election constitutes a "trend", but he said he was hopfeul it indicates the growth of the two-party system in Texas.

"Will Rogers once said that the reason we have the two party system is because they can't get all the crooks in one party," he said. "But maybe now one party has been in so long it has got most of them — maybe it is time to change."

When asked his own stand on current problems, Guill declared he is against the administration's proposal to set up a fair employment practices commission and is "unalterably opposed" to the Brannan Farm Plan.

Guill reported that 95 per cent of the Panhandle farmers also are against the Brannan Plan, with each one having a different idea of what kind of program should be adopted.

Martin said he hopes to get Guill placed on the house agriculture committee where Worley served.

When seated, Guill will become the first Texas Republican in Congress since Frank M. Wurzbach of San Antonio died in office in 1931.

Corydon became capital of Indiana Territory in 1813.

our recent Parent Teacher convention news. The cooperation received from your office can never be praised enough—and you will never know how much I appreciate what was done, because Ido not have a vocabulary great enough to express my thoughts. This being evident, I am asking that each and everyone of you secure all dictionaries, reference books and other volumes that define to the fullest the word appreciation—add to all these the age-old 'I thank you' and sign it, Sincerely, Mrs. G. B. Wilson, state chairman of the Louisiana P. T. A."

Reading this effusive commendation recalls a story. A certain man, whose life had not been too exemplary, died and the funeral was held, conducted by a pastor who was a master of English. He told how wonderful the man had been, how perfect had been his conduct, his philanthropy and general love of mankind. The widow sitting near the casket, suddenly rose from her seat, walked to the coffin, and glanced critically within. Someone interrupted the service to ask what was the trouble, to which she replied that she wanted to be sure it was her husband and not someone else who was the subject of such eulogy.

D. C. Metcalf, of the Brown papermill staff, on a visit to the News-Star-World offices the other day, admitted that he had himself started life as a newspaperman.

'But I didn't stay with it long," he admitted. "My job was to write news and get "ads" and for a few days all went well. Then one day I was handed a news story that should have seemingly been an advertisement. This offended my newspaper sensibilities, and I rather loudly decried the chap who ever turned in such a piece of work. I was then informed that the editor of the paper (who was within earshot in the next room) was the one responsible.

"I turned in my resignation that day."

If one really enjoys a profusion of flowers of the choicest nature, he should visit the unusually fine gardens of Wayne Blanks, in Columbia. It is only a few minutes drive from Monroe and any Sunday afternoon now, the grounds are open and flower lovers are welcome. They will find real southern hospitality here and the afternoon will long remain as a never-to-be-forgotten memory.

George Harper, 15, in the tenth grade of Ouachita Parish High School, has been chosen by Capt. Peter F. Wormwood, AF-CAP liaison officer of the U. S. airforces, to represent the state of Louisiana at the wing commanders' conference and congressional dinner in Washington, D. C., late this month. Young Harper was the first here to complete requirements and to wear the uniform of the squad. He also has many hours in the air to his credit and has aided on some civil air patrol missions.

His being selected for the Washington trip will permit him at the banquet to meet President Truman and many congressmen. It will give him a broad vision that should be lasting. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harper, 1609 Jackson street, Monroe.

FRANCE

an industrial and economic standpoint than from a diplomatic standpoint.

The men who framed it support Schuman strongly in his insistence that it is not just a new type of cartel, under which prices would be kept high and market territory apportioned secretly They are trying hard to prevent the name of Cartel being even associated with it. Cartel is a bad word in America.

Here is one phase of the situation with which it is proposed to deal: at present, west Germany sells her good coking coal to German steel plants at a price 50 per cent under the price she charges to foreign buyers. That amounts to a subsidy for German steel. France buys much of her coking coal from west Germany. There is very little in France.

In turn, France sells considerable iron ore to west Germany. She charges about 50 per cent more for the ore than she charges French mills. It is the age-old movement of coal from the Ruhr and ore from Lorraine about which wars have been fought.

Under the proposed agreement, France and west Germany would cut out the special charges to foreign buyers. France would get cheaper coal, west Germany cheaper ore. It would allow both to lower the prices of steel.

The scope of the agreement is easy to see when production figures are stood side by side. West Germany and France produce almost as much steel as the rest of Western Europe and Britain put together.

The production figures for 1949, provided by ECA tabulators, are: France and the Saar, 10,880,000 tons; West Germany 9,152,000 tons; Belgium and Luxembourg 6,121,000 tons; Britain 15,800,000 tons.

Just for comparison, Russia produces between 21,000,000 and 22,000,000 tons, and the United States more than 70,000,00.

France doesn't plan to reduce steel prices all at once. The process will be gradual, perhaps spread over a couple of years.

reported they expected to run into trouble next week if the work stoppage continues.

A union spokesman said the strike against the Union Pacific stretch meant the railroad would have to find some other way of manning its trains over those tracks. He said union firemen would continue to man the trains on all other parts of the line.

The railroad's Los Angeles limited left Chicago on schedule and the railroad said it also would send out its City of Los Angeles on schedule tonight. However, the Gold Coast planned to carry cars only for San Francisco and Portland, Ore., the Los Angeles cars being dropped.

The picket lines at Harrisburg would affect only eastbound and southbound traffic from that division point. The union spokesman said. He added trains still could b made up with union firemen at eastern and southern terminals for trips to Harrisburg.

The strike zone covers Pennsylvania railroad territory west and north of Harrisburg. However, traffic east and south of that city had been curtailed dratically.

PRISONER

yer a model prisoner.

On the very day Hellyer planned to go on the air with his transmitter, he was caught, Bormann said. He said he hard, unofficially, that Hellyer was put into solitary confinement but that his reports indicate "his full privileges were restored when he cooly told authorities about the recordings."

Bormann described the quality of Hellyer's recordings as "not very good."

"A microphone sensitive enough to detect even the breathing of the parole board members necessarily picks up "outside sounds," such as the ringing of bells, the slamming of doors," Bormann explained.

Bormann said he did not know why Hellyer "was willing to take such a desperate gamble." He said he was told Hellyer had let other prisoners knew "he was determined to tell the outside world" about reformatory conditions "regardless of the consequences."

Robert C. Lappen, member of the board of control which supervises the institution, said that he not think it unusual that Hellyer was able to build the recorder or transmitter in the prison radio shop.

"What is interesting," Lappen said, "is how he was able to secret the microphone in the room."

track the FEPC bill temporarily.

Two of the plans were defeated last Thursday by the senate.

A vote on four more of them is slated in the house late in the week. The plans awaiting house action deal with administrative operation of federal agencies and are less controversial than those rejected by the senate.

Under terms of the reorganization law, rejection by either branch of congress kills a proposed shuffling of executive agencies. More than 20 such plans have been submitted by the president. Those not rejected will become effective May 24.

Southerners Might Lose Tools To Fight F. E. P. C.

WASHINGTON, May 13, —(AP)— Senate majority leader Lucas (Ill.) served notice on southern Democrats today that he may take steps Wednesday to cut off debate on his motion to bring a fair employment practices commission (F. E. P. C.) bill before the senate.

Lucas told the senate this would be done if the Dixie senators opposed to the controversial civil rights measure would not agree to let the senate debate on its merits.

There is no likelihood that the southerners will consent to such an arrangement.

The bill would set up a commission to see that there is no discrimination in hiring, firing or promoting workers because of their race, color, religion, or national origin.

Lucas is prepared to make the first test of the revised "cloture" rule under which debate may be closed off if 64 of the 96 senators agree. The majority leader said that a cloture petition probably will be filed Wednesday. Under the rule, 48 hours must elapse before the senate can vote on the petition.

Lucas said he was announcing his intention today so the senate would have a week's notice of the expected vote.

He said that if cloture is voted, he would permit lengthy debate on the F. E. P. C. bill itself. He had no desire, he said, to choke off any legitimate debate on the merits of the measure.

He said, however, that the debate now is confined to the technical question of whether the senate shall take up the bill, Lucas said he thought two weeks was sufficient time for that.

Senator Russell (D.-Ga.) protested that the question was not merely technical. A major and important issue is involved, he said.

Senator Olin Johnston (D-S. C.) held the floor against the F. E. P. C. motion today. He read the measure aloud, line by line, and commented upon it. Not a one of his observations was complimentary.

He said enactment of the measure would ring "the death knell of all free enterprise in America" and result in the creation of "a gestapo police force . . . in every state in the union."

"F. E. P. C. and all the civil rights bills are in direct violation of the constitution," Johnston said. "It is taking the rights of the individuals and rights of the states. It is placing in the hands of the federal government the only other power it needs to lead us to socialism.

"The freedom to choose one's associates is essential to a free exercise of the right to earn a livelihood, is essential to a genuine liberty of contract, and is essential to the free pursuit of happiness."

Johnson still had the floor when the senate quit. He will resume his discussion Monday.

Southern members have made no bones about their intention of trying to talk the measure to death if it reaches the floor. They are using the same tactics in an effort to keep the bill from being formally called up for debate.

OUACHITA BAND TO CLIMAX YEAR

Will Give Concert In Auditorium On Night Of May 19

The Ouachita Parish High School Band, under the leadership of Truman McCrea, has had an eventful '49-'50 season.

At the first of the year, the football season was in full swing, with the band performing at every school game. Much favorable comment on the band's half-time performances was received, particularly at the Ouachita - Istrouma game at Baton Rouge.

In recognition of their participation in numerous parades during the year, the Monroe Retail Merchants Association awarded the band a handsome gold trophy for "outstanding services."

At Christmas, in addition to its own concert, the band participated at the lighting of the Christmas lights in West Monroe.

Next the band buckled down for the District Music Festival at Ruston. Their work paid off, too, with a "Superior" rating.

With little time before the State Music Festival, the band, in conjunction with the Ouachita Parish High School Choir, directed by Miss Ramona Cormier, presented the first choir-band concert in the history of the school. Before a packed audience, the choir and the band presented a program that was praised by Dr. Lloyd Funchess, State Superintendent of Music, as a college level performance. While here Dr. Funchess made recordings of the band for future use on the radio.

Now the eagerly awaited trip to New Orleans and Baton Rouge was at hand, leaving April 25, the band traveled to New Orleans, heard Toscanini and the N. B. C. Symphony Orchestra, then returned to Baton Rouge for the state music festival. "Superior" ratings were earned for both concert and sightseeing performances.

With these activities behind them, the band is now preparing for its fourteenth annual spring concert. This program, the climax of the band's year's work, will be presented Friday, May 19, at 8:15 p.m. in the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium. Advance tickets are available at Hewitt-Dew Music Company and the high school band office.

Southerners Might Lose Tools To Fight F. E. P. C.

WASHINGTON, May 13, —(AP)— Senate majority leader Lucas (Ill.) served notice on southern Democrats today that he may take steps Wednesday to cut off debate on his motion to bring a fair employment practices commission (F. E. P. C.) bill before the senate.

Lucas told the senate this would be done if the Dixie senators opposed to the controversial civil rights measure would not agree to let the senate debate on its merits.

There is no likelihood that the southerners will consent to such an arrangement.

The bill would set up a commission to see that there is no discrimination in hiring, firing or promoting workers because of their race, color, religion, or national origin.

Lucas is prepared to make the first test of the revised "cloture" rule under which debate may be closed off if 64 of the 96 senators agree. The majority leader said that a cloture petition probably will be filed Wednesday. Under the rule, 48 hours must elapse before the senate can vote on the petition.

Lucas said he was announcing his intention today so the senate would have a week's notice of the expected vote.

He said that if cloture is voted, he would permit lengthy debate on the F. E. P. C. bill itself. He had no desire, he said, to choke off any legitimate debate on the merits of the measure.

He said, however, that the debate now is confined to the technical question of whether the senate shall take up the bill. Lucas said he thought two weeks was sufficient time for that.

Senator Russell (D.-Ga.) protested that the question was not merely technical. A major and important issue is involved, he said.

Senator Olin Johnston (D-S. C.) held the floor against the F. E. P. C. motion today. He read the measure aloud, line by line, and commented upon it. Not a one of his observations was complimentary.

He said enactment of the measure would ring "the death knell of all free enterprise in America" and result in the creation of "a gestapo police force . . . in every state in the union."

"F. E. P. C. and all the civil rights bills are in direct violation of the constitution," Johnston said. "It is taking the rights of the individuals and rights of the states. It is placing in the hands of the federal government the only other power it needs to lead us to socialism.

"The freedom to choose one's associates is essential to a free exercise of the right to earn a livelihood, is essential to a genuine liberty of contract, and is essential to the free pursuit of happiness."

Johnson still had the floor when the senate quit. He will resume his discussion Monday.

Southern members have made no bones about their intention of trying to talk the measure to death if it reaches the floor. They are using the same tactics in an effort to keep the bill from being formally called up for debate.

OUACHITA BAND TO CLIMAX YEAR

Will Give Concert In Auditorium On Night Of May 19

The Ouachita Parish High School Band, under the leadership of Truman McCrea, has had an eventful '49-'50 season.

At the first of the year, the football season was in full swing, with the band performing at every school game. Much favorable comment on the band's half-time performances was received, particularly at the Ouachita - Istrouma game at Baton Rouge.

In recognition of their participation in numerous parades during the year, the Monroe Retail Merchants Association awarded the band a handsome gold trophy for "outstanding services."

At Christmas, in addition to its own concert, the band participated at the lighting of the Christmas lights in West Monroe.

Next the band buckled down for the District Music Festival at Ruston. Their work paid off, too, with a "Superior" rating.

With little time before the State Music Festival, the band, in conjunction with the Ouachita Parish High School Choir, directed by Miss Ramona Cormier, presented the first choir-band concert in the history of the school. Before a packed audience, the choir and the band presented a program that was praised by Dr. Lloyd Funchess, State Superintendent of Music, as a college level performance. While here Dr. Funchess made recordings of the band for future use on the radio.

Now the eagerly awaited trip to New Orleans and Baton Rouge was at hand, leaving April 25, the band traveled to New Orleans, heard Toscanini and the N. B. C. Symphony Orchestra, then returned to Baton Rouge for the state music festival. "Superior" ratings were earned for both concert and sight-seeing performances.

With these activities behind them, the band is now preparing for its fourteenth annual spring concert. This program, the climax of the band's year's work, will be presented Friday, May 19, at 8:15 p.m. in the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium. Advance tickets are available at Hewitt-Dew Music Company and the high school band office.

Whales On Beach Breathe Fatal Anr

DUNBAR, Scotland, May 13.—(AP)—An abnormally high tide stranded 150 whales on a stretch of beach five miles from this East Scottish coast village today.

The whales, from three to 20 feet long were noisily gasping their lives away as townspeople watched from a bluff.

On April 22, 96 whales were washed ashore at the Bay of Holland, Stronsay in the Orkney islands. All perished.

MUSICAL RECITAL SLATED AT N.J.C.

Thursday Event Will Conclude Major Musical Presentations This Year

Concluding musical events presented by Northeast Junior College students during the current school year will be Thursday evening's recital in Brown Hall auditorium on the campus. The program, which will begin at 8 o'clock, is open to the public, announced James F. Monroe, acting head of the music department.

Both piano and voice students are to be heard in selections comprising a program marked by variety.

One of the pianists appearing in recital will be Miss Jane Birdsong of Monroe, who is a candidate for graduation this June. She is majoring in vocal supervision and plans to continue her study of music following graduation.

Besides Miss Birdsong, other piano students, all pupils of Mrs. Florence Ziegler Allbritton, will be presented Thursday evening. The group comprises: Mrs. Madaline Farnell, Monroe; Miss Barbara Spier, Bastrop; Hugh Bradshaw, West Monroe; Joe Monroe, Monroe; and Willoughby Thomas, West Monroe.

Vocal numbers on the program will be presented by students of Miss Gertrude Sandrock. The list of participants includes: Mrs. Madeline Farnell, soprano; Miss Carolyn Gulley, soprano, Monroe; Charles Littleton, tenor, Tremont; Charles Morn, tenor, Monroe; Noweeta Waldon, soprano, Monroe; William Windham, baritone, Tallulah.

Increased Interest In History

A New York Times survey reports more colleges than ever requiring students to study American history, and more students taking such courses whether compelled to or not.

Cheers ought to greet this trend. Part of a nation's growing up is becoming aware of its own past and how it fits into the larger world story.

Too many of us live today in a vacuum of time. We don't bother to link up with the stream of history to which we belong. If we did, we'd be more mature, more wisely humble. History has patterns; many events and situations recur from time to time in more or less similar form. Knowing them provides lessons of guidance for our present behavior and understanding.

We often get the idea that events breaking around us are unique. Most of the time they're not, even though the cast of characters and part of the setting are new.

For instance, this isn't the first period in U. S. history when we've been stirred up about the Red menace. At the end of World War I, President Wilson's attorney general staged one of the most extreme Communist hunts the world has ever seen. We might learn a lot by digging back to see what happened as a result.

Another case: Harold Stassen has just called President Truman the worst president ever to sit in the White House. Naturally present opinion on such a statement would be sharply divided, chiefly on partisan lines.

How does Mr. Truman stack up with his predecessors? You can't answer that one without knowing what other presidents did and how they're rated.

Of course, not even the most objective historians would agree on who was the worst president; but they probably could get together on a general group within which the worst would be found. There have been appraisals of that kind. But if the average citizen doesn't know about them, how can he measure the value of Stassen's criticisms?

These are merely two samples of how useful it is to know what has gone before. It helps us avoid foolish mistakes, to put events in a sensible frame, to keep calm and judge carefully.

No one should have to urge the study of history. The worth of it ought to be obvious. That it isn't is partly the fault of U. S. education, for not insisting on telling the story and telling it humanly. We can also blame our high-paced civilization, which makes current living so absorbing and dazzling that there seems little time for delving deep into our past.

Travel Is Expensive

If you have a map of the United States handy, come along on a little trip with a B-36 auxiliary jet engine from its first assembly to final installation in the big bomber.

Part of the engine is built by an aircraft firm in San Diego, Calif. Then it's shipped to another manufacturer at Niagara Falls, N. Y. A pretty complete unit by this time, it's dispatched down to Fort Worth, Tex., where it goes into the B-36.

That's a 4000-mile tour for the auxiliary jet. If any of the rest of the plane travels about the country like that before final assembly, it's no wonder the B-36 price tag comes to $4,000,000.

Mack Sennett

As much perhaps as most kings, presidents, scientists and generals does Mack Sennett deserve congratulatory mention on his seventieth birthday. The debonair inventer of slapstick comedy put the world of his time deep in his debt. He gave it laughter in prodigious quantities.

There was nothing subtle about the Sennett humor, but it was unique. There were fiddle-footed cops of incredible stupidity in perpetual pursuit of incredibly fiendish villains. No Sennett comedy was complete without lions, leaping through transoms or popping up from the back seat of an automobile. Best of all, there were beautiful and shapely young women in bathing suits of daring design.

By modern standards, the bathing suits were laughably conservative, but the Sennett girls themselves would be appreciated in any age, and many of them rose to liftiest stardom. Their decorative attributes were never surpassed, not by Ziegfield, Carroll or Goldwyn.

At 70, Mr. Sennett has long since abandoned his Keystone Kops and their custard pies, but their memory is cherished by the millions they sent rolling into the aisles. Occasional revivals still bring howls, even from current teenagers, than whom no generation was ever more sophisticated.

Sales Gains In Decade

It is confidently expected that the publicized census returns for the decade will show that retail sales have tripled in value to an annual level of $130,000,000,000 and that wholesale output has done more than that.

Analyzed, of course, these figures do not mean such great increases in relative volume of sales and services, because they deal with an era of high prices. But it is reassuring to be told that retail sales in the average establishment have gone up 50 per cent in volume, whereas the nation's gain in population is estimated in advance of the returns at between 14 and 15 per cent. A concomitant of this is that as contrasted with 4,800,000 persons employed in the retail industry in 1939, when the last business census was taken, 7,000,000 were enumerated in virtually the same number of establishments in the business census taken in advance of the counting of population this year.

One trend commented on is the tendency of the average retail business to expand, rather than for the number of such businesses to increase; another trend was centrifugal in the big cities, with retail stores seeking the outskirts.

BROADWAY BALLAD

Unfortunately I shall not be here
When your return performance hits the town;
I'll have important things to do, m'dear,
Like picking out another Love or Gown.
When you have tired of carrying the torch—
Your heart besmirched with smudge, and smoldering,
Still smelling just a little bit of scorch—
I'll not be here to renovate the thing.
I'll neither stamp the ashes nor assist
In pouring water on the graying embers;
Having become a grudging realist
Who seldom reminisces or remembers.
You will return—and less bewitched than lately,
But I shall not be here—unfortunately.—Frances Boal Mahlek..

One of Senator McCarthy's targets in the Amerasia Case came to New York last night to attend a party. He was surrounded by college chums and some newspapermen, one of whom didn't believe his claim of innocence.

"What's going to happen next?" the accused Red was asked.

"I don't know," he sighed, "I have no idea what they are waiting for."

"Probably," cracked a reporter, "the Pumpkin."

Headline: "Russia Claims Inventing Radio."

Apparently can't see DeForrest for the trees.

They say it happened at a cocktail party, where two feuding stars were among the guests. Both promised the hostess they would be ladies and not swap digs. But after each had imbibed freely, one lifted her glass and said: "A toast to Tallulah—dead or alive."

"And," returned Miss Bankhead, "here's to you! Drunk or sober."

Overheard by Mindy Carson; "In the Spring a young man's fancy turns to what girls have been thinking about all year."

Dick Brown's silly concerns the Poor Man who couldn't afford to buy cheese to bait a trap—so he used a picture of a piece of cheese. And caught a picture of a mouse.

Quite a surprise to General Marshall.

F. D. R.'s mother was like this. A man once approached her at a banquet and said he'd send $500 to her pet charity if she'd pose for a picture with his mother.

Sarah Roosevelt graciously replied that she'd pose even if he didn't donate anything. "Then I'll give $1,000," said the happy fellow. "My mother is 92. This'll be her biggest thrill. I'll bring her right over."

"No," said the 84-year-old Mrs. R. "I'll go to her—I'm younger."

Novelist Mary Roberts Rinehart covered the first World War in battle zones as a correspondent. Her son was stranded behind the lines with the Supply Corps. He kept asking for permission to visit her, but the requests were ignored.

He jolted his superiors into giving him the Go-Light with this caustic memo: "I wish to go to the Front. To visit my mother!"

M. Lerner colyumed: "I call the effort to destroy an artist's livelihood because you don't like his politics one of the deadliest signs of the inhumanity of man to man. I hold to that whether it applies to Adler and Draper or Kirsten Flagstad or anyone else."

Two of these artists made it a political issue by publicly upholding political ideas. We don't go along with the "logic" that a person's artistic ability makes him or her immune to political criticism. Nero fiddled and Hitler painted. Does that mean histtorians mustn't call thtem tyrants?

If so, then no newspaper should heckle Truman, the pianist.

Turf Luck: The Broadway Set is still groaning over the Derby and the way Arcaro and "Hill Prince" were pocketed by the field at the start.

It recalls the top upset in horse racing, the result of a feud between Earl Sande and Sonny Workman. Happened in 1930. (The Travers Stakes) and the Smart-Money had it figured as a Ding-Dong between Gallant Fox with Sande up and Which-one with Workman in the irons.

The two jockeys spent so much time working on each other that Jim Dandy (a rank outsider long-shot) romped in. Paying 100 to 1.

Then there's that celebrated telegram from the track addict in Florida to his Best Pal in N. Y. "Weather Clear Track Fast Racing Never Better I've Got Them Yelling Uncle Wire Me 100."

Our favorite was uttered by Dennis James—a veteran $2 bettor, after an uneventful matinee at Belmont. "It was a nice afternoon," he intoned. "We managed to lose very slowly."

From the N. Y. Times book reviewing section: "Jaunty prose spangled with high hyperboles."

We allus say exaggerations.

The same gazette's front page: "Former members of Denazification Boards in Germany cannot get gov't jobs because, in some cases, many of the very men they classified as Nazis have them."

Now you cut that out! Evvyone knows Mr. McCloy "is stamping out the last vestiges of Nazism"!

PITCHING HORSESHOES

THE MELODY LINGERS ON

The day before Oscar Hammerstein II left for London to wet-nurse the production of "Carousel" at the Drury Lane Theater, we took a stroll in Central park, and near the zoo we stopped to watch a couple of little girls who were skipping rope and chanting an old nursery rhyme:

"Lucy Locket lost her pocket, Kitty Fisher found it . . ."

If that jingle were called "Bibbidy Boo,' I said in my best professional manner, it would probably make the hit parade."

"As a matter of fact," said America's most successful lyricist, "it once did. Almost two hundred years ago under the name of Kitty Fisher's Jig' it was the most popular song in London. But if the mothers of those kids knew the facts about Miss Fisher, they'd wash their mouths out with soap. . . ."

According to Oscar, back in 1761 a heady hunk of gal by the name of Kitty Fisher hit London like the Kinsey Report, and before the year was out her list of boy friends included Admiral Anson, Britain's foremost sailor, and General Ligonier, the King's top soldier. A scribe of the period wrote her up as "the most pretty, witty, extravagant, wicked little light o' love that ever flourished," and as if that weren't enough the famous bachelor, Lord Pembroke, announced he would even commit matrimony for the delectable doxie.

The following year, when caperous Kitty skinned her pretty knees falling off a horse, the sedate public advertiser ran a long elegy to their dimples, and not long after one of her admirers wrote the Lucy Locket song which, under the title of "Kitty Fisher's Jig," became the "I'd Have Baked a Cake" of its day.

In 1766, when the devil-take-it damsel was anathema to almost every wife in England, she crossed everybody up by marrying John Norris, Jr., a young member of parliament from Kent who was more souse than statesman. His family promptly announced it was going to cut him off without a kipper, but Kitty, with her knowledge of human husbandry, did such a bang-up job of straightening him out that the Norrises relented and welcomed the couple to their hearts and hearth.

Unfortunately, a few months after she gave up other women's husbands to domesticate one of her own, Kitty upped and died. She was buried in the family vault with full honors, and so ended the saga of the trollop who went from minx to matron in five fast years.

By a nice twist, eight years after her death the jingle which bore her name became respectable too. A copy of "Kitty Fisher's Jig" found its way to Massachusetts where someone put new words to it, and it was sung around most of the better campfires during the American Revolution.

You've whistled it hundreds of times. It's called "Yankee Doodle."

BIBLE THOUGHTS:

The sin of Judah is written with a pen of iron, and with the point of a diamond: it is graven upon the table of their heart, and upon the horns of your altars.—Jeremiah 17:1.

Though some of you with Pilate wash your hands showing an outward pity; yet you Pilates have here deliver'd me to my sour cross, and water cannot wash away your sin.

Nicky Hilton, Elizabeth Taylor's brand new husband, put his bride's studio behind the eight-ball the other day when he had newspaper photographers chasing all over Los Angeles to get a picture of the couple after he had failed to keep a studio - arranged appointment with the newsmen. As a matter of fact, throughout the busy whirl of events leading up to the marriage, young Hilton has tried to avoid publicity. Tha'ts perfectly understandable, but I'm afraid that Nicky, as the spouse of Hollywood's most celebrated young star, is going to find himself in the spotlight much of the time. He'd be wise to accept the situation and quit dodging. With a girl like Elizabeth Taylor by his side, he shouldn't find the burden too hard to bear.

Despite Errol Flynn's heated protests against any more western movie assignments, Warner Brothers is blissfully going ahead with plans for "Rocky Mountain," which will find him once more playing a rugged hero of the wide open spaces. This was when Flynn's rebellions were effective; in those days his studio bosses wanted nothing more than they wanted his happiness. But now it seems that the more Flynn is displeased, the more cause his employers have for rejoicing. The reason isn't too obscure for surmise. Flynn, during the peak of his popularity, was given one of the most fabulous contracts ever issued to a star. It not only pays him far more, per picture, than today's market can justify; it also runs for too many years. If Errol Flynn should happen to loose his temper under this barrage of westerns and demand a release from contract, I don't think his bosses would grieve. Neither do I think that they will ever again be reckless enough to hand another star so lush a ticket.

Some weeks ago, I had a letter from one Joseph C. Hollister, who works in the composing room of the Chicago Sun-Times, and who wanted to offer a suggestion for a regular weekly department in this column, a department which would give the present whereabouts and status of the great screen stars of yesterday. The idea appealed to me, but, after an all-out try I'll have to give it up. Too many of the ex-stars have disappeared so completely that Hollywood, today, has no knowledge of their whereabouts. I doubt that there's ever been another industry so completely disinterested in yesterday's heroes.

Looking Ahead—

In Washington

WASHINGTON — U. S. Communists are preparing to go underground if they have to.

Informed officials say the Reds had a "fire drill" a few months ago. They all disappeared over an entire week-end, just for practice.

These officials say there's no such thing as a "card carrying Communist" in this country anymore. Party members quit carrying cards when the anti-Communist campaign got too tough.

The party newspaper, The Daily Worker, has quit publishing membership figures too.

Worried

WASHINGTON—(AP)—State and defense department officials are worried that Americans — and western peoples generally — do not share their concern over the sustained crisis in the cold war.

Information here is that Secretary Acheson told the French and British foreign ministers last week that the western powers have at most four years to put their defenses in order.

Their defenses in order.

Acheson's statement was based on studies indicating that Russia, with atomic weapons now in its possession, will have a dangerously large lead in military power over the United States by 1954.

Wheat

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Bugs and dry weather will force wheat growers to delay for at least another year their plans to build a livestock industry on wheat surpluses.

With big export markets dwingling, growers had been looking for other outlets. Tests showed wheat about as good as any grain for feed.

But this year's crop now looks like the smallest in seven years. Every bushel must be held for human food.

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Hebrew prophet, Micah, lived in the eighth century before Christ, but from that far-off age, in the book of prophecy that bears his name, has come a simple, exact definition of religion that is among the most often quoted of Biblical precepts.

It is a definition of duty. As such it demands for the full definition of religion the gospel concerning the God, who is the source of life and love, and the true object of man's worship.

The gospel defines the Godward aspect of religion, but the manward aspect is set forth in these simple, adequate words: 'He (God) hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humble with thy God?" (Micah 6:8.)

Beside it might be put the similarly simple and exact definition by James, the brother of Our Lord: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." (James 1:27.)

James defines religion in particular and specific acts, but acts that are symbolic of the entire Christian spirit and attitude. The definition in Micah is in more general and all-inclusive terms.

What is to be noted about these simple definitions of religion is that they stand in contrast to, and in protest against, formal profession and elaborate practice of ritual that lacks the soul of sincerity, and the reality of goodness in our words and deeds.

In a similar way, and in the same spirit, Amos had spoken even more strongly, as he observed the outward observance of religious forms and rites, that lacked the true response of the soul to the God of righteousness and truth. Amos represents the Lord as saying, "I hate, I despise your feast days, and I will not smell in your solemn assemblies," and demanding that judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream. (Amos 5:21-24.)

I am not a pessimist concerning the church and religious life today. I know too well the many devout souls, the sincerity of whose daily lives matches the sincerity of their devotion. I would that many who do not know the meaning or practice of worship might be brought into the house of God and the observance of religion.

Nevertheless, I think I see in many quarters a present emphasis upon the outward forms of worship that lacks emphasis upon inward grace and truth. I think we need to consider well the plain words of Micah and Amos.

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

MISSION TO MOSCOW

Most editors approve U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie's visit to Moscow in search of some way to bridge the widening gulf between the eastern and western worlds. But the large majority doubts that he will achieve anything worthwhile. However, a minority of considerable number has some hope that Lie might be able to pave the way for a least restoring the U. N. as an east-west meeting place. Only a small minority questions Lie's U. N. authority for the mission, or fears the wisdom of it as a possible vehicle for a phony Soviet "peace offensive."

Oakland (Calif.) Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "In the U. N. charter the secretary general is enjoined 'not to seek or receive instructions from any government or from any other authority external to the organization.' It is going to take some adroit semantics to explain Lie's mission to Moscow, since the source of his authority to make it is far from clear. . . . Lie is trying the old tactics of appeasing the Russians who are trying to force the U. N. to accept their Communist China satellite. . . ."

Hartford (Conn.) Courant (Rep.): "As secretary general . . . it is fitting for Lie to do all the can to see that the U. N. functions. . . . He hopes to restore the U. N. to a position of influence in settling differences among the great powers. Finally, he would like to see a conference of the top leaders of those nations under U. N. auspices. . . . But it is hard to see how Mr. Lie can hope to persuade the Russians to abandon their present anti-social attitude, unless they are convinced it is to their own advantage."

Chicago Sun-Times (Ind.): "Lie has been trying to conciliate differences among the great powers for several weeks. It's a good assumption that he became convinced in Washington, London and Paris that a trip to Moscow might bring some results. He warns, however, not to expect immediate and great results. . . . We must be strong at home and strengthen our friends abroad. . . . But . . . real understanding will come only after the kind of patient negotiation . . . for which the United Nations was created and to which Mr. Lie now devotes himself."

San Diego (Calif.) Tribune-Sun (Rep.): "Even if he overcomes Russian hostility, Mr. Lie will have an equally difficult task when he returns to U. N. headquarters. This task will be to convince the rest of the world that Russia's word can be relied upon. Russia has played fast and loose, breaking treaties, agreements and promises. Even if Mr. Lie obtains a pledge of fidelity to the written and spoken word, how can he convince the world that the pledge will not be broken?"

Pittsburgh (Pa.) Post-Gazette (Ind.): "While Lie's grandiose plan, that meetings of the security council—at which heads of state or foreign ministers would sit in—be held in Europe to try and settle the cold war, seems certain to fall through, Mr. Lie might be able to pave the way for an acceptable compromise on the China question by which the U. N. can be made to operate again. . . . As long as there is a meeting place,' there is at least opportunity for agreement."

Youngstown (Ohio) Vindicator (Ind.-Dem.): "Stalin may want to renew Russian participation in U. N. activities, interrupted by his boycott over the issue of admitting the Chinese Communist government. Stalin's purposes, indeed, may impel him to pretend full agreement with Lie. He might well try to make the U. N. envoy the tool of a Communist 'peace offensive' . . . attend a world conference, and then blame the western 'warmongers' for a failure actually caused by the Russians."

New Orleans (La.) Times-Picayune (Ind.-Dem.): "It has been hinted that the Soviet Union will even promise to stop encouraging civil wars and fifth column penetration if the United States will recognize Communist China. Unfortunately, the western allies need something much more substantial and trustworthy than a Red promise. Perhaps here is the explanation of the sudden offer by Russia to negotiate the Austrian peace treaty. But the question for us is: Would we be getting enough quid from Russia for our quo?"

Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal (Ind.-Dem.): "We do not share Lie's apparent belief that the Chinese crisis is the all-important one. If, however, the Soviet behavior pattern in this instance . . . is purely symptomatic, that is another matter. . . . Any chance to end the cold war by super-security council conferences certainly should be explored. But if a firm article of Soviet policy is to obstruct the U. N. for the mere sake of obstruction, little may be expected of Mr. Lie's mission."

Soviet Parliament To Convene June 12th

LONDON, May 13.—(AP)—The supreme Soviet of the U. S. S. R., Russia's parliament, was summoned today to meet June 12, the Moscow radio announced.

The broadcast did not give a reason.

The supreme Soviet consists of two houses, the Council of nion, composed of 682 members, and the Council of Nationalities, with 657 members.

Increased Interest In History

A New York Times survey reports more colleges than ever requiring students to study American history, and more students taking such courses whether compelled to or not.

Cheers ought to greet this trend. Part of a nation's growing up is becoming aware of its own past and how it fits into the larger world story.

Too many of us live today in a vacuum of time. We don't bother to link up with the stream of history to which we belong. If we did, we'd be more mature, more wisely humble. History has patterns; many events and situations recur from time to time in more or less similar form. Knowing them provides lessons of guidance for our present behavior and understanding.

We often get the idea that events breaking around us are unique. Most of the time they're not, even though the cast of characters and part of the setting are new.

For instance, this isn't the first period in U. S. history when we've been stirred up about the Red menace. At the end of World War I, President Wilson's attorney general staged one of the most extreme Communist hunts the world has ever seen. We might learn a lot by digging back to see what happened as a result.

Another case: Harold Stassen has just called President Truman the worst president ever to sit in the White House. Naturally present opinion on such a statement would be sharply divided, chiefly on partisan lines.

How does Mr. Truman stack up with his predecessors? You can't answer that one without knowing what other presidents did and how they're rated.

Of course, not even the most objective historians would agree on who was the worst president; but they probably could get together on a general group within which the worst would be found. There have been appraisals of that kind. But if the average citizen doesn't know about them, how can he measure the value of Stassen's criticisms?

These are merely two samples of how useful it is to know what has gone before. It helps us avoid foolish mistakes, to put events in a sensible frame, to keep calm and judge carefully.

No one should have to urge the study of history. The worth of it ought to be obvious. That it isn't is partly the fault of U. S. education, for not insisting on telling the story and telling it humanly. We can also blame our high-paced civilization, which makes current living so absorbing and dazzling that there seems little time for delving deep into our past.

Travel Is Expensive

If you have a map of the United States handy, come along on a little trip with a B-36 auxiliary jet engine from its first assembly to final installation in the big bomber.

Part of the engine is built by an aircraft firm in San Diego, Calif. Then it's shipped to another manufacturer at Niagara Falls, N. Y. A pretty complete unit by this time, it's dispatched down to Fort Worth, Tex., where it goes into the B-36.

That's a 4000-mile tour for the auxiliary jet. If any of the rest of the plane travels about the country like that before final assembly, it's no wonder the B-36 price tag comes to $4,000,000.

Mack Sennett

As much perhaps as most kings, presidents, scientists and generals does Mack Sennett deserve congratulatory mention on his seventieth birthday. The debonair inventer of slapstick comedy put the world of his time deep in his debt. He gave it laughter in prodigious quantities.

There was nothing subtle about the Sennett humor, but it was unique. There were fiddle-footed cops of incredible stupidity in perpetual pursuit of incredibly fiendish villains. No Sennett comedy was complete without lions, leaping through transoms or popping up from the back seat of an automobile. Best of all, there were beautiful and shapely young women in bathing suits of daring design.

By modern standards, the bathing suits were laughably conservative, but the Sennett girls themselves would be appreciated in any age, and many of them rose to liftiest stardom. Their decorative attributes were never surpassed, not by Ziegfield, Carroll or Goldwyn.

At 70, Mr. Sennett has long since abandoned his Keystone Kops and their custard pies, but their memory is cherished by the millions they sent rolling into the aisles. Occasional revivals still bring howls, even from current teenagers, than whom no generation was ever more sophisticated.

Sales Gains In Decade

It is confidently expected that the publicized census returns for the decade will show that retail sales have tripled in value to an annual level of $130,000,000,000 and that wholesale output has done more than that.

Analyzed, of course, these figures do not mean such great increases in relative volume of sales and services, because they deal with an era of high prices. But it is reassuring to be told that retail sales in the average establishment have gone up 50 per cent in volume, whereas the nation's gain in population is estimated in advance of the returns at between 14 and 15 per cent. A concomitant of this is that as contrasted with 4,800,000 persons employed in the retail industry in 1939, when the last business census was taken, 7,000,000 were enumerated in virtually the same number of establishments in the business census taken in advance of the counting of population this year.

One trend commented on is the tendency of the average retail business to expand, rather than for the number of such businesses to increase; another trend was centrifugal in the big cities, with retail stores seeking the outskirts.

BROADWAY BALLAD

Unfortunately I shall not be here
When your return performance hits the town;
I'll have important things to do, m'dear,
Like picking out another Love or Gown.
When you have tired of carrying the torch—
Your heart besmirched with smudge, and smoldering,
Still smelling just a little bit of scorch—
I'll not be here to renovate the thing.
I'll neither stamp the ashes nor assist
In pouring water on the graying embers;
Having become a grudging realist
Who seldom reminisces or remembers.
You will return—and less bewitched than lately,

Turf Luck: The Broadway Set is still groaning over the Derby and the way Arcaro and "Hill Prince" were pocketed by the field at the start.

It recalls the top upset in horse racing, the result of a feud between Earl Sande and Sonny Workman. Happened in 1930. (The Travers Stakes) and the Smart-Money had it figured as a Ding-Dong between Gallant Fox with Sande up and Which-one with Workman in the irons.

The two jockeys spent so much time working on each other that Jim Dandy (a rank outsider long-shot) romped in. Paying 100 to 1.

Then there's that celebrated telegram from the track addict in Florida to his Best Pal in N. Y. "Weather Clear Track Fast Racing Never Better I've Got Them Yelling Uncle Wire Me 100."

Our favorite was uttered by Dennis James—a veteran $2 bettor, after an uneventful matinee at Belmont. "It was a nice afternoon," he intoned. "We managed to lose very slowly."

From the N. Y. Times book reviewing section: "Jaunty prose spangled with high hyperboles."

We allus say exaggerations.

The same gazette's front page: "Former members of Denazification Boards in Germany cannot get gov't jobs because, in some cases, many of the very men they classified as Nazis have them."

Now you cut that out! Evvyone knows Mr. McCloy "is stamping out the last vestiges of Nazism"!

Item: "Recital by Russian Bass."

Reds See Red! We recently described the editorial staff at The Daily Worker as greasy-looking. The Scummunist rag retaliated: "As for his vulgar description of Worker staffers, we hate to seem petty, but have you seen a picture of Winchell lately?"

Variety, Radio Daily and several TV critics did, Comrat. "He is photogenic. Has nothing to worry about. Comes over as a natural, dynamic personality. Will bring to TV. the excitement that news presentation needs."

PITCHING HORSESHOES

THE MELODY LINGERS ON

The day before Oscar Hammerstein II left for London to wet-nurse the production of "Carousel" at the Drury Lane Theater, we took a stroll in Central park, and near the zoo we stopped to watch a couple of little girls who were skipping rope and chanting an old nursery rhyme:

"Lucy Locket lost her pocket,
Kitty Fisher found it . . ."

If that jingle were called "Bibbidy Boo,' I said in my best professional manner, it would probably make the hit parade."

"As a matter of fact," said America's most successful lyricist, "it once did. Almost two hundred years ago under the name of Kitty Fisher's Jig' it was the most popular song in London. But if the mothers of those kids knew the facts about Miss Fisher, they'd wash their mouths out with soap. . . ."

According to Oscar, back in 1761 a heady hunk of gal by the name of Kitty Fisher hit London like the Kinsey Report, and before the year was out her list of boy friends included Admiral Anson, Britain's foremost sailor, and General Ligonier, the King's top soldier. A scribe of the period wrote her up as "the most pretty, witty, extravagant, wicked little light o' love that ever flourished," and as if that weren't enough the famous bachelor, Lord Pembroke, announced he would even commit matrimony for the delectable doxie.

The following year, when caperous Kitty skinned her pretty knees falling off a horse, the sedate public advertiser ran a long elegy to their dimples, and not long after one of her admirers wrote the Lucy Locket song which, under the titie of "Kitty Fisher's Jig," became the "I'd Have Baked a Cake" of its day.

In 1766, when the devil-take-it damsel was anathema to almost every wife in England, she crossed everybody up by marrying John Norris, Jr., a young member of parliament from Kent who was more souse than statesman. His family promptly announced it was going to cut him off without a kipper, but Kitty, with her knowledge of human husbandry, did such a bang-up job of straightening him out that the Norrises relented and welcomed the couple to their hearts and hearth.

Unfortunately, a few months after she gave up other women's husbands to domesticate one of her own, Kitty upped and died. She was buried in the family vault with full honors, and so ended the saga of the trollop who went from minx to matron in five fast years.

By a nice twist, eight years after her death the jingle which bore her name became respectable too. A copy of "Kitty Fisher's Jig" found its way to Massachusetts where someone put new words to it, and it was sung around most of the better campfires during the American Revolution.

You've whistled it hundreds of times. It's called "Yankee Doodle."

BIBLE THOUGHTS:

The sin of Judah is written with a pen of iron, and with the point of a diamond: it is graven upon the table of their heart, and upon the horns of your altars.—Jeremiah 17:1.

Though some of you with Pilate wash your hands showing an outward pity; yet you Pilates have here deliver'd me to my sour cross, and water cannot wash away your sin.

Nicky Hilton, Elizabeth Taylor's brand new husband, put his bride's studio behind the eight-ball the other day when he had newspaper photographers chasing all over Los Angeles to get a picture of the couple after he had failed to keep a studio - arranged appointment with the newsmen. As a matter of fact, throughout the busy whirl of events leading up to the marriage, young Hilton has tried to avoid publicity. Tha'ts perfectly understandable, but I'm afraid that Nicky, as the spouse of Hollywood's most celebrated young star, is going to find himself in the spotlight much of the time. He'd be wise to accept the situation and quit dodging. With a girl like Elizabeth Taylor by his side, he shouldn't find the burden too hard to bear.

Despite Errol Flynn's heated protests against any more western movie assignments, Warner Brothers is blissfully going ahead with plans for "Rocky Mountain," which will find him once more playing a rugged hero of the wide open spaces. This was when Flynn's rebellions were effective; in those days his studio bosses wanted nothing more than they wanted his happiness. But now it seems that the more Flynn is displeased, the more cause his employers have for rejoicing. The reason isn't too obscure for surmise. Flynn, during the peak of his popularity, was given one of the most fabulous contracts ever issued to a star. It not only pays him far more, per picture, than today's market can justify; it also runs for too many years. If Errol Flynn should happen to loose his temper under this barrage of westerns and demand a release from contract, I don't think his bosses would grieve. Neither do I think that they will ever again be reckless enough to hand another star so lush a ticket.

Some weeks ago, I had a letter from one Joseph C. Hollister, who works in the composing room of the Chicago Sun-Times, and who wanted to offer a suggestion for a regular weekly department in this column, a department which would give the present whereabouts and status of the great screen stars of yesterday. The idea appealed to me, but, after an all-out try I'll have to give it up. Too many of the ex-stars have disappeared so completely that Hollywood, today, has no knowledge of their whereabouts. I doubt that there's ever been another industry so completely disinterested in yesterday's heroes.

Looking Ahead—

In Washington

WASHINGTON — U. S. Communists are preparing to go underground if they have to.

Informed officials say the Reds had a "fire drill" a few months ago. They all disappeared over an entire week-end, just for practice.

These officials say there's no such thing as a "card carrying Communist" in this country anymore. Party members quit carrying cards when the anti-Communist campaign got too tough.

The party newspaper, The Daily Worker, has quit publishing membership figures too.

Worried

WASHINGTON—(AP)—State and defense department officials are worried that Americans — and western peoples generally — do not share their concern over the sustained crisis in the cold war.

Information here is that Secretary Acheson told the French and British foreign ministers last week that the western powers have at most four years to put their defenses in order.

Their defenses in order.

Acheson's statement was based on studies indicating that Russia, with atomic weapons now in its possession, will have a dangerously large lead in military power over the United States by 1954.

Wheat

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Bugs and dry weather will force wheat growers to delay for at least another year their plans to build a livestock industry on wheat surpluses.

With big export markets dwingling, growers had been looking for other outlets. Tests showed wheat about as good as any grain for feed.

But this year's crop now looks like the smallest in seven years. Every bushel must be held for human food.

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Hebrew prophet, Micah, lived in the eighth century before Christ, but from that far-off age, in the book of prophecy that bears his name, has come a simple, exact definition of religion that is among the most often quoted of Biblical precepts.

It is a definition of duty. As such it demands for the full definition of religion the gospel concerning the God, who is the source of life and love, and the true object of man's worship.

The gospel defines the Godward aspect of religion, but the manward aspect is set forth in these simple, adequate words: 'He (God) hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humble with thy God?" (Micah 6:8.)

Beside it might be put the similarly simple and exact definition by James, the brother of Our Lord: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." (James 1:27.)

James defines religion in particular and specific acts, but acts that are symbolic of the entire Christian spirit and attitude. The definition in Micah is in more general and all-inclusive terms.

What is to be noted about these simple definitions of religion is that they stand in contrast to, and in protest against, formal profession and elaborate practice of ritual that lacks the soul of sincerity, and the reality of goodness in our words and deeds.

In a similar way, and in the same spirit, Amos had spoken even more strongly, as he observed the outward observance of religious forms and rites, that lacked the true response of the soul to the God of righteousness and truth. Amos represents the Lord as saying, "I hate, I despise your feast days, and I will not smell in your solemn assemblies," and demanding that judgment run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream. (Amos 5:21-24.)

I am not a pessimist concerning the church and religious life today. I know too well the many devout souls, the sincerity of whose daily lives matches the sincerity of their devotion. I would that many who do not know the meaning or practice of worship might be brought into the house of God and the observance of religion.

Nevertheless, I think I see in many quarters a present emphasis upon the outward forms of worship that lacks emphasis upon inward grace and truth. I think we need to consider well the plain words of Micah and Amos.

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

MISSION TO MOSCOW

Most editors approve U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie's visit to Moscow in search of some way to bridge the widening gulf between the eastern and western worlds. But the large majority doubts that he will achieve anything worthwhile. However, a minority of considerable number has some hope that Lie might be able to pave the way for a least restoring the U. N. as an east-west meeting place. Only a small minority questions Lie's U. N. authority for the mission, or fears the wisdom of it as a possible vehicle for a phony Soviet "peace offensive."

Oakland (Calif.) Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "In the U. N. charter the secretary general is enjoined 'not to seek or receive instructions from any government or from any other authority external to the organization.' It is going to take some adroit semantics to explain Lie's mission to Moscow, since the source of his authority to make it is far from clear. . . . Lie is trying the old tactics of appeasing the Russians who are trying to force the U. N. to accept their Communist China satellite. . . ."

Hartford (Conn.) Courant (Rep.): "As secretary general . . . it is fitting for Lie to do all the can to see that the U. N. functions. . . . He hopes to restore the U. N. to a position of influence in settling differences among the great powers. Finally, he would like to see a conference of the top leaders of those nations under U. N. auspices. . . . But it is hard to see how Mr. Lie can hope to persuade the Russians to abandon their present anti-social attitude, unless they are convinced it is to their own advantage."

Chicago Sun-Times (Ind.): "Lie has been trying to conciliate differences among the great powers for several weeks. It's a good assumption that he became convinced in Washington, London and Paris that a trip to Moscow might bring some results. He warns, however, not to expect immediate and great results. . . . We must be strong at home and strengthen our friends abroad. . . . But . . . real understanding will come only after the kind of patient negotiation . . . for which the United Nations was created and to which Mr. Lie now devotes himself."

San Diego (Calif.) Tribune-Sun (Rep.): "Even if he overcomes Russian hostility, Mr. Lie will have an equally difficult task when he returns to U. N. headquarters. This task will be to convince the rest of the world that Russia's word can be relied upon. Russia has played fast and loose, breaking treaties, agreements and promises. Even if Mr. Lie obtains a pledge of fidelity to the written and spoken word, how can he convince the world that the pledge will not be broken?"

Pittsburgh (Pa.) Post - Gazette (Ind.): "While Lie's grandiose plan, that meetings of the security council—at which heads of state or foreign ministers would sit in—be held in Europe to try and settle the cold war, seems certain to fall through, Mr. Lie might be able to pave the way for an acceptable compromise on the China question by which the U. N. can be made to operate again. . . . As long as there is a meeting place,' there is at least opportunity for agreement."

Youngstown (Ohio) Vindicator (Ind.-Dem.): "Stalin may want to renew Russian participation in U. N. activities, interrupted by his boycott over the issue of admitting the Chinese Communist government. Stalin's purposes, indeed, may impel him to pretend full agreement with Lie. He might well try to make the U. N. envoy the tool of a Communist 'peace offensive' . . attend a world conference, and then blame the western 'warmongers' for a failure actually caused by the Russians."

New Orleans (La.) Times-Picayune (Ind.-Dem.): "It has been hinted that the Soviet Union will even promise to stop encouraging civil wars and fifth column penetration if the United States will recognize Communist China. Unfortunately, the western allies need something much more substantial and trustworthy than a Red promise. Perhaps here is the explanation of the sudden offer by Russia to negotiate the Austrian peace treaty. But the question for us is: Would we be getting enough quid from Russia for our quo?"

Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal (Ind.-Dem.): "We do not share Lie's apparent belief that the Chinese crisis is the all-important one. If, however, the Soviet behavior pattern in this instance . . . is purely symptomatic, that is another matter. . . . Any chance to end the cold war by super-security council conferences certainly should be explored. But if a firm article of Soviet policy is to obstruct the U. N. for the mere sake of obstruction, little may be expected of Mr. Lie's mission."

Soviet Parliament To Convene June 12th

LONDON, May 13.—(AP)—The supreme Soviet of the U. S. S. R., Russia's parliament, was summoned today to meet June 12, the Moscow radio announced.

The broadcast did not give a reason.

The supreme Soviet consists of two houses, the Council of nion, composed of 682 members, and the Council of Nationalities, with 657 members.

DOWN SOUTH

IS THERE NO BALM IN GILEAD?

Whether we realize it or not, we are witnessing the decadence of self-reliance and independence, we are witnessing the denial of honesty and thrift as basic characteristics of the American way of life. Yet these are the qualities which made America great—and if we continue to betray them, we can only look forward to the United States of America joining the ranks of other nations that can only look back to a glorious past.

All this has come about because we are now worshipping the false God of Security—a security provided not by our own individual efforts but provided by our government. We are ignoring the fact that the government can only provide security to the extent by which the people furnish the means with which it may be provided. We are forgetting that the only real security a man can have in this world is the opportunity to do something for himself.

This whole question is graphically illustrated by the current stampede toward "pensions for all." The philosophy back of "pensions for all" is that it is the responsibility of the government to care for the aged. The proponents of any such plan either do not in effect, governmental ownership know or do not care that it means, and control of all wealth, all production, all consumption—all individuals.

If all the wealth of the United States today, presumed to be worth approximately $619 billion, were put into one giant pension fund and managed as well as private life insurance companies have been able to do in recent years, the annual income from the fund would be about $15.5 billion. If this were divided equally between the 12 million people aged 65 or over, the individual monthly income would amount to $108. It would be noted this pension fund must embrace the ownership of all land and mines and factories and tools and homes and goods — everything. There would be left no other investment opportunity—no means by which any individual might save for his own account; all savings, all wealth, would be swallowed up into this pension fund.

Whether or not this would be an adequate amount for each person of retirement age is not the real danger in any such scheme. The devastating thing about it is that it would kill all progress. Under such a "plan," each elderly person would be allowed $108 a month, and nothing more. There could no longer be any accumulation of an estate to leave to one's family. There could no longer be any privately endowed colleges or other charitable institutions. There would no longer be any personal ownership of homes, farms, offices, or anything else. The pension fund would own all property.

In this manner incentive would be killed and progress would die. No one would have either the incentive or the opportunity to save, to create, to accumulate. No one would be responsible for his own future or could accept the responsibility for the future of his children. There would be no incentive to build new factories or replace worn out tools or invent such things as automobiles, airplanes, radio, television—all of which our individual enterprise system has produced in abundance for the better living of all the people.

Does this seem fantastic? The proponents of government responsibility for the aged would no doubt deny they have any such method in mind. But how else would they accomplish their aim? How else could the government guarantee this $108 per month pension to all the retired—unless it simply printed enough new dollars each month to distribute to all the pensioners?

When the prophet Jeremiah asked the rhetorical question. "Is there no balm in Gilead?", he was lamenting the fact that his people were running off after false Gods, he said their only salvation was a return to the true God. the time is here when the American people must ask themselves the same question, and must realize the same solution.

Charge Maltreatment Of Mental Patients

BATON ROUGE, La., May 13. —(AP)—Charges of maltreating patients have been filed against two attendants at Louisiana's mental hospital, the superintendent said today.

Dr. L. F. MaGruder said he filed the charges with the East Feliciana parish district attorney yesterday against Talmadge Holloway, 21, of Jackson and W. T. Avants, 22, of Baywood.

He said Holloway was charged on three counts and Avants on one at the East Louisiana state hospital, Jackson. The patients were not seriously injured, he said.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

SHORT WAVE RESEARCH

Digging into the documentation of queer activities during the war years, I came across Short Wave Research, Inc., an organization established to get around civil service laws, so that aliens might be brought into this country more speedily. The keystone of Short Wave Research activities was a contract with OWI—office of war information, the head of which was Elmer Davis.

Miss Frances Elizabeth Keene, one of the managers of this enterprise, explained before a congressional committee why and how this organization came into being:

". . . As you know, the war, although most people did not foresee it, came suddenly. . . . It was immediately essential to obtain writers and translators, who would not be employed on government pay rolls when they weren't needed, in other words, wouldn't be sitting around drawing government salaries when there was no work for them but who would be available and reliable when a crisis in a particular country occurred or material had to be translated in a hurry to meet a specific need. At that time, which was shortly before Pearl Harbor, there was no enabling legislation to permit the civil service commission so to employ people. . . ."

(Of course, before Pearl Harbor this country was not supposed to be at war.)

The organizers of Short Wave Research, Inc. were apparently James Warburg, Edward C. Carter of the Institute of Pacific Relations, Mrs. Marya Blow, David Seiferfeld and Harold Cheney.

Among the 150,000,000 Americans, there obviously are plenty of persons who speak German, Italian, French, Scandinavian, etc. Therefore, Eugene Garey, counsel to the congressional committee, was astonished that the OWI or any other organization of government would have to organize an outside employment agency to beat the civil service. So, Miss Keene was asked this question:

". . . . Representatives of the OWI also have testified in substance that Short Wave Research, Inc., was organized for the specific purpose of recruiting alien refugees. Is that substantially so?"

To which Miss Keene answered:

"A. . . . The people first employed were, I believe, without exception non-citizens, aliens in many cases who were not refugees —if by refugees we imply people who had no choice but to leave the homelands. For example, Scandinavians couldn't be called refugees at that time. They were here for other reasons; they came voluntarily before Hitler had anything to do with the present world war. In many cases some had come more recently. When possible, for obvious reasons we tried to get persons who had left their homelands recently. We felt they would be familiar with every phase of the idiom and know what happened six months ago. . . . That may have given rise to the statement that our personnel was largely composed of refugees."

he nearest figure I can find is that Short Wave Research, Inc., brought into the United States 400 aliens in time of war. These aliens were given positions as writers, translators, commentators and even censors on radio. In fact, Americans were put off the air to make room for some of them.

Short Wave Research, Inc., and the OWI were so closely attached and affiliated that on occasions aliens and in some cases citizens were sent by the OWI to Short Wave for employment by the OWI. This may sound screwy, so I give you an explanation from the record:

". . . Because they (OWI) wished, logically enough, to test the value of a man over the air before they hired him for keeps. As you know, if you are employed by the civil servic eyou have tenure, and you hesitate to deprive a man of his job if he is hired permanently, so persons on a trial basis or purely for part time were frequently sent to us. This didn't develop at first, but only after they required American visas. At first they needed foreign-language translators. When the volume grew they wanted naturally to test out the suitability of script writers, and so forth, and they asked us if we would pay those people. . . ."

So, here is a quiet organization about which congress knew nothing and the public knew nothing, which set itself up to bring in aliens—and to give them immediate employment on the public payroll.

Here is another index to the queer things that happened—so queer that they are unbelievable. Yet they did happen.

Woman Killed, Man Hurt In B. R. Shooting

BATON ROUGE, La., May 13. —(AP)—City police today reported the death of a woman and the wounding of a man in a shooting here yesterday.

A coroner's jury said the woman was shot by the man, who is reported recovering from gunshot wounds in a hospital here.

Chief of Police Fred M. Parker, identified them as Miss Josephine Guerico, about 31, and Edgar Cline, about 37. He said Miss Guerico's body was found in a parked car on a residential street and Cline was sprawled nearby.

District Attorney Fred S. LeBlanc said no charges have been filed and "the investigation will continue."

BUSINESS SLOWED BY RAIL STRIKE

Some Segments Of Industry Hit Glancing Blow At Start

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—The railroad strike brought a quick slowdown in business and industry this week.

Some segments of the economy were hit a glancing blow almost at the start of the walkout of firemen on four key rail systems. Coal mines, produce merchants and the railroads themselves were hurt most by the initial impact.

If it lasts very long, repercussions will be felt in all directions and eventually the lack of transportation will bring mass unemployment, disrupted production schedules, piled-un freight and a high degree of confusion and uncertainty.

How much damage it will do to the spring boomlet in business remains to be seen. Railroad service itself is as perishable as any commodity it transports. You cannot store it up like you can coal, steel, potatoes and grain.

Most lines of business are wholly or at least partly dependent on speedy railroad service to bring the things needed to work with and to take away the finished products as soon as they roll out. There is no substitute for this lifeline to the factory, the farm, the mine and store. Trucks are a help but they cannot meet the demands in full.

The rail tieup came at a time when a big majority of basic lines of business was riding the crest of a strong tide generated by the pentup demand for good created by the strikes in steel and coal last winter.

Home building and other construction activity was never better than now. There is a large backlog of unsatisfied demand for motor cars, especially the lower-priced modles. The steel industry is wringing the last ounce of finished products out of men and machines in order to fill pipe lines and build inventories depleted by the winter strikes.

Other basic lines of business such as paper and paperboard, refineries, electric light and power, coal mining, agriculture and merchandising are doing exceptionally well judged by any normal standards, although not all of them are as prosperous as they have been at one time or another in the last decade.

If the strike in the transportation field lasts very long it will have a serious impact at all levels of business and industry. Some analysts think it will give a big push to the series of inflationary wavelets that have been breaking over the national economy in the form of hikes in manufactured items, especially anything using metal. If industrial production is further hampered by labor discord at a time when national buying power is at a record high, you are almost certain to see a new wave of price increases all along the line.

Lead and zinc prices moved up again this week. Here were persistent reports that copper was due for another hike. Wool blanket prices were raised by a major maker. An increase in automobile machine tool items was expected by some. Steel scrap advanced $2 a ton at Pittsburgh and a wide variety of foods cost tore.

The Associated Press index of 35 important commodities at wholesale registered its seventh consecutive new high for 1950 on Friday. The Dun & Bradstreet index moved during the week to its highest point since last August.

While the rail strike had some effect on production and other statistics this week, it did not come in time to prevent some sparkling performances.

Automobile output was the highest in history at 177,898 units assembled in this country and Canada. It was far ahead of last week's 146,337 and reflected the return of Chrysler to production after 100 days of idleness due to a strike. Last year motor car output totaled 118,199 units for a comparable week.

Lover Boy Sinatra Might Get Brushoff

GERONA, Spain, May 13.—(AP)—Bullfighter Mario Cabre said today he is "profoundly in love" with Actress Ava Gardner and "upset" over the visit Frank Sinatra is paying at her villa in nearby Tossa.

The crooner, who is separated from his wife, brought Miss Gardner an emerald necklace valued at $10,000.

Cabre said in an interview that he hoped to marry the American movie star who has previously been married to Bandleader Artie Shaw and Actor Mickey Rooney.

The husky handsome Spaniard said he left Tossa when Sinatra arrived "in order not to create a difficult situation for Ava."

But he lamented, "I am really sad" over the separation which has lasted three days now.

Cabre denied the romance was an effort to create publicity for a picture he, Miss Gardner and James Mason are filming here.

"No! not that!" he said. "I have no commercial spirit. Don't forget that I am a poet."

"I love Ava with all my heart and never will be able to forget her," Cabre declared. "She has frequently told me that she loves me. But now God alone has our destinies in his hands."

Curtain Call

by Sue Williams

Friday evening closed the first week of rehearsal for the P. G. Wodehouse adaptation of "Candle-Light", hilarious comedy and sixth play of the season, which will bring to a close this years activities of your Little Theatre. We have dubbed this play extra in every respect and if the hoard of visitors to Friday evenings practice are any indication, it is already beginning to live up to our fondest expectations.

Bob Whipple who first came under the spell of Little Theatre in his role of the husband in "Her Husband's Wife" was present with lovely Ann Crandell who could and should be seen in one of Little Theatre's presentations. Ted Landhy, newly elected to the board of directors and responsible for some of our most effective lighting, was on hand to look things over, as was Julius Cahn, Dotsy Fountain and Betty Baldridge, all faithful workers in this years successes. W. L. "Dubb" Moore, home from L. S. U. for Mothers Day weekend, was another interested visitor. Scott Grandy on leave for the week end from his travels, was present to see wife, Edith in the leading role of Marie.

Roy Holloway, who is sure to add his bit of comedy in the role of the waiter for "Candle-Light", came direct to rehearsal from the Jaycee softball game, still in his ball toggs. Roy was a little hoarse. Don't know whether this was occasioned by his sprint to get to the theater or his enthusiastic ball playing.

Random Notes — There will be a meeting of the board of directors for Little Theatre on Sunday afternoon, just preceeding the first full rehearsal of "Candle-Light." . . . For a real treat listen to the special Mothers Day program over a local radio station at 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon. Camille Hancock Wood, winner of the amature contest last February, will sing and Dotsy Fountain whom you saw as Olive in "The Voice of the Turtle" will read a special Mothers Day poem. . . . Mrs. Estelle Sanders will present her annual recital on Monday evening May 15, 8:15 p.m. at O. P. H. S. auditorium. The costumes direct from New Orleans will probably out dazzle previous years, and we understand they have been working on the unusual stage settings for several months. With all this as a back ground for the wonderful music such as we heard last year at her recital makes it a sure must on the list of entertainment.

Siamese Twins Will Undergo Surgery

EDMONTON, May 13. —(AP)—Final arrangements were completed at Royal Alexandra Hospital today for a complex operation tomorrow morning in which a team of Edmonton surgeons will attempt to separate Siamese twins Brenda and Beverley Townsend.

Dr. R. R. Easton, hospital superintendent, announced today that the operation would begin at 9 a.m. (11 a.m. (E.S.T.). It is not expected to take more than two hours.

Thurman Sensing,

Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council:

DOWN SOUTH

IS THERE NO BALM IN GILEAD?

Whether we realize it or not, we are witnessing the decadence of self-reliance and independence, we are witnessing the denial of honesty and thrift as basic characteristics of the American way of life. Yet these are the qualities which made America great—and if we continue to betray them, we can only look forward to the United States of America joining the ranks of other nations that can only look back to a glorious past.

All this has come about because we are now worshipping the false God of Security—a security provided not by our own individual efforts but provided by our government. We are ignoring the fact that the government can only provide security to the extent by which the people furnish the means with which it may be provided. We are forgetting that the only real security a man can have in this world is the opportunity to do something for himself.

This whole question is graphically illustrated by the current stampede toward "pensions for all." The philosophy back of "pensions for all" is that it is the responsibility of the government to care for the aged. The proponents of any such plan either do not in effect, governmental ownership know or do not care that it means, and control of all wealth, all production, all consumption—all individuals.

If all the wealth of the United States today, presumed to be worth approximately $619 billion, were put into one giant pension fund and managed as well as private life insurance companies have been able to do in recent years, the annual income from the fund would be about $15.5 billion. If this were divided equally between the 12 million people aged 65 or over, the individual monthly income would amount to $108. It would be noted this pension fund must embrace the ownership of all land and mines and factories and tools and homes and goods — everything. There would be left no other investment opportunity—no means by which any individual might save for his own account; all savings, all wealth, would be swallowed up into this pension fund.

Whether or not this would be an adequate amount for each person of retirement age is not the real danger in any such scheme. The devastating thing about it is that it would kill all progress. Under such a "plan," each elderly person would be allowed $108 a month, and nothing more. There could no longer be any accumulation of an estate to leave to one's family. There could no longer be any privately endowed colleges or other charitable institutions. There would no longer be any personal ownership of homes, farms, offices, or anything else. The pension fund would own all property.

In this manner incentive would be killed and progress would die. No one would have either the incentive or the opportunity to save, to create, to accumulate. No one would be responsible for his own future or could accept the responsibility for the future of his children. There would be no incentive to build new factories or replace worn out tools or invent such things as automobiles, airplanes, radio, television—all of which our individual enterprise system has produced in abundance for the better living of all the people.

Does this seem fantastic? The proponents of government responsibility for the aged would no doubt deny they have any such method in mind. But how else would they accomplish their aim? How else could the government guarantee this $108 per month pension to all the retired—unless it simply printed enough new dollars each month to distribute to all the pensioners?

When the prophet Jeremiah asked the rhetorical question. "Is there no balm in Gilead?", he was lamenting the fact that his people were running off after false Gods, he said their only salvation was a return to the true God. the time is here when the American people must ask themselves the same question, and must realize the same solution.

Charge Maltreatment Of Mental Patients

BATON ROUGE, La., May 13. —(AP)—Charges of maltreating patients have been filed against two attendants at Louisiana's mental hospital, the superintendent said today.

Dr. L. F. MaGruder said he filed the charges with the East Feliciana parish district attorney yesterday against Talmadge Holloway, 21, of Jackson and W. T. Avants, 22, of Baywood.

He said Holloway was charged on three counts and Avants on one at the East Louisiana state hospital, Jackson. The patients were not seriously injured, he said.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

SHORT WAVE RESEARCH

Digging into the documentation of queer activities during the war years, I came across Short Wave R search, Inc., an organization established to get around civil service laws, so that aliens might be brought into this country more speedily. The keystone of Short Wave Research activities was a contract with OWI—office of war information, the head of which was Elmer Davis.

Miss Frances Elizabeth Keene, one of the managers of this tnterprise, explained before a congressional committee why and how this organization came into being:

". . . As you know, the war, although most people did not foresee it, came suddenly. . . . It was immediately essential to obtain writers and translators, who would not be employed on government pay rolls when they weren't needed, in other words, wouldn't be sitting around drawing government salaries when there was no work for them but who would be available and reliable when a crisis in a particular country occurred or material had to be translated in a hurry to meet a specific need. At that time, which was shortly before Pearl Harbor, there was no enabling legislation to permit the civil service commission so to employ people. . . ."

(Of course, before Pearl Harbor this country was not supposed to be at war.)

The organizers of Short Wave Research, Inc. were apparently James Warburg, Edward C. Carter of the Institute of Pacific Relations, Mrs. Marya Blow, David Seiferfeld and Harold Cheney.

Among the 150,000,000 Americans, there obviously are plenty of persons who speak German, Italian, French, Scandinavian, etc. Therefore, Eugene Garey, counsel to the congressional committee, was astonished that the OWI or any other organization of government would have to organize an outside employment agency to beat the civil service. So, Miss Keene was asked this question:

". . . . Representatives of the OWI also have testified in substance that Short Wave Research, Inc., was organized for the specific purpose of recruiting alien refugees. Is that substantially so?"

To which Miss Keene answered:

"A. . . . The people first employed were, I believe, without exception non-citizens, aliens in many cases who were not refugees —if by refugees we imply people who had no choice but to leave the homelands. For example, Scandinavians couldn't be called refugees at that time. They were here for other reasons; they came voluntarily before Hitler had anything to do with the present world war. In many cases some had come more recently. When possible, for obvious reasons we tried to get persons who had left their homelands recently. We felt they would be familiar with every phase of the idiom and know what happened six months ago. . . . That may have given rise to the statement that our personnel was largely composed of refugees."

he nearest figure I can find is that Short Wave Research, Inc., brought into the United States 400 aliens in time of war. These aliens were given positions as writers, translators, commentators and even censors on radio. In fact, Americans were put off the air to make room for some of them.

Short Wave Research, Inc., and the OWI were so closely attached and affiliated that on occasions aliens and in some cases citizens were sent by the OWI to Short Wave for employment by the OWI. This may sound screwy, so I give you an explanation from the record:

"... Because they (OWI) wished, logically enough, to test the value of a man over the air before they hired him for keeps. As you know, if you are employed by the civil servic eyou have tenure, and you hesitate to deprive a man of his job if he is hired permanently, so persons on a trial basis or purely for part time were frequently sent to us. This didn't develop at first, but only after they required American visas. At first they needed foreign-language translators. When the volume grew they wanted naturally to test out the suitability of script writers, and so forth, and they asked us if we would pay those people. . . ."

So, here is a quiet organization about which congress knew nothing and the public knew nothing, which set itself up to bring in aliens—and to give them immediate employment on the public payroll.

Here is another index to the queer things that happened—so queer that they are unbelievable. Yet they did happen.

Woman Killed, Man Hurt In B. R. Shooting

BATON ROUGE, La., May 13. —(AP)—City police today reported the death of a woman and the wounding of a man in a shooting here yesterday.

A coroner's jury said the woman was shot by the man, who is reported recovering from gunshot wounds in a hospital here.

Chief of Police Fred M. Parker, identified them as Miss Josephine Guerico, about 31, and Edgar Cline, about 37. He said Miss Guerico's body was found in a parked car on a residential street and Cline was sprawled nearby.

District Attorney Fred S. LeBlanc said no charges have been filed and "the investigation will continue."

BUSINESS SLOWED BY RAIL STRIKE

Some Segments Of Industry Hit Glancing Blow At Start

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—The railroad strike brought a quick slowdown in business and industry this week.

Some segments of the economy were hit a glancing blow almost at the start of the walkout of firemen on four key rail systems. Coal mines, produce merchants and the railroads themselves were hurt most by the initial impact.

If it lasts very long, repercussions will be felt in all directions and eventually the lack of transportation will bring mass unemployment, disrupted production schedules, piled-un freight and a high degree of confusion and uncertainty.

How much damage it will do to the spring boomlet in business remains to be seen. Railroad service itself is as perishable as any commodity it transports. You cannot store it up like you can coal, steel, potatoes and grain.

Most lines of business are wholly or at least partly dependent on speedy railroad service to bring the things needed to work with and to take away the finished products as soon as they roll out. There is no substitute for this lifeline to the factory, the farm, the mine and store. Trucks are a help but they cannot meet the demands in full.

The rail tieup came at a time when a big majority of basic lines of business was riding the crest of a strong tide generated by the pentup demand for good created by the strikes in steel and coal last winter.

Home building and other construction activity was never better than now. There is a large backlog of unsatisfied demand for motor cars, especially the lower-priced modles. The steel industry is wringing the last ounce of finished products out of men and machines in order to fill pipe lines and build inventories depleted by the winter strikes.

Other basic lines of business such as paper and paperboard, refineries, electric light and power, coal mining, agriculture and merchandising are doing exceptionally well judged by any normal standards, although not all of them are as prosperous as they have been at one time or another in the last decade.

If the strike in the transportation field lasts very long it will have a serious impact at all levels of business and industry. Some analysts think it will give a big push to the series of inflationary wavelets that have been breaking over the national economy in the form of hikes in manufactured items, especially anything using metal. If industrial production is further hampered by labor discord at a time when national buying power is at a record high, you are almost certain to see a new wave of price increases all along the line.

Lead and zinc prices moved up again this week. Here were persistent reports that copper was due for another hike. Wool blanket prices were raised by a major maker. An increase in automobile machine tool items was expected by some. Steel scrap advanced $2 a ton at Pittsburgh and a wide variety of foods cost tore.

The Associated Press index of 35 important commodities at wholesale registered its seventh consecutive new high for 1950 on Friday. The Dun & Bradstreet index moved during the week to its highest point since last August.

While the rail strike had some effect on production and other statistics this week, it did not come in time to prevent some sparkling performances.

Automobile output was the highest in history at 177,898 units assembled in this country and Canada. It was far ahead of last week's 146,337 and reflected the return of Chrysler to production after 100 days of idleness due to a strike. Last year motor car output totaled 118,199 units for a comparable week.

Lover Boy Sinatra Might Get Brushoff

GERONA, Spain, May 13.—(AP)—Bullfighter Mario Cabre said today he is "profoundly in love" with Actress Ava Gardner and "upset" over the visit Frank Sinatra is paying at her villa in nearby Tossa.

The crooner, who is separated from his wife, brought Miss Gardner an emerald necklace valued at $10,000.

Cabre said in an interview that he hoped to marry the American movie star who has previously been married to Bandleader Artie Shaw and Actor Mickey Rooney.

The husky handsome Spaniard said he left Tossa when Sinatra arrived "in order not to create a difficult situation for Ava."

But he lamented, "I am really sad" over the separation which has lasted three days now.

Cabre denied the romance was an effort to create publicity for a picture he, Miss Gardner and James Mason are filming here.

"No! not that!" he said. "I have no commercial spirit. Don't forget that I am a poet."

"I love Ava with all my heart and never will be able to forget her," Cabre declared. "She has frequently told me that she loves me. But now God alone has our destinies in his hands."

Curtain Call

by Sue Williams

Friday evening closed the first week of rehearsal for the P. G. Wodehouse adaptation of "Candle-Light", hilarious comedy and sixth play of the season, which will bring to a close this years activities of your Little Theatre. We have dubbed this play extra in every respect and if the hoard of visitors to Friday evenings practice are any indication, it is already beginning to live up to our fondest expectations.

Bob Whipple who first came under the spell of Little Theatre in his role of the husband in "Her Husband's Wife" was present with lovely Ann Crandell who could and should be seen in one of Little Theatre's presentations. Ted Landhy, newly elected to the board of directors and responsible for some of our most effective lighting, was on hand to look things over, as was Julius Cahn, Dotsy Fountain and Betty Baldridge, all faithful workers in this years successes. W. L. "Dubb" Moore, home from L. S. U. for Mothers Day weekend, was another interested visitor. Scott Grandy on leave for the week end from his travels, was present to see wife, Edith in the leading role of Marie.

Roy Holloway, who is sure to add his bit of comedy in the role of the waiter for "Candle-Light", came direct to rehearsal from the Jaycee softball game, still in his ball toggs. Roy was a little hoarse. Don't know whether this was occasioned by his sprint to get to the theater or his enthusiastic ball playing.

Random Notes — There will be a meeting of the board of directors for Little Theatre on Sunday afternoon, just preceeding the first full rehearsal of "Candle-Light." . . . For a real treat listen to the special Mothers Day program over a local radio station at 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon. Camille Hancock Wood, winner of the amature contest last February, will sing and Dotsy Fountain whom you saw as Olive in "The Voice of the Turtle" will read a special Mothers Day poem. . . . With all this as a back ground for the wonderful music such as we heard last year at her recital makes it a sure must on the list of entertainment.

MONROE FIREMEN GET TECHNICAL KNOWLEDGE

School Board, M. F. D. Unite For Protection

By Percy Fant
(Of The Morning World Staff)

The Monroe Fire Departent—and the Ouachita Parish School Board—have joined hands to assure the city of "first-class fire-fighters."

It all adds up to giving Monroe firemen important technical knowledge to go with the practical experience which they have demonstrated so excellently in the past.

The Monroe Fire Department, under the leadership of its chief, H. L. Hales, has, in the past several years, made strides in affording the city with as good a fire-fighting unit as was possible under existing conditions. Their good showing in the past can be attributed to the ability and excellent leadership of the department, not its out-dated equipment.

The firemen's school, currently being conducted by two experienced and able officers of the M. F. D., Capt. J. W. Faler and Homer D. Massingale, is just one of a number of stetps the local Fire Department is taking to better educate its personnel in modern methods of extinguishing fires. Cooperating with the carrying on of the school are the State Dekpartment of Education, the State Fire College, and the Veterans' Administration.

(Veteran members of the Fire Department take their courses while off duty and are paid subsistance allowances by the Veterans' Administration. Non-veterans on the M. F. D. are given the courses while on duty.)

The first of two classes presently being given instructions at the local firemen's school, got underway August, 1949, and was the first such school to begin in Louisiana. Another class began last April 1. It takes two years to complete the entire course.

If you think modern fire-fighting is simple, then take a look at some of the courses and what they include:

Orientation — 24 hours of it — includes rules and regulations of the department, safety rules and practices, keeping time sheets and cleaning fire equipment.

Care and Use of Small Tools and Minor Equipment: 84 hours, including such tools as: the flat head axe, the pick axe, buster bar, crow bar, hammer head pick, hook, Kelly tool, tin roof cutter and window breaker.

Then there's the salvage tools: the auger, brooms, fork, salvage covers, mops, shovels and squeeges, all used to reduce fire loss.

Ladders may be simple to some folks, but to firemen they occupy a very important part of their careers. In the school, they learn how to care for their ladders, how to use them safely, how to carry them, raise, climb, inspect and test the ladders.

Probably most essential to modern fire-fighters are hose lines. Putting these to good use requires proper handling of a number of things. The school gives firemen the correct method of:

Operating hoses, turning a fire plug off and on, the proper method by which one man can connect and disconnect a hose, how to regulate the pressure, nozzles, names of different hose lines, the use of small lines, use of Siamese lines, etc.

Firemen are also taught how to tie various knots and when to use each; how to enter a burning building, to give first aid, when to use gas masks, the operation of a motor and pump, ventilation, salvage work and how to properly inspect buildings.

The classes were outlines by Robert A. Bogan, superintendent of the State Fire College.

Upon completion of the school, firemen will receive certificates of graduation.

Veterans of adjoining towns and cities are permitted to enter the firemen's school upon presentation of a certificate of eligibility to Ouachita Parish School Supt. Mack Avants. This will provide trained firemen for communities where there are not enough men to provide a class. The classes meet thaee times weekly.

Bobby Johnson's Homer Pays Off In Goods, Cash

Wednesday's home-run by Bobby Johnson, 23-year-old right hander for the Monroe Sports, paid off—thanks to local merchants.

Johnson's in-side-the-park four-bagger was the first for the Sports here this season, and netted him a new wrist watch, four shirts underwear, trousers, a steak dinner, free dry cleaning, and twenty-five dollars cash. Local merchants had posted the prizes at the beginning of the season for the first player to hit a rome-run in the local baseball field.

Johnson had slammed a ball out of the Pine Bluff, Ark. field the day before. That was his first homer for the year. Only other Sport so far to hit a four-bagger is Len Morrison.

A right-hand pitcher for the Sports, Johnson has a three-win, no-loss record thus far. He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Johnson, of Shreveport, was born in Shreveport and won honorable mention and all-state in northeast Louisiana as halfback for Fairpark high school in 1943-44.

Johnson is a graduate of Northwestern State College, Natchitoches, La., lettered three years in baseball and football at Fairpark high school and at Northwestern. Last season he played for Alexandria in the Evangeline League.

Hirohito Is Getting To Be People's Pal

By William Jorden

TAKAMATSU Japan—Emperor Hirohito is getting to be quite a campaigner.

He's shown that on his meet-the-people tour of southern Japan. Oh, he's minor league by American political standards. But he's major league by those of Japan.

The small, bespectacled monarch of Japan's 83,000,000 people was a somewhat scared and uncertain man when he began the tours in 1946.

He had little idea where he stood either with his conquerors or his own people. There was talk of abolishing the job of emperor, or of trying him as a war criminal.

He's "Humanized"

Advisers had suggested the emperor get out among the people and be "humanized". Like his predecessors since the earliest days of Japan's history, Hirohito did as he was told.

Neither emperor nor the people knew what to do on those first tours. The people hadn't been allowed to look on him and cheer before. But they caught on fast.

Hirohito had to be told when to stop, when to walk, when to acknowledge cheers of the crowds. His only comment was the oft-repeated "Ah, soo," meaning "is that so?"

Learns His Role

Look at him four years later. That early anxiety and most of the nervousness is gone. He reacts without prompting, smiles and returns the greeting when the crowd roar "Banzai" (Japanese version of "long live the king" meaning "10,000 years.")

The emperor still says "Ah soo", but he is becoming adept at ad lib comments and asking questions about things that interest him.

The feelings of the Japanese for their emperor have not been changed much by Hirohito's renunciation of "divinity" or by the new constitution making the emperor simply a symbol of state.

You see that when you watch the faces of elderly Japanese lined up to pay their respects to Hirohito.

At a reception held near here hundreds of these old folks knelt on straw mats for several hours before his arrival.

As Hirohito passed, his subjects bowed until their foreheads almost touched the ground. Tears streamed down their cheeks when they lifted their faces.

Diffrent With Soldiers

The younger Japanese, particularly the men, were not so emotional. Among them were former soldiers, sailors and airmen who signed over their lives to the emperor when they entered service.

They stood rigidly at attention as the emperor walked by, then bowed sharply. The onlooker could feel that these men would act again as they had in the past toward their emperor, "divine" or not.

The emperor's visit meant little more than a holiday from school for the thousands of children who turned out waving paper flags with the circle of the sun on a white field.

They haven't had time to understand who the emperor is. To them he is a phrase, "Tenno Heika", ("imperial majesty").

And when he passed they were told to shout "Banzai", and they did. But they will learn.

They will learn what their parents teach them. And so in time they will bow like their older brothers and sisters, and later they will kneel no the straw mats.

Champion Woodchopper P. McLaren Retires

PHILADELPHIA—An Australian who made wood chopping such an art that three kings commanded performances is retiring—at the age of 68—and going home.

Peter McLaren was called to entertain kings, but colleges and universities hired him as the scientist of the axe.

The Melbourne-born king of the wood choppers became world champion in contests at Melbourne and Perth in 1905. He last participated in Australia's annual world championship axe swinging contests in 1910. Later, he became such an undisputed master that he gave challengers a 50 per cent time bonus. In thousands of contests he was defeated on that basis but three times. McLaren has never been beaten in the United States.

In 1908 his fame was so widespread that Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, commanded a performance in Berlin. Three years later McLaren chopped wood at the behest of King Edward VII of England, and later made a command appearance before King George V.

Cornell and Yale Universities and Pennsylvania and Michigan State Colleges engaged him as a forestry instructor. Yale's famed coach of championship swimming teams, Bob Kiputh, had McLaren teach his swimmers the use of the axe to harden their bodies.

Artist John Sloan Awarded Gold Medal

NEW YORK—John Sloan became a professional painter about six years ago when he was 72 years old. This year he will be awarded a gold medal by the National Institute of Arts and Letters, the first gold medal in painting awarded by the institute in 10 years.

The gray-haired artist, however, is no male grandma Moses. He has spent a lifetime painting. It's just that people, including museums, started buying his works recently.

"By every dictionary definition, I was an amateur painter until I was past 70," Sloan says without rancor. "That means I couldn't support myself by my profession. I had sold four paintings in my life by the time I was 50. Had to fend off the landlords doing book illustrations and teaching."

And what is selling?

"Paintings I did 40 years ago," said Sloan.

His Opinion of Critics

He's a gentle-mannered man who looks about 60. He seems more amused than impressed by the fact that he has "arrived" in the art world. He maintains that the art critics are completely ignoring his current output—but that doesn't bother him, either. He calls critics a bunch of "fashion writers."

All his life he has been experimenting in oil and developing techniques — "I'm still trying to paint a Sloan" — but he has a strong prejudice against popular success.

"Whenever I've found that something will sell, I won't produce it," he maintains. "Success has always ruined artists, particularly young artists.

"Success halts painters in their tracks. They find something that will sell — and they keep repainting it until they can't do anything else."

JOHN SLOAN at work.

Close Shave With Fortune

Once, at the end of 1928, Sloan himself came perilously close to success. A rich importer walked into his studio and picked out $40.-000 worth of paintings. Before Sloan had a chance to conclude the deal, October, 1929, arrived and wiped out the man's business and fortune. Sloan got his paintings back.

"Just as well," he commented philosophically. "The importer was going to show me how to invest the mnoey so I could double it. This way I at least got the paintings back and a number of them are the ones that are selling today."

Sloan's delayed reputation is bound up in his nostalgic New York scenes — ones which the critics have referred to as "black" "revolutionary," and even "psychopathic." In the passing years he has changed his style so that his current works are full of light color and he has developed a technique he calls "linear glaze." This is achieved by an open-work mesh of colored lines on top of the painting. He indicated that a few critics who aren't ignoring his work don't like it.

He Tried Being a Rebel

The habit of rebellion is strong in him. He was one of eight American painters at the turn of the century to break with the traditional Academy-type art and form an independent artist's group—of which he is still president.

Shortly after that he and a number of old-fashioned Socialists started a little magazine of social comment called The Masses. Max Eastman was the $35-a-week editor, and founders and contributors included Walter Lippman, Mary Heaton Vorse, Will Irwin and Louis Untermeyer. The Communist New masses borrowed the name but that's all.

Most of those fervent young Socialists have changed their thinking with the passing of time but Sloan still believes in the revolution by evolution concept.

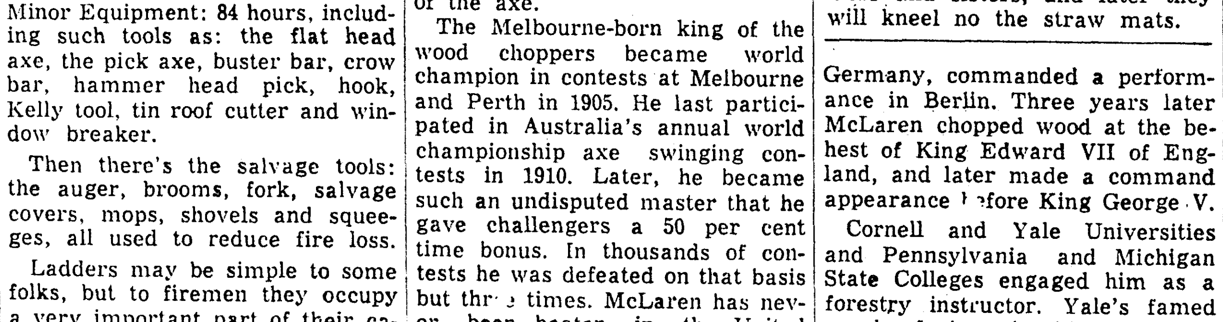
Sloan and his wife — a former pupil — live comfortably in the old Chelsa Hotel in New York famed as the home of the late Thomas Wolfe and many other writers and artists of renown. They have an apartment and spacious studio where they paint side by side.

"It's good, the difference in age," Mrs. Sloan said. "There's no competition between us. We can help each other."

Sloan thinks the American public is getting more interested in art. He hopes to see the day when the general public will be interested in buying nudes.

'It's still too self-conscious," he commented.

Luxury Liner Hauls Ore To Steel Factories



LORAIN, O.—On an August afternoon in 1885 the brig Columbia poked its nose through the haze of Cleveland harbor with 132 tons of iron ore from the recently discovered Mesabi range in Minnesota.

This was the first vessel to ship through the new canal at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. The canal connects Lake Superior with the lower lakes.

Previously all vessels had made the overland journey on rollers around the rapids at the Soo.

Since that August afternoon capacities of Great Lakes freighters have grown until today the Sault (called Soo) is the busiest waterway in the world—hauling ore to the hungry steel mills.

This year the Great Lakes first futuramic freighter—the Wilfred Sykes—sailed with its first ore cargo.

The Sykes, the largest lakes freighter—678 feet long and 70 feet wide—built for Inland Steel, of Chicago, by the American Ship Building Co., also is the fastest on the lakes. Powered by geared 7,000 horse power turbines, the Sykes on her trial run from Lorain, O., made a speed of 17.4 miles an hour. Present lake freighters make between 12 and 14 miles an hour.

The Sykes, with a rakish stem and cruiser stern, will carry 20,000 tons of ore—enough to fill four trains of approximatly 100 cars each. The ancient Columbia's cargo would fill a little more than two cars.

The present record ore cargo is 18,725 tons, held by the Benjamin Fairless of Pittsburgh Steamship Co., a subsidiary of U. S. Steel.

The Sykes can carry 28,000 tons, but the Detroit and St. Mary's rivers are too shallow to permit loading to capacity. The St. Mary's river connects Lakes Superior and Huron and the Detroit river, Lakes Huron and Erie.

Present channels are only 23 feet deep and a move already is under way by Great Lakes shipping interests to deepen them to 28 feet.

The vessel is expected to bring down 900,000 tons of ore to Inland's docks at Indiana Harbor, Ind., this year. It will make the round trip from Duluth to Indiana Harbor—831 miles one way—in approximately four-and-one-half days compared with the six-and-one-half to seven days now required by present vessels.

During a season this adds up to 44 trips against 34 today.

The vessel is so large that only three docks on the Great Lakes can unload her—Cleveland and Conneaut, Ohio, and Indiana Harbor.

25,000 Persons Served By Post Office In West Monroe; Workers Are Commended

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final of a series of articles explaining the operations of the Monroe-West Monroe post offices.)

In 1946 the West Monroe Post Office became an independent first-class office operating on its own to serve the growing population along its mail routes. Since then, its growth has paralleled the expansion of the smaller Twin City, until now its seven city carries and four rural route men bring the day's post to approximately 25,000 people on the sunset side of the Ouachita.

Since 1946, however, a large part of the mailing population has persisted in the false impression that West Monroe's office is merely a branch of the Monroe office.

That's just one of the headaches that arise daily to plague the staff of the post office. Now they're undertaking the additional burden of a complete reorganization of the routes in compliance with the recent Washington order directing a cut in the number of deliveries and extent of other services in the department.

With all the pressing problems of the moment, we expected the West Monroe postmaster's views to be gloomy, at best. But when we arrived at his office for an interview, his first comment was about his staff.

"Before I say anything about the office and its work," said Postmaster Oliver W. Boyd, Jr., "I'd like to ask you to say all you can in praise of the fellows who work here. We're really proud of our staff. . .you'll see why in a minute."

This satisfaction with the work of the postal crew actually poses a bit of a problem to the head of the office, we discovered. The postmaster-general's order last April was designed to decrease costs and maintain revenue.

The problem raised for Postmaster Boyd is "How to increase efficiency and cut costs?" At the moment, Boyd feels that the staff at his office display as high a productivity per man as could be expected.

As an example of his claim, Boyd cited the actions of most of the clerks and carriers, who occupy their extra time by filling in at temporary rushed posts. The cancelling machine is kept clean and in top working order by one of the clerks, who voluntarily undertook the work in addition to his regular chores at the office.

Because of the high efficiency of the group and the cooperation of the entire staff in whatever project may arise, Boyd does not foresee any change in the number of permanent employees at the post office as a result of the shift to one-a-day deliveries prescribed in the executive order.

The man who was charged of the compact, bustling office which rushes mail and parcel post to its destination is a post office veteran having started in the Monroe office in 1936. Ten years later, when the West Monroe unit became independent, he moved to the new station.

Early in 1947, about the time that the office moved into its present new quarters, Boyd was appointed acting postmaster. His appointment was made permanent in 1948.

In the important post of superintendent of the mails at the West Monroe office is a former Bastrop resident, Woodrow Cain, who has moved to the Twin City post after West Monroe workers eligible for the job decided against accepting the heavy responsibilities and duties of the position. Cain is also a family man, and a veteran of the postal service, with 13 years service behind him.

"With a group like this," said Boyd with a smile, "we may have some minor readjustments to make, but if the best can be accomplished, they can do it."

Alcoholism Major Health Problem

WINNSBORO, La.—(Special)—Louisiana is going to take official recognition of the disease of alcoholism as a major health problem and undertake measures toward effectively dealing with it, if bills and resolutions to be in- troduced in the state senate by Dr. Ralph E. King are adopted.

The local physician-surgeon-solon has announced that he plans to propose during the regular session of the legislature:

1—Enactment of a statutory law making it possible for the state's seven charity hospitals to receive alcoholics as patients, either on a voluntary or involuntary basis.

2—Enactment of legislation providing for establishment and operation of a convalescent farm for alcoholics.

3—Provision for mental hygiene clincs established in the larger centers of the state to act as out-patient clinics for alcoholics.

4—Adoption of a resolution requesting the state department to establish a public school course of study affording youth the proper educational background to cope with this serious public health problem."

5—Providing for establishment of a permanent Louisiana commission on alcoholism for the purpose of making a continuous study of the alcoholic problem, in order that the causes and effects of alcoholism may be minimized to the greatest possible extent.

These recommendations, Dr. King said, are in line with a report to be presented to the legislature by a special committee appointed by the governor who has been studying the problem of alcoholism in Louisiana over a period of several months. He is a member of this committee.

Terming alcholism a "serious illness," the local doctor-senator released the following comment from the report being prepared for submittal to the legislature:

" . . . . About five per cent of the 50 per cent total of our population who use alcoholic beverages do so to excess — excess meaning not the quantity of drink but the effects. . . .Of the one out of 40, approximately, of the total population using alcohol to excess, it is estimated that 20 per cent of these have progressed to the point of chronic alcoholism:

"These being the men and women suffering from some deep, underlying emotional disturbance —because of which, and entirely as a chance symptom of the illness, they drink excessively. . . ."

"Chronic alcholics, being sick people, fall into several categories—each presenting an individual problem, having different causes for the condition of which excessive drinking is a symptom and requiring different treatment. . . .

"The problem should be treated in three phases—education, hospitalization and rehabilitation. . . .

"Education—the major means of minimizing and preventing alcoholism from developing is by education. This problem should be dealt with through the schools, churches, medical profession, the courts, social agencies and by every other available means. It should be a broad program laying special stress on those outward symptoms which indicate the development of alcoholism. We consider the education of the public to be of the utmost importance, and. . . .

"Until the general public is aware of the fact that alcoholism is a disease, and that the alcoholic is a sick person, no plan will succeed to the degree needed.

"One of the greatest difficulties in attempting to treat alcoholism," Dr. King further commented, "is the utter lack of hospital facilities under present conditions. Although the alcoholic is a sick person, and in many instances may actually be near death, with few exceptions hospitals hesitate, usually refuse, to accept him for treatment.

Hospitalization is a factor of prime importance, since the individual must be restored to physical health as the first step necessary toward his emotional and social recovery. . . .The alcoholic must be hospitalized for a time in order that his body, mind and spirit may be restored to normal. . . .

"Since the treatment of alcoholism is a relatively new science," Dr. King pointed out, "we found many differences of opinion as to the proper treatment. . . . but our conclusion is that hospitalization is necessary to rebuild such bodily deficiencies as may exist, after which the patient should be placed on a convalescent farm, where he can do physical labor for a period of time. . . .During this period it is quite possible that through the work of Alcoholics Anonymous, friends, relatives, church leaders, the alcoholic may become able to retain his sobriety. . . .

There is also unanimity in the thinking of all who deal with the problem that the restoration of the alcoholic to his rightful place in society requires careful help and supervision, after his body has been restored to normalcy by the administration of proper medicines and diet. . . . The rebuilding of health, character and self-respect are prime requisites for any alcoholic to reach the road to recovery, and work on a convalescent farm would be of help to many. There should be psychiatric assistance, work and an opportunity for regaining health. . . ."

MONROE FIREMEN GET TECHNICAL KNOWLEDGE

School Board, M. F. D. Unite For Protection

By Percy Fant
(Of The Morning World Staff)

The Monroe Fire Department—and the Ouachita Parish School Board—have joined hands to assure the city of "first-class fire-fighters."

It all adds up to giving Monroe firemen important technical knowledge to go with the practical experience which they have demonstrated so excellently in the past.

The Monroe Fire Department, under the leadership of its chief, H. L. Hales, has, in the past several years, made strides in affording the city with as good a fire-fighting unit as was possible under existing conditions. Their good showing in the past can be attributed to the ability and excellent leadership of the department, not its out-dated equipment.

The firemen's school, currently being conducted by two experienced and able officers of the M. F. D., Capt. J. W. Faler and Homer D. Massingale, is just one of a number of steps the local Fire Department is taking to better educate its personnel in modern methods of extinguishing fires. Cooperating with the carrying on of the school are the State Dekpartment of Education, the State Fire College, and the Veterans' Administration.

(Veteran members of the Fire Department take their courses while off duty and are paid subsistance allowances by the Veterans' Administration. Non-veterans on the M. F. D. are given the courses while on duty.)

The first of two classes presently being given instructions at the local firemen's school, got underway August, 1949, and was the first such school to begin in Louisiana. Another class began last April 1. It takes two years to complete the entire course.

If you think modern fire-fighting is simple, then take a look at some of the courses and what they include:

Orientation — 24 'ours of it — includes rules and regulations of the department, safety rules and practices, keeping time sheets and cleaning fire equipment.

Care and Use of Small Tools and Minor Equipment: 84 hours, including such tools as: the flat head axe, the pick axe, buster bar, crow bar, hammer head pick, hook, Kelly tool, tin roof cutter and window breaker.

Then there's the salvage tools: the auger, brooms, fork, salvage covers, mops, shovels and squeegies, all used to reduce fire loss.

Ladders may be simple to some folks, but to firemen they occupy a very important part of their careers. In the school, they learn how to care for their ladders, how to use them safely, how to carry them, raise, climb, inspect and test the ladders.

Probably most essential to modern fire-fighters are hose lines. Putting these to good use requires proper handling of a number of things. The school gives firemen the correct method of:

Operating hoses, turning a fire plug off and on, the proper method by which one man can connect and disconnect a hose, how to regulate the pressure, nozzles, names of different hose lines, the use of small lines, use of Siamese lines, etc.

Firemen are also taught how to tie various knots and when to use each; how to enter a burning building, to give first aid, when to use gas masks, the operation of a motor and pump, ventilation, salvage work and how to properly inspect buildings.

The classes were outlines by Robert A. Bogan, superintendent of the State Fire College.

Upon completion of the school, firemen will receive certificates of graduation.

Veterans of adjoining towns and cities are permitted to enter the firemen's school upon presentation of a certificate of eligibility to Ouachita Parish School Supt. Mack Avants. This will provide trained firemen for communities where there are not enough men to provide a class. The classes meet thaee times weekly.

Instructors at the local school, Faler and Massingale, were appointed by Supt. Avants.

Bobby Johnson's Homer Pays Off In Goods, Cash

Wednesday's home-run by Bobby Johnson, 23-year-old right hander for the Monroe Sports, paid off—thanks to local merchants.

Johnson's in-side-the-park four-bagger was the first for the Sports here this season, and netted him a new wrist watch, four shirts underwear, trousers, a steak dinner, free dry cleaning, and twenty-five dollars cash. Local merchants had posted the prizes at the beginning of the season for the first player to hit a rome-run in the local baseball field.

Johnson had slammed a ball out of the Pine Bluff, Ark. field the day before. That was his first homer for the year. Only other Sport so far to hit a four-bagger is Len Morrison.

A right-hand pitcher for the Sports, Johnson has a three-win, no-loss record thus far. He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Johnson of Shreveport, was born in Shreveport and won honorable mention and all-state in northeast Louisiana as halfback for Fairpark high school in 1943-44.

Johnson is a graduate of Northwestern State College, Natchitoches, La., lettered three years in baseball and football at Fairpark high school and at Northwestern. Last season he played for Alexandria in the Evangeline League.

National Wildlife Week was first proclaimed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938.

Champion Woodchopper P. McLaren Retires

PHILADELPHIA—An Australian who made wood chopping such an art that three kings commanded performances is retiring—at the age of 68—and going home.

Peter McLaren was going to entertain kings, but colleges and universities hired him as the scientist of the axe.

The Melbourne-born king of the wood choppers became world champion in contests at Melbourne and Perth in 1905. He last participated in Australia's annual world championship axe swinging contests in 1910. Later, he became such an undisputed master that he gave challengers a 50 per cent time bonus. In thousands of contests he was defeated on that basis but three times. McLaren has never been beaten in the United States.

In 1908 his fame was so widespread that Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, commanded a performance in Berlin. Three years later McLaren chopped wood at the behest of King Edward VII of England, and later made a command appearance before King George V.

Cornell and Yale Universities and Pennsylvania and Michigan State Colleges engaged him as a forestry instructor. Yale's famed coach of championship swimming teams, Bob Kiputh, had McLaren teach his swimmers the use of the axe to harden their bodies.

Hirohito Is Getting To Be People's Pal

By William Jorden

TAKAMATSU Japan—Emperor Hirohito is getting to be quite a campaigner.

He's shown that on his meet-the-people tour of southern Japan. Oh, he's minor league by American political standards. But he's major league by those of Japan.

The small, bespectacled monarch of Japan's 83,000,000 people was a somewhat scared and uncertain man when he began the tours in 1946.

He had little idea where he stood either with his conquerors or his own people. There was talk of abolishing the job of emperor, or of trying him as a war criminal.

He's "Humanized"

Advisers had suggested the emperor get out among the people and be "humanized". Like his predecessors since the earliest days of Japan's history, Hirohito did as he was told.

Neither emperor nor the people knew what to do on those first tours. The people hadn't been allowed to look on him and cheer before. But they caught on fast.

Hirohito had to be told when to stop, when to walk, when to acknowledge cheers of the crowds. His only comment was the oft-repeated "Ah, soo," meaning "is that so?"

Learns His Role

Look at him four years later. That early anxiety and most of the nervousness is gone. He reacts without prompting, smiles and returns the greeting when the crowd roar "Banzai" (Japanese version of "long live the king" meaning "10,000 years.")

The emperor still says "Ah soo", but he is becoming adept at ad lib comments and asking questions about things that interest him.

The feelings of the Japanese for their emperor have not been changed much by Hirohito's renunciation of "divinity" or by the new constitution making the emperor simply a symbol of state.

You see that when you watch the faces of elderly Japanese lined up to pay their respects to Hirohito.

At a reception held near here hundreds of these old folks knelt on straw mats for several hours before his arrival.

As Hirohito passed, his subjects bowed until their foreheads almost touched the ground. Tears streamed down their cheeks when they lifted their faces.

Different With Soldiers

The younger Japanese, particularly the men, were not so emotional. Among them were former soldiers, sailors and airmen who signed over their lives to the emperor when they entered service.

They stood rigidly at attention as the emperor walked by, then bowed sharply. The onlooker could feel that these men would act again as they had in the past toward their emperor, "divine" or not.

The emperor's visit meant little more than a holiday from school for the thousands of children who turned out waving paper flags with the circle of the sun on a white field.

They haven't had time to understand who the emperor is. To them he is a phrase, "Tenno Heika", ("imperial majesty").

And when he passed they were told to shout "Banzai", and they did. But they will learn.

They will learn what their parents teach them. And so in time they will bow like their older brothers and sisters, and later they will kneel no the straw mats.

Artist John Sloan Awarded Gold Medal

NEW YORK — John Sloan became a professional painter about six years ago when he was 72 years old. This year he will be awarded a gold medal by the National Institute of Arts and Letters, the first gold medal in painting awarded by the institute in 10 years.

The gray-haired artist, however, is no male grandma Moses. He has spent a lifetime painting. It's just that people, including museums, started buying his works recently.

"By every dictionary definition, I was an amateur painter until I was past 70," Sloan says without rancor. "That means I couldn't support myself by my profession. I had sold four paintings in my life by the time I was 50. Had to fend off the landlords doing book illustrations and teaching."

And what is selling?

"Paintings I did 40 years ago," said Sloan.

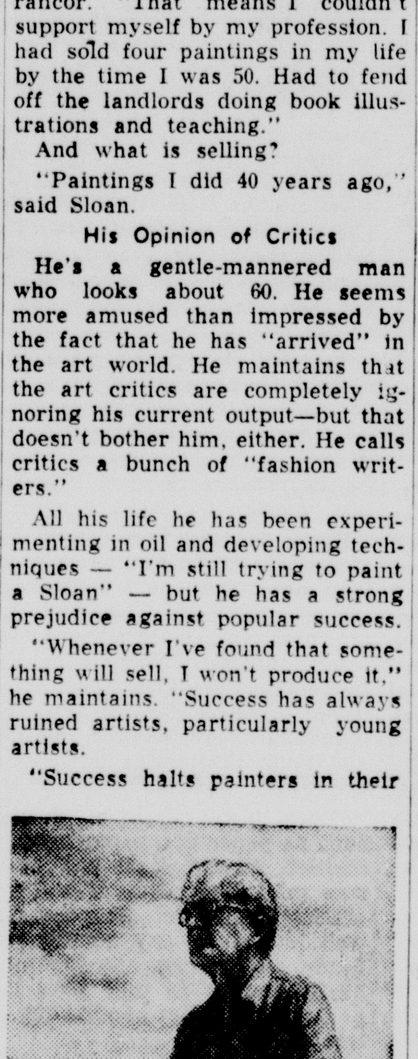
His Opinion of Critics

He's a gentle-mannered man who looks about 60. He seems more amused than impressed by the fact that he has "arrived" in the art world. He maintains that the art critics are completely ignoring his current output—but that doesn't bother him, either. He calls critics a bunch of "fashion writers."

All his life he has been experimenting in oil and developing techniques — "I'm still trying to paint a Sloan" — but he has a strong prejudice against popular success.

"Whenever I've found that something will sell, I won't produce it," he maintains. "Success has always ruined artists, particularly young artists.

"Success halts painters in their tracks. They find something that will sell — and they keep repainting it until they can't do anything else."



JOHN SLOAN at work.

Close Shave With Fortune

Once, at the end of 1928, Sloan himself came perilously close to success. A rich importer walked into his studio and picked out $40,000 worth of paintings. Before Sloan had a chance to conclude the deal, October, 1929, arrived and wiped out the man's business and fortune. Sloan got his paintings back.

"Just as well," he commented philosophically. "The importer was going to show me how to invest the mnoey so I could double it. This way I at least got the paintings back and a number of them are the ones that are selling today."

Sloan's delayed reputation is bound up in his nostalgic New York scenes — ones which the critics have referred to as "black" "revolutionary," and even "psychopathic." In the passing years he has changed his style so that his current works are full of light color and he has developed a technique he calls "linear glaze." This is achieved by an open - work mesh of colored lines on top of the painting. He indicated that a few critics who aren't ignoring his work don't like it.

He Tried Being a Rebel

The habit of rebellion is strong in him. He was one of eight American painters at the turn of the century to break with the traditional Academy-type art and form an independent artist's group—of which he is still president.

Shortly after that he and a number of old-fashioned Socialists started a little magazine of social comment called The Masses. Max Eastman was the $35-a-week editor, and founders and contributors included Walter Lippman, Mary Heaton Vorse, Will Irwin and Louis Untermeyer. The Communist New Masses borrowed the name but that's all.

Most of those fervent young Socialists have changed their thinking with the passing of time but Sloan still believes in the revolution by evolution concept.

Sloan and his wife — a former pupil — live comfortably in the old Chelsa Hotel in New York famed as the home of the late Thomas Wolfe and many other writers and artists of renown. They have an apartment and spacious studio where they paint side by side.

"It's good, the difference in age," Mrs. Sloan said. "There's no competition between us. We can help each other."

Sloan thinks the American public is getting more interested in art. He hopes to see the day when the general public will be interested in buying nudes.

"It's still too self-conscious," he commented.

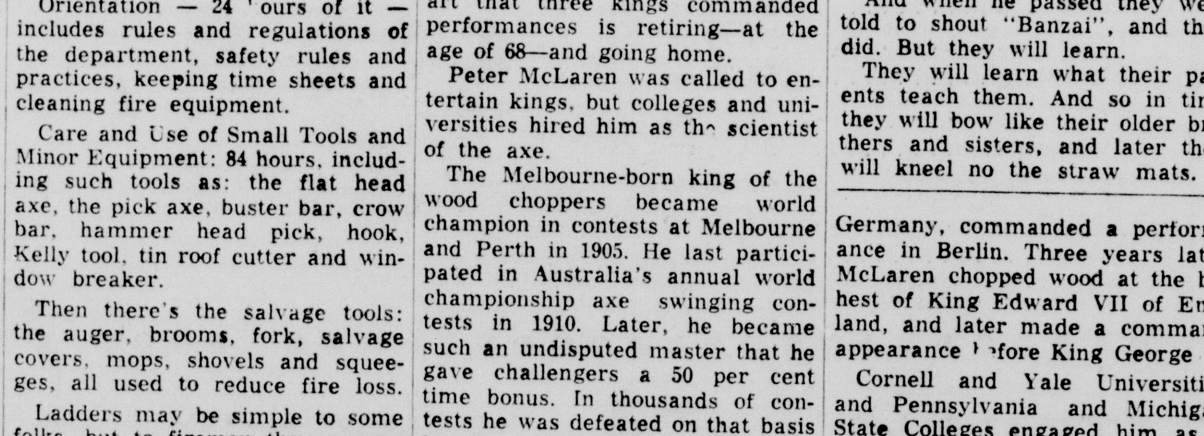
Luxury Liner Hauls Ore To Steel Factories



LORAIN, O.—On an August afternoon in 1885 the brig Columbia poked its nose through the harbor of Cleveland harbor with 132 tons of iron ore from the recently discovered Mesabi range in Minnesota.

This was the first vessel to ship through the new canal at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. The canal connects Lake Superior with the lower lakes.

Previously all vessels had made the overland journey on rollers around the rapids at the Soo.

Since that August afternoon capacities of Great Lakes freighters have grown until today the Sault (called Soo) is the busiest waterway in the world—hauling ore to the hungry steel mills.

This year the Great Lakes first futuramic freighter—the Wilfred Sykes—sailed with its first ore cargo.

The Sykes, the largest lakes freighter—678 feet long and 70 feet wide—built for Inland Steel, of Chicago, by the American Ship Building Co., also is the fastest on the lakes. Powered by geared 7,000 horse power turbines, the Sykes on her trial run from Lorain, O., made a speed of 17.4 miles an hour. Present lake freighters make between 12 and 14 miles an hour.

The Sykes, with a rakish stem and cruiser stern, will carry 20,000 tons of ore—enough to fill four trains of approximately 100 cars each. The ancient Columbia's cargo would fill a little more than two cars.

The present record ore cargo is 18,725 tons, held by the Benjamin Fairless of Pittsburgh Steamship Co., a subsidiary of U. S. Steel.

The Sykes can carry 20,000 tons, but the Detroit and St. Mary's rivers are too shallow to permit loading to capacity. The St. Mary's river connects Lakes Superior and Huron and the Detroit river, Lakes Huron and Erie.

Present channels are only 23 feet deep and a move already is under way by Great Lakes shipping interests to deepen them to 28 feet.

The vessel is expected to bring down 900,000 tons of ore to Inland's docks at Indiana Harbor, Ind., this year. It will make the round trip from Duluth to Indiana Harbor—831 miles one way—in approximately four-and-one-half days compared with the six-and-one-half to seven days now required by present vessels.

During a season this adds up to 44 trips against 34 today.

The vessel is so large that only three docks on the Great Lakes can unload her—Cleveland and Conneaut, Ohio, and Indiana Harbor.

GAME GOES WILD AFTER 6 INNINGS OF STELLAR BALL

Pine Bluff Wins On Ten Hits; Rubber Game Of Series This Afternoon

Monroe baseball fans saw six innings of fine baseball at Legion Memorial Stadium last night before the battle between the Pine Bluff Judges and the Monroe Sports turned into a wild scrap that saw just about every thing that can happen in a ball game occur. The Judges won the game, 11-3, to even their series at a game apiece with the rubble battle coming up here this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Tom Graham, Pine Bluff southpaw, and 'Turkey" Lurk, Monroe highthander, hooked up in a fine hurling duel for six innings. But the roof fell in on Lurk in the seventh as the Judges turned the game into a rout.

It was an errorless ball game in which the Judges had only three hits and the Sports only two until the seventh. After that walks, balks, protests, hard hits, the chasing of Sports Manager Al. Mazur and plenty of runs became the order of the night.

The Judges took a one-run lead in the sixth when Schwegman, reaching first on a fielder's choice, was scored on successive singles by Ramm and Ben Cantrell.

Then in the seventh Hal Bollinger was on on an error, stole second and went on to third on another error. Harry Chozen and Graham walked to load the bases. Schwegman hit into a double play that caught Bollinger at the plate. Ramm was intentionally walked and Cantrell lined out a double that cleaned the sacks.

The Sports got two runs as they batted out of order in the seventh. Charlie Cline, who had ended the sixth inning hitting out to first base, strolled to the plate to open the bottom of the seventh and took first when he was hit by a pitched ball. Joe Davis, who should have been the lead-off batter, then came up to get a free pass. Chuck Herring fanned, and Mazur grounded out, Graham to Scarpace, advancing the runners. Graham dropped the ball, and was called for a balk, forcing Cline home. Davis also came home, but when the umps ordered him back to third, Manager Mazur protested vigorously, claiming that time had not been called and Davis could advance at his own risk. Davis went back to third and Mazur was chased to the showers, but announced the game was being played under protest. A single by Wally Rasmussen scored Davis.

The Judges piled up five more runs in the eighth on a double by Scarpace, singles by Chozen and Ramm, a pair of bases on balls, an error, and a passed ball, with Fassero, Kurtz, Bollinger, Chozen, and Graham doing the scoring.

Two more Pine Bluff runs crossed the plate in the ninth as Cantrell led off with a single, scored on Scarpace's triple, and the latter scored on a single by Fassero.

The Sports tallied once in the ninth. With two out, Tucker, who took Mazur's place at second, was safe on an error, went to second on Rasmussen's second hit of the game, and scored on a single by Leonard Morrison. Wayne Moon forced Rasmussen at third to end the game.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—Who says an "independent minor league club" can't be operated profitably these days? How about the Browns? . . . That "minor" is kidding, of course but its kidding on the square since for the past few years the Browns have been a "farm" for most of the other American League clubs. . . . And with more than a million bucks in the till from player sales, they can afford to be independent as all get out. . . . And there'll be more. The Browns recently indicated their willingness to do business with the Yankees (though emphatically not for Dick Wakefield) and in spite of their low position in the standing, they always have something to sell. . . . One of the best things about an operation like theirs is that a rookie or a major league castoff has a chance to become a star quickly. There aren't any established, high-salaried stars to displace.

Cash on the Line

Taking the semi-official figures, here's how to acquire a million merely by repeating firmly "a hunnert grand" every time a club owner comes around. . . . . The Browns collected $475,000 of Tom Yawkey's money, plus ten players, in three deals with the Red Sox. Vern Stephens and Jack Karmer brought $310,000; Al Zarilla $100,000 and Ellis Kinder and Bill Hitchcock $65,000. . . . Four other $100,000 deals were Sam Zoldak to Cleveland, Gerry Phiddy to Detroit, Fred Sanford and Roy Partee to New York and Bob Dillinger and Paul Lehner to Philadelphia. . . . The Indians gave up another $100,000 in three deals to get Johnny Berardino, Bob Muncrief and Red Embree. . . . The small change was $25,000 from Washington for Sam Dente, a throw-in from the Red Sox, and $20,000 from the A's for Ray Coleman, who is back in the Brownie lineup. . . . Only record of a cash outlay for these athletes was $25,000 paid for Priddy.

Difference Is In Material

In addition to the cash, the Browns acquired two dozen players in these assorted trades and eleven of them were on the St. Louis roster this spring. . . . Dick Kokos, tossed in by Cleveland, looked good enough last year to attract another $100,000 offer, though he's riding the bench now; Al Widmar, Joe Ostrowski, Tom Ferrick, and Ray Starr are pitching regularly for Stl Louis and Coleman and Bill De Mars are in the lineup every day and Frank Gustine is the No. 1 utility man. You might say that's a good deal of playing talent.

Current Comment

In the course of the nullified Dick Wakefield deal, the Yanks' George Weiss said: "I have done everything possible to deliver Wakefield but put him in a strait jacket." . . . The batting averages look as if the pitchers had attended to that. . . . And when Jake (The Bull) Lamotta debates with John (Ox) Da Grosa over the middleweight championship, is it surprising that there's a lot of beefing?

A beef calf benefits from about two pounds of cottonseed meal a day.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—Who says an "independent minor league club" can't be operated profitably these days? How about the Browns? . . . That "minor" is kidding, of course but its kidding on the square since for the past few years the Browns have been a "farm" for most of the other American League clubs. . . . And with more than a million bucks in the till from player sales, they can afford to be independent as all get out. . . . And there'll be more. The Browns recently indicated their willingness to do business with the Yankees (though emphatically not for Dick Wakefield) and in spite of their low position in the standing, they always have something to sell. . . . One of the best things about an operation like theirs is that a rookie or a major league castoff has a chance to become a star quickly. There aren't any established, high-salaried stars to displace.

Cash on the Line

Taking the semi-official figures, here's how to acquire a million merely by repeating firmly "a hunnert grand" every time a club owner comes around. . . . The Browns collected $475,000 of Tom Yawkey's money, plus ten players, in three deals with the Red Sox. Vern Stephens and Jack Karmer brought $310,000; Al Zarilla $100,000 and Ellis Kinder and Bill Hitchcock $65,000. . . . Four other $100,000 deals were Sam Zoldak to Cleveland, Gerry Phiddy to Detroit, Fred Sanford and Roy Partee to New York and Bob Dillinger and Paul Lehner to Philadelphia. . . . The Indians gave up another $100,000 in three deals to get Johnny Berardino, Bob Muncrief and Red Embree. . . . The small change was $25,000 from Washington for Sam Dente, a throw-in from the Red Sox, and $20,000 from the A's for Ray Coleman, who is back in the Brownie lineup. . . . Only record of a cash outlay for these athletes was $25,000 paid for Priddy.

Difference Is In Material

In addition to the cash, the Browns acquired two dozen players in these assorted trades and eleven of them were on the St. Louis roster this spring. . . . Dick Kokos, tossed in by Cleveland, looked good enough last year to attract another $100,000 offer, though he's riding the bench now; Al Widmar, Joe Ostrowski, Tom Ferrick, and Ray Starr are pitching regularly for Stl Louis and Coleman and Bill De Mars are in the lineup every day and Frank Gustine is the No. 1 utility man. You might say that's a good deal of playing talent.

Current Comment

In the course of the nullified Dick Wakefield deal, the Yanks' George Weiss said: "I have done everything possible to deliver Wakefield but put him in a strait jacket." . . . The batting averages look as if the pitchers had attended to that. . . . And when Jake (The Bull) Lamotta debates with John (Ox) Da Grosa over the middleweight championship, is it surprising that there's a lot of beefing?

A beef calf benefits from about two pounds of cottonseed meal a day.

Bails Whip New York Nationals To Maintain League Leadership

BROOKLYN, May 13.—(AP)—Vern Bickford came up with a three-hitter today but his brilliant pitching was overshadowed by the batting exploits of four former New York Gaints as the Boston Braves romped to a 12-2 decision over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The former Giants, Walker Cooper, Sid Gordon, Willard Marshall and Buddy Kerr, drove in eleven runs and collected nine of the 13 hits yielded by a trio of Brooklyn pitchers. Rookie Sam Jethroe accounted for the other Boston run with his fifth homer.

Cooper, recently acquired trom Cincinnati, did the most damage. The big catcher drove in five runs on a three run homer, double and fly ball. Gordon knocked in two runs on his eighth homer while Marshall batted in three on a single and triple and Kerr one on a one-bagger.

Joe Hatten, who shut out Bickford and the Braves in Boston, bore the brunt of the Boston assault. He was pounded out in the fifth during a four man rally that gave the Braves a 7-0 lead.

Cooper ended the scoring with his home run in the ninth off Don Newcombe who was making his first appearance since he was sent home from the west complaining of a sore arm.

Double Main Event Wrestling Show Billed At Kallio's Arena This Week

A double main event show headlines Tuesday night's wrestling show at Gus Kallio's Arena with Rex Mobley, Bobby Segura, Don Keene, and George Cologne as the battlers.

After earlier matching Mobley against Cologne, Promoter Kallio late last night announced a switch in plans to give consideration to a challenge issued by Segura.

So Mobley, the classy Texan who formerly held the world's light heavyweight championship, will meet Segura, light-heavy kingpin of Mexico instead.

In the other half of the twin bill Cologne, the toughie from New Orleans, will match wits with Keene, a relative newcomer to the southern mat circuit who has won lots of supporters among Twin City fans.

Both bouts will have time limits of an hour and fifteen minutes with two falls to win.

Promoter Kallio said an out-of-town referee will handle the matches.

VD Babies

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Some doctors attending a veneral disease (VD) conference here expressed "surprise and concern" to learn of a growing practice among hospitals to give penicillin treatment automatically to babies born of mothers with VD.

The practice is based on the idea that the babies probably are infected and that it would be next to impossible to get the mothers to bring them back for later treatment. The doctors questioning the procedure voiced fear the babies might be branded for life when in many cases no tests for VD are needed.

POLLY RILEY WINS SOUTHERN EVENT

Texan Makes Spectacular Rally To Beat Dot Kirby In Finals

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., May 13.—(AP)—Two terrific iron shots and Lady Luck combined here today to give Texas-born Polly Riley, of Fort Worth, a 1-up victory over Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta and the 35th Southern Women's Amateur Golf championship.

Miss Riley's second great chip shot on the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club's 6,065 rain-soaked yards came on the 401-yard thirty-third hole. Standing 70 feet from the pin, the sturdy little Texan grasped an eight iron, sent the ball skidding from the steep slope overlooking the green, onto the velvet and into the cup.

The shot gave Miss Riley an eagle three. And that dramatic gesture highlighted a bitter, gruelling battle over 36 holes that three times saw Miss Kirby pull from behind with spectacular putting.

Twice during the long struggle, Miss Kirby was four down.

It was the first of Miss Riley's great chip shots that started her on her way to turning the match into what looked to be a rout. This one came in the morning round on hole No. 11, a 174-yard par three. Miss Riley took her trusty eight iron, which performed like clockwork throughout the match, and rammed the ball to the cup from 40 feet away.

She won the next two holes to go three up, increased her advantage to four holes on No. 15 with a six-foot putt for a birdie four. Miss Kirby came back on No. 16 to card a birdie of her own and take her first hole since she grabbed No. 9 to take the lead for the first time.

Down three holes when they called it quits for the lunch time intermission, Miss Kirby went down another hole as the two stars played the first hole of the afternoon session.

Miss Kirby then came up with one of the greatest rallies since she started playing golf 19 years ago. The 30-year-old Georgian won four of the next six holes, squaring the match on No. 25 for the first time since it was deadlocked on No. 10.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 13.—(AP)—Walt Faulkner of Long Beach, Calif., qualified for his first 500-mile Memorial Day race and smashed the Indianapolis Motor Speedway records for both 2 1-2 and ten miles today.

He averaged 134.343 miles an hour in the four-cylinder rear-drive Grant Piston Ring Special. His best lap was 136.013.

The 30-year-old Faulkner's performance broke the four-year-old qualifying records set by the late Ralph Hepburn in 1946 in an eight-cylinder front drive Novi Special.

Hepburn's top speeds were 134.499 for two and one-half miles (one lap) and 133.944 for ten miles.

The car is owned by J. C. Agajanian of San Pedro, Calif. Johnny Mantz drove it to seventh place in the 1949 "500." But none of the other entrants suspected that the two-year-old car was capable of such speed.

Faulkner took to the track just as the gun fired ending the opening qualifying session, but his car was rolling and the run counted. It gave him the No. 1 starting position for the race, the day's top prize of $500. Besides, he has a good chance for the $1,000 prize for the best qualifying time in the three weekends before the race.

A crowd estimated upwards of 50,000 saw 11 cars qualify—ten of them averaging better than 130 miles an hour.

It was the fastest cluster of cars ever to qualify on one day.

Only seven cars had made the ten-mile run previously at speeds above 130 miles an hour, and they were scattered through the years since 1939.

Faulkner's last-second dash was a disappointment to Fred Agabashian of Albany, Calif., who had been the first car to the starting line and averaged 132.792 miles an hour. He was driving a Wynn Friction Proofing Special.

With Faulkner and Agabashian in the front row will be Mauri Rose of South Bend, Ind., three-time winner, who averaged 132.319 in a front-drive Keck Special.

Nats Sign Joe DiMaggio! No, Yanks Not Crazy; It's Clipper's Cousin

By Joe Ives

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—If you read the next paragraph fast you'll think the Washington Senators pulled the biggest deal in all baseball today.

The club obtained Joe DiMaggio and farmed him out to their Concord, N. C. club.

After a pause to let the shock settle in, the Senators' Farm Director Ossie Bluege added:

"We didn't get the Yankee Clipper himself, we got the second best thing — his second cousin."

That, of course, also makes him a second cousin to Dom DiMaggio, Boston's great center fielder, and also former star Vince.

The new DiMag is an 18-year-old outfielder from Monterey, Calif. He's a carbon copy of the 35-year-old New York great. Like his namesake, he stands 6 feet two inches. Young Joe weighs 185 against 195 for Joe senior. He bats and throws righthanded and there is a strong facial resemblance.

Washington Scout Eddie Holly signed the new Joe whose real first name is Bartola — his second and the one he uses is Joe — at Lou Haines' baseball school in Peekskill, N. Y.

"He's got that same instinctive baseball sense that both Dom and Joe have," he told Bluege. "He looks and acts like a ball player. He's got a very good arm and shows every indication of really being a hitter."

"If he's just one-third as good," Bluege said, "We'll be satisfied."

Ossie said young Joe was signed to a Charlotte, N. C., club contract and then optioned down to Concord in the Class D North Carolina State League. "If he comes along fast we might move him up to Charlotte this year and then Chattanooga or Augusta."

In a telephone interview from the Concord Nats clubhouse today, young Joe said "It's a real thrill for me to be with the Senators. I think with a lot of teaching I'll come along okay but don't expect another Dom or Joe — that's asking too much."

Young Joe said he's one of seven brothers and like Joe's father use to be, his dad is a fisherman. "I've also got two sisters," he added, "but I'm the only one who plays baseball in the family."

In high school at Monterey, young Joe played center field and pitched. He hit .312 as a junior and .322 last year. He was graduated in June 1949. The youngster pitched his senior year in school. He came up with a 13-2 record, finishing all the 15 games he started.

Loser Weeper Takes Pimlico's Dixie 'Cap

BALTIMORE, May 13.—(AP)—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt finally got one of his horse's names painted on the Pimlico grandstand he owns today when Loser Weeper ran away with the Dixie Handicap.

Pimlico paints the names of the winners of the Dixie Preakness, Futurity and Special on its venerable yellow grandstand. Loser Weeper, bred and raised on Vanderbilt's nearby farm, will be the 49th name in the Dixie rows.

Loser Weeper ran the mile and three-sixteenths only one-fifth of a second slower than the track record in winning for the director and former president of the Maryland Jockey Club, owner of Pimlico.

Loser Weeper won by an easy five lengths over C. E. Tuttle's Double Brandy. Brookmeade stable's Going Away was third in the field of nine.

Loser weeper was second choice in the betting and paid $7 for $2. The favored Chicle 2nd wound up seventh.

Phils Whip New York Nationals To Maintain League Leadership

BROOKLYN, May 13.—(AP)—Vern Bickford came up with a three-hitter today but his brilliant pitching was overshadowed by the batting exploits of four former New York Gaints as the Boston Braves romped to a 12-2 decision over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The former Giants, Walker Cooper, Sid Gordon, Willard Marshall and Buddy Kerr, drove in eleven runs and collected nine of the 13 hits yielded by a trio of Brooklyn pitchers. Rookie Sam Jethroe accounted for the other Boston run with his fifth homer.

Cooper, recently acquired from Cincinnati, did the most damage. The big catcher drove in five runs on a three run homer, double and fly ball. Gordon knocked in two runs on his eighth homer while Marshall batted in three on a single and triple and Kerr one on a one-bagger.

Joe Hatten, who shut out Bickford and the Braves in Boston, bore the brunt of the Boston assault. He was pounded out in the fifth during a four man rally that gave the Braves a 7-0 lead.

Cooper ended the scoring with his home run in the ninth off Don Newcombe who was making his first appearance since he was sent home from the west complaining of a sore arm.

Double Main Event Wrestling Show Billed At Kallio's Arena This Week

A double main event show headlines Tuesday night's wrestling show at Gus Kallio's Arena with Rex Mobley, Bobby Segura, Don Keene, and George Cologne as the battlers.

After earlier matching Mobley against Cologne, Promoter Kallio late last night announced a switch in plans to give consideration to a challenge issued by Segura.

So Mobley, the classy Texan who formerly held the world's light heavyweight championship, will meet Segura, light-heavy kingpin of Mexico instead.

In the other half of the twin bill Cologne, the toughie from New Orleans, will match wits with Keene, a relative newcomer to the southern mat circuit who has won lots of supporters among Twin City fans.

Both bouts will have time limits of an hour and fifteen minutes with two falls to win.

Promoter Kallio said an out-of-town referee will handle the matches.

VD Babies

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Some doctors attending a veneral disease (VD) conference here expressed "surprise and concern" to learn of a growing practice among hospitals to give penicillin treatment automatically to babies born of mothers with VD.

The practice is based on the idea that the babies probably are infected and that it would be next to impossible to get the mothers to bring them back for later treatment. The doctors questioning the procedure voiced fear the babies might be branded for life when in many cases no tests for VD are needed.

POLLY RILEY WINS SOUTHERN EVENT

Texan Makes Spectacular Rally To Beat Dot Kirby In Finals

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., May 13. —(AP)—Two terrific iron shots and Lady Luck combined here today to give Texas-born Polly Riley, of Fort Worth, a 1-up victory over Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta and the 35th Southern Women's Amateur Golf championship.

Miss Riley's second great chip shot on the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club's 6,065 rain-soaked yards came on the 401-yard thirty-third hole. Standing 70 feet from the pin, the sturdy little Texan grasped an eight iron, sent the ball skidding from the steep slope overlooking the green, onto the velvet and into the cup.

The shot gave Miss Riley an eagle three. And that dramatic gesture highlighted a bitter, gruelling battle over 36 holes that three times saw Miss Kirby pull from behind with spectacular putting.

Twice during the long struggle, Miss Kirby was four down.

It was the first of Miss Riley's great chip shots that started her on her way to turning the match into what looked to be a rout. This one came in the morning round on hole No. 11, a 174-yard par three. Miss Riley took her trusty eight iron, which performed like clockwork throughout the match, and rammed the ball to the cup from 40 feet away.

She won the next two holes to go three up, increased her advantage to four holes on No. 15 with a six-foot putt for a birdie four. Miss Kirby came back on No. 16 to card a birdie of her own and take her first hole since she grabbed No. 9 to take the lead for the first time.

Down three holes when they called it quits for the lunch time intermission, Miss Kirby went down another hole as the two stars played the first hole of the afternoon session.

Miss Kirby then came up with one of the greatest rallies since she started playing golf 19 years ago. The 30-year-old Georgian won four of the next six holes, squaring the match on No. 25 for the first time since it was deadlocked on No. 10.

FAULKNER TURNS IN RECORD TRIAL

Averages 134.343 Miles Per Hour In Test For Speedway Classic

INDIANAPOLIS, May 13.—(AP)—Walt Faulkner of Long Beach, Calif., qualified for his first 500-mile Memorial Day race and smashed the Indianapolis Motor Speedway records for both 2 1-2 and ten miles today.

He averaged 134.343 miles an hour in the four-cylinder rear-drive Grant Piston Ring Special. His best lap was 136.013.

The 30-year-old Faulkner's performance broke the four-year-old qualifying records set by the late Ralph Hepburn in 1946 in an eight-cylinder front drive Novi Special.

Hepburn's top speeds were 134.499 for two and one-half miles (one lap) and 133.944 for ten miles.

The car is owned by J. C. Agajanian of San Pedro, Calif. Johnny Mantz drove it to seventh place in the 1949 "500." But none of the other entrants suspected that the two-year-old car was capable of such speed.

Faulkner took to the track just as the gun fired ending the opening qualifying session, but his car was rolling and the run counted. It gave him the No. 1 starting position for the race, the day's top prize of $500. Besides, he has a good chance for the $1,000 prize for the best qualifying time in the three weekends before the race.

A crowd estimated upwards of 50,000 saw 11 cars qualify—ten of them averaging better than 130 miles an hour.

It was the fastest cluster of cars ever to qualify on one day.

Only seven cars had made the ten-mile run previously at speeds above 130 miles an hour, and they were scattered through the years since 1939.

Faulkner's last-second dash was a disappointment to Fred Agabashian of Albany, Calif., who had been the first car to the starting line and averaged 132.792 miles an hour. He was driving a Wynn Friction Proofing Special.

With Faulkner and Agabashian in the front row will be Mauri Rose of South Bend, Ind., three-time winner, who averaged 132.319 in a front-drive Keck Special.

Nats Sign Joe DiMaggio! No, Yanks Not Crazy; It's Clipper's Cousin

By Joe Ives

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—If you read the next paragraph fast you'll think the Washington Senators pulled the biggest deal in all baseball today.

The club obtained Joe DiMaggio and farmed him out to their Concord, N. C. club.

After a pause to let the shock settle in, the Senators' Farm Director Ossie Bluege added:

"We didn't get the Yankee Clipper himself, we got the second best thing — his second cousin."

That, of course, also makes him a second cousin to Dom DiMaggio, Boston's great center fielder, and also former star Vince.

The new DiMag is an 18-year-old outfielder from Monterey, Calif. He's a carbon copy of the 35-year-old New York great. Like his namesake, he stands 6 feet two inches. Young Joe weighs 185 against 195 for Joe senior. He bats and throws righthanded and there is a strong facial resemblance.

Washington Scout Eddie Holly signed the new Joe whose real first name is Bartola — his second and the one he uses is Joe — at Lou Haines' baseball school in Peekskill, N. Y.

"He's got that same instinctive baseball sense that both Dom and Joe have," he told Bluege. "He looks and acts like a ball player. He's got a very good arm and shows every indication of really being a hitter."

"If he's just one-third as good," Bluege said, "We'll be satisfied."

Ossie said young Joe was signed to a Charlotte, N. C., club contract and then optioned down to Concord in the Class D North Carolina State League. "If he comes along fast we might move him up to Charlotte this year and then Chattanooga or Augusta."

In a telephone interview from the Concord Nats clubhouse today, young Joe said "It's a real thrill for me to be with the Senators. I think with a lot of teaching I'll come along okay but don't expect another Dom or Joe — that's asking too much."

Young Joe said he's one of seven brothers and like Joe's father use to be, his dad is a fisherman. "I've also got two sisters," he added, "but I'm the only one who plays baseball in the family."

In high school at Monterey, young Joe played center field and pitched. He hit .312 as a junior and .322 last year. He was graduated in June 1949. The youngster pitched his senior year in school. He came up with a 13-2 record, finishing all the 15 games he started.

Loser Weeper Takes Pimlico's Dixie 'Cap

BALTIMORE, May 13.—(AP)—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt finally got one of his horse's names painted on the Pimlico grandstand he owns today when Loser Weeper ran away with the Dixie Handicap.

Pimlico paints the names of the winners of the Dixie Preakness, Futurity and Special on its venerable yellow grandstand. Loser Weeper, bred and raised on Vanderbilt's nearby farm, will be the 49th name in the Dixie rows.

Loser Weeper ran the mile and three-sixteenths only one-fifth of a second slower than the track record in winning for the director and former president of the Maryland Jockey Club, owner of Pimlico.

Loser Weeper won by an easy five lengths over C. E. Tuttle's Double Brandy. Brookmeade stable's Going Away was third in the field of nine.

YANKEES TAKE MEASURE OF ATHLETICS, 9-3

Feiler Hits 14th Homer Of carreer As Indians Beat White Sox

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—The New York Yankees celebrated Ed Barrow Day at Yankee Stadium today by lambasting the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-3, behind the six-hit pitching of Vic Raschi and Bob Porterfield.

Barrow, former chief executive of the Yanks during the 1920 to 1945 era, received a plaque and bats autographed by all participants in an old timers game that preceded the regular game. Barrow, who was in command when the Yanks won 14 of their 16 pennants, will be feted again at a banquet tonight.

The American League "old timers," composed of former Yanks, beat a group of former National League stars, 3-1 in two innings. The National Leaguers were made up of players who faced the Yanks in the World Series from 1921 to 1943.

Once the regular game began, the Yanks wasted little time in sewing it up. The Yanks jumped on former National Leaguer Hank Wyse for four runs in the second inning with Yogi Berra and Bobby Brown supplying home runs.

The Yanks continued to peck away at reliefers Carl Scheib and Dick Fowler and piled up a 8-0 lead before the A's scored in the sixth.

Joe DiMaggio, hitless in his previous four games, broke his slump with a triple in the third, his only hit of the game.

Southwestern Conference Agrees On Television Ban

AUSTIN, Tex., May 13.—(AP)—The faculty committee of the Southwest Conference agreed today to ban television of football games unless sell-out crowds are assured.

The committee, governing body of the conference, also reaffirmed censure of the University of Arkansas for rough football and appointed Howard Grubbs its executive secretary.

Grubbs is athletic director of Texas Christian University and will succeed James H. Stewart of Dallas, who has resigned. Grubbs' salary will be $9,000 a year.

The committee decided that if a football game is shown a week in advance to be a sell-out it may be televised. This, however, will be up to the home school.

After a week of hard hitting, hurlers were hoping that Jackson—Bienville League sluggers would take it easy for the games scheduled for today. Ansley dug in for the expected H-Bomb attack of the powerful Chatham team, while other squads felt the same danger as they looked over last week's results. Saline, last season's leader, broke a four-game losing streak and gave promise of showing some of the form that made them such a smooth working machine last season.

AUSTIN, Tex., May 13.—(AP)—The faculty committee of the Southwest Conference agreed today to ban television of football games unless sell-out crowds are assured.

The committee, governing body of the conference, also reaffirmed censure of the University of Arkansas for rough football and appointed Howard Grubbs its executive secretary.

Grubbs is athletic director of Texas Christian University and will succeed James H. Stewart of Dallas, who has resigned. Grubbs' salary will be $9,000 a year.

The committee decided that if a football game is shown a week in advance to be a sell-out it may be televised. This, however, will be up to the home school.

After a week of hard hitting, hurlers were hoping that Jackson—Bienville League sluggers would take it easy for the games scheduled for today. Ansley dug in for the expected H-Bomb attack of the powerful Chatham team, while other squads felt the same danger as they looked over last week's results. Saline, last season's leader, broke a four-game losing streak and gave promise of showing some of the form that made them such a smooth working machine last season.

HILL PRINCE 1ST IN WITHERS MILE

Beats Out Middleground, Derby Winner, By Length And Half

By John Chandler

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 13.—(AP)—Hill Prince, the flying gentleman from Virginia, hung it on the Kentucky Derby winner—Middleground — today in the $29,750 Withers Mile at Belmont Park, and proved he'll be a tough number in the Preakness next week.

A crowd of 40,088 customers, who made Hill Prince and Eddie Arcaro the favorite, gave Chris Chenery's powerful bay colt a mighty cheer as he tock command near the top of the stretch and romped home with something to spare.

Hill Prince, second choice in the Derby at Louisville last week, blazed under the finish line in a sparkling 1:35 4/5, which tied the record for the stake first run in 1874. The immortal Man O'War set the record in 1920, and it was equalled in 1922 by Snob 2nd, and against Johnstown, in 1939.

The impressive note in Hill Prince's victory in that the Virginia-bred son of Princequillo-Hildene packed 126 pounds, compared with only 118 carried by Man O'War and the others.

Hill Prince bounced under the wire, his stubby tail flying, a length and one-half ahead of Middleground, while the King Ranch colt from Texas was four lengths on top of the third horse, Mrs. Andy Schuttinger's Ferd. That's the way the crowd had bet 'em, with Middleground at 3-2 on the board, and Ferd 3-1. Hill Prince paid $4.20, $2.30 and $2.10; Middleground $2.30 and $2.10, and Ferd, $2.10.

Seven colts, six of them eligible for the rich Preakness at Pimlico in Baltimore next Saturday, started. Brandywine stable's Greek Song was fourth, Wilburton farm's Erosion fifth, Mrs. W. M. Jeffords' Suleiman sixth, and C. H. Scheid's Maryland Day last. Only Erosion is a non-Preakness horse.

Your Host, Bill Goetz's California Derby favorite which ran ninth in the roses gallop, had been entered in the Withers but was scratched. It was reported Trainer Harry Daniels couldn't find a suitable jockey.

"I wasn't prepared for Hill Prince's early move," said Bill Boland, who steered Middleground to his derby score. Boland rode as an apprentice today for the last time.

The Withers started at the top of the backstretch, and Maryland Day went in front midway down, with Ferd and Suleiman close by. Heading into the far turn, about a half mile from home, Ted Atkinson shot Ferd into the lead by a scant margin, while Maryland Day tired, and Hill Prince and Middleground opened the throttle. Ferd was through at the top of the stretch, but Hill Prince came roaring on the rail, with Middleground going slightly wide to lose some ground. They were only heads apart until Arcaro stepped on the accelerator a bit more, and Hill Prince drew away in the final eighth of a mile.

Churchill's Colonist II Cops Victor Wild Stakes

KEMPTON PARK, Eng. May 13.—(AP)—Winston Churchill's French bred horse, Colonist II, won the mile and a half Victor Wild Stakes today.

The wartime prime minister received an ovation as he greeted his grey in the winner's circle.

Colonist II, a four-year old, was second choice in the betting at 5 to 4 and won the four horse race by three lengths. His time was 2:40 4-5.

Alexander Is Winner Of Peck Grid Trophy

SICILY ISLAND, La., May 13.—(Special)—Billy Alexander, who captained the Sicily Island Tigers last fall and halked up star performances until injuries put him off the gridiron, was presented the W. S. Peck, (Sr.) award for "most valuable" player at the annual football banquet sponsored by the Sicily Island Rotary Club.

The banquet, held at the school cafeteria, was attended by 82 persons, including football players and their dates, Rotary members and their wives. Guest speaker was Coach Woodrow Turner of Columbia High School.

Alexander, Larry Barron, Clarence Garrison and Russell Nelson, who are graduating seniors, were presented gold footballs by Coach Raymond Peace, who made all awards.

Letters were given to Nolan Stephens, Dennis Thurman, Johnny Merle Martin and Richard White, first year players, and Lloyd Cole, Johnny Punchard, Benny Ray Mahaffey, Floyd Mahaffey, Buddy Roberts, Gordon Vaught, Charlse Taylor, Don Baxter and Thomas Jackson, second year players.

Co-captains for the next year were announced as Bennie Ray Mahaffey and Charles Taylor.

Letters were also presented the cheerleaders, Patsy Seal, Virginia Pearson, Sarah Gambrell, Margie Evans and Betty Gambrell.

Texas Spikemen Win Southwestern Title

AUSTIN, Tex., May 13.—(AP)—The University of Texas returned to glory in Southwest Conference track and field today, winning the championship by a margin of 17 points over Texas A. and M., which had held the title for three straight years.

Five records fell before the onslaught of the finest field in Cinder path history in the southwest with Chunky Tom Cox of Rice and Flyin' Charley Parker of Texas the standouts of a meet that did not go according to form.

Parker, running his last time for Texas, won the 100-yard dash for the first time and also took the 220 his fourth straight time. He topped off his performance with a great anchor lap on the record-running sprint relay team. He was high point man with 11 1-4.

Cox, the tremendous Rice quarter-miler, set a new record of 46.9 in this event and ran a 47.4 anchor on the mile relay team that set a new mark of 3:14.3.

Texas scored 60 points, Texas A. and M. 43, Rice 32, Arkansas 20, Baylor nine, Southern Methodist seven and Texas Christian five.

Monroe's Coggins, Johnson Among Leading Hurlers; Batting Slumps

By J. P. Friend (Cotton States Statistician)

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., May 13.—(Special)—After three weeks of play Cotton States League pitchers are beginning to close the gap on the hitters, as indicated by the percentage shrinkage for the period ending May 9, according to the Friend News Service, loop statistician.

With few exceptions, the batting averages took a sharp drop from last week's figures. For instance, Bob Kurtz, Pine Bluff third baseman, skidded from .380 to .352 but regained the leadership. The judge infielder was able to collect but six hits in 21 tries. Two were home runs, a pair went for two bags and a couple of singles. In 19 games Bob has connected safely 25 times out of 71 chances. He has scored 17 runs and driven in 22.

Alex Cosmidis, Hot Springs shortstop, by virtue of 10-for-30 lost only 10 decimals and slipped into second place with .350.

Harry Schwegman, Pine Bluff second baseman, thanks mainly to four hits on May 5, picked up 33 points and settled comfortably in the No. 3 spot with .342. His hit card for the week showed nine out of 21.

Hal Bollinger, Pine Bluff shortstop, experienced plate troubles, and his mace mark suffered. Six hits in 22 times at bat cost 31 points to .342 to share with Teammate Schwegman, and four points ahead of Dom Chiola, El Dorado, who finished with .338, a loss of 34 points.

Joe Jaworski, Hot Spring, added six points to his average for .333 to lead the second division of hitters. Joe Decker, El Dorado, has .326, followed by Frank Gabrys, Hot Springs, .325; Vic Fassero, Pine Bluff, .324, and Jerry Lynch, Greenville, .321.

While not a contender, Greenwood's Danny Daum provided the spotlight among the hitters. The Dodger extended his consecutive batting streak to a dozen games by hitting safely in the last eight games during which he collected 14 hits in 30 times at bat and leaped to .316, a gain of 99 points.

Cosmidis is the slugging leader with 46 total bases, and has connected the most often with 28 hits. Included in his hit assortment are six doubles, three triples and a pair of home runs. Pine Bluff's Frank Scarpace also leads in two departments. He and Hardie Nettles have clouted four home runs. The Judge first baseman has fanned only once in 80 times at bat. Chozen has not been fooled but has been at bat only 59 times. George Ruzina, Natchez, has drilled eight doubles. Another Indian, Jim Gilbert, has tagged four three baggers. Harville Jakes, El Dorado, has batted in 24 runners. Chiola is the leading scorer with 25 tallies. Wally Lindsey, Greenwood, is pulling away from the field in stolen bases with nine.

Registering wins at the expense of Hot Springs (in relief role) and Greenville, Charlie Rugg, Greenwood lefty, went into a hurling deadlock with Cliff Coggin, Monroe star, with four straight victories and no losses. Coggins humbled Hot Springs for his fourth straight mound decision. John Miskulin, Natchez, is but a step behind with 3-0, followed by Bobby Johnson, Monroe, 2-0; Eight hurlers have 1-0. Adam Stempowski, Pine Bluff, suffered his first defeat at the hands of Clarksdale after four in a row, but came back to trip Monroe and take the lead in total wins with five. Copeland Goss, El Dorado, has 4-1; five others have won three and dropped one. Paul Aube, El Dorado, has been beaten five times and has yet to break into the win column. Norm Stephens, Clarksdale, is the strikeout king with 40 whiffings, three more than Stempowski. Rugg has fanned 34; Coggins humbled 32.

Pine Bluff is setting the club batting pace with a blistering .307. Clarksdale has the highest fielding percentage, .960.

TOP HORSES AIM FOR PREAKNESS

Hill Prince, Middleground, Your Host Among Leading Entries

SPTS TOP HORSES... ... .

By George Bowen

BALTIMORE, May 13.—(AP)—This time next week we'll know the winner of the 74th Preakness. Meanwhile, the old guessing game will go merrily along.

Right now, the guessing is over which colts will be in the parade from the post next Saturday at old Pimlico at 2:30 p.m. (C. S. T.).

The outlook is for eight, give or take a couple, going after the middle leg of the turf's triple crown.

The winning Middleground from King Ranch heads a half a dozen of the Kentucky Derby starters considered entries in The Preakness. The others are C. T. Chenery's Hill Prince, C. V. Whitney's Mr. Trouble, King Ranch's On The Mark, W. M. Goetz's Your Host, and Willorene farm's Trumpet King.

Hill Prince and Trumpet King were made supplemental entries at $1,500 apiece on April 15 so there's added incentive to start them. Colts nominated at birth and kept eligible in three annual payments get in for $135.

Trainer Preston Burch of Sunglow has expressed doubt over starting the Brookmeade colt in The Preakness. Sunglow finished fourth in the Derby from which stablemate Greek Ship was a late scratch.

Hal Price Headley's Lotowhite and Whitney's Dooly also may have found the derby was their last shot at one of the three classics which wind up with the Belmont next month.

At least a couple of new faces should join the derby crowd. The most likely are Mrs. Andrew Schuttinger's Ferd, Mrs. James Carson's Kinsman and Mrs. William H. Labrot's Balkan.

All three had to pay the higher tariff of $1,500 for late nominations.

Then there's always the chance that someone overlooked among the 78 eligible will decide to go.

Such was the case in the derby when W. T. Fugate surprised everybody by sending Hallieboy at the last minute in a truck from Rhode Island to Louisville.

Compared to the other two classics, The Preakness is short—in distance and dough.

The colts travel a mile and three-sixteenths. The derby is a mile and quarter and the Belmont a mile and a half. Pimlico puts $50,000 into the pot compared to Churchill Downs' $100,000 and Belmont's $75,000.

Industrial League

The Industrial Softball League, composed of five teams since Southern Carbons has declined to field a club, will begin play here this week.

Opening game is scheduled for Tuesday night with Thermatomic meeting the post office at Sterlington.

Louisiana Power and Light goes into action with News-Star in a Wednesday night game at West Monroe, and two games are on tap for Friday night when News-Star plays Thermatomic at Sherrouse, and Post Office meets Southern Bell Telephone at Recreation Field.

WE GUARANTEE NEW POWER IN 10 MILES WHEN YOU USE RISLONE WITH YOUR OIL!

Rislone gives fast, feelable improvement . . . ends lazy pick-up, sluggish starting, power-sputter, motor-buck

Rislone "Motor Magic" works in cars of any age. And cars of all ages need Rislone all the time.

Rislone is an oil-improving alloy for all motor lubricants. It's a super-lubricant—with no harmful ingredients. You can keep it in your car all the time.

Modern motor-oil has gum-forming properties. But Rislone dissolves gum and sludge as soon as it forms — prevents power-robbing deposits on your valves, pistons, and other moving parts.

Tune-up as you drive

Use Rislone to keep your motor clean as you drive . . . at peak performance for smooth power at all speeds, and quick starting in all weather.

It protects your engine with instant, full lubrication. It keeps your car from getting sluggish at low speeds. In new cars (or reconditioned engines) it eliminates slow-speed break-in—permits driving at normal speeds immediately and safely.

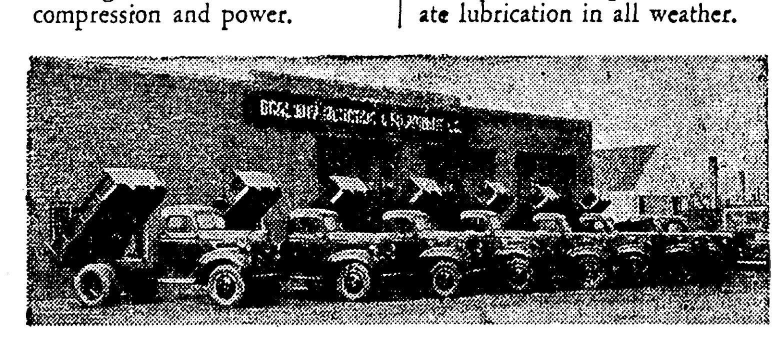
Money-back Guarantee

We are so confident that Rislone can work its "motor magic" on your car that we give you this unconditional money-back guarantee. See details below.

Fleet Operators Use Rislone, Save on Service and Repairs

Experienced truck-operators know that Rislone dissolves gum and sludge, eliminates and prevents sticking valves, and restores lost compression and power.

They use Rislone also to facilitate the break-in of new and reconditioned motors . . . and to assure quick starting and immediate lubrication in all weather.



Rislone Keeps Marine Engines at Peak Efficiency

Rislone dissolves gum and sludge to prevent dangerous, costly break-downs caused by clogged oil lines, inadequate lubrication, and excessive wear.

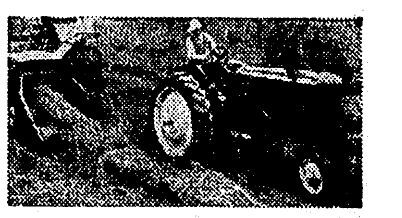
Rislone keeps power-plants shipshape while boats are idle, or hauled out for the winter. Spring-starting is quick and easy.

Rislone Helps Contractors to Prevent Job Delays

Contractors the world over find that the regular use of Rislone reduces maintenance costs.

It maintains full power and dependability, keeps oil free-flowing, prevents sticking valves and clogged piston rings—and assures quick, easy starting even in the coldest weather.

Rislone Keeps Farm Machinery Fit All The Year



Thousands of farmers from coast to coast count on Rislone to keep engines in tip-top shape. They know it helps any internal combustion engine on the farm run better, and last longer, with less servicing.

Money-back Guarantee!

Make this test:

1. Put a quart of Rislone in your crankcase today.
2. Drive 10 miles. Watch for smoother, quieter power; new get-up-and-go; power surge pick-up.

HILL PRINCE 1ST IN WITHERS MILE

Beats Out Middleground, Derby Winner, By Length And Half

By John Chandler

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 13.—(AP)—Hill Prince, the flying gentleman from Virginia, hung it on the Kentucky Derby winner—Middleground — today in the $29,750 Withers Mile at Belmont Park, and proved he'll be a tough number in the Preakness next week.

A crowd of 40,088 customers, who made Hill Prince and Eddie Arcaro the favorite, gave Chris Chenery's powerful bay colt a mighty cheer as he took command near the top of the stretch and romped home with something to spare.

Hill Prince, second choice in the Derby at Louisville last week, blazed under the finish line in a sparkling 1:35 4/5, which tied the record for the stake first run in 1874. The immortal Man O'War set the record in 1920, and it was equalled in 1922 by Snob 2nd, and against Johnstown, in 1939.

The impressive note in Hill Prince's victory in that the Virginia-bred son of Princequillo-Hildene packed 126 pounds, compared with only 118 carried by Man O'War and the others.

Hill Prince bounced under the wire, his stubby tail flying, a length and one-half ahead of Middleground, while the King Ranch colt from Texas was four lengths on top of the third horse, Mrs. Andy Schuttinger's Ferd. That's the way the crowd had bet 'em, with Middleground at 3-2 on the board, and Ferd 3-1. Hill Prince paid $4.20, $2.30 and $2.10; Middleground $2.30 and $2.10, and Ferd, $2.10.

Seven colts, six of them eligible for the rich Preakness at Pimlico in Baltimore next Saturday, started. Brandywine stable's Greek Song was fourth, Wilburton farm's Erosion fifth, Mrs. W. M. Jeffords' Suleiman sixth, and C. H. Scheid's Maryland Day last. Only Erosion is a non-Preakness horse.

Your Host, Bill Goetz's California Derby favorite which ran ninth in the roses gallop, had been entered in the Withers but was scratched. It was reported Trainer Harry Daniels couldn't find a suitable jockey.

"I was'nt prepared for Hill Prince's early move," said Bill Boland, who steered Middleground to his derby score. Boland rode as an apprentice today for the last time.

The Withers started at the top of the backstretch, and Maryland Day went in front midway down, with Ferd and Suleiman close by. Heading into the far turn, about a half mile from home, Ted Atkinson shot Ferd into the lead by a scant margin, while Maryland Day tired, and Hill Prince and Middleground opened the throttle.

Ferd was through at the top of the stretch, but Hill Prince came roaring on the rail, with Middleground going slightly wide to lose some ground. They were only heads apart until Arcaro stepped on the accelerator a bit more, and Hill Prince drew away in the final eighth of a mile.

Churchill's Colonist II Cops Victor Wild Stakes

KEMPTON PARK, Eng. May 13.—(AP)—Winston Churchill's French bred horse, Colonist II, won the mile and a half Victor Wild Stakes today.

The wartime prime minister received an ovation as he greeted his grey in the winner's circle.

Colonist II, a four-year old, was second choice in the betting at 5 to 4 and won the four horse race by three lengths. His time was 2:40 4-5.

Alexander Is Winner Of Peck Grid Trophy

SICILY ISLAND, La., May 13.—(Special)—Billy Alexander, who captained the Sicily Island Tigers last fall and halked up star performances until injuries put him off the gridiron, was presented the W. S. Peck, (Sr.) award for "most valuable" player at the annual football banquet sponsored by the Sicily Island Rotary Club.

The banquet, held at the school cafeteria, was attended by 82 persons, including football players and their dates, Rotary members and their wives. Guest speaker was Coach Woodrow Turner of Columbia High School.

Alexander, Larry Barron, Clarence Garrison and Russell Nelson, who are graduating seniors, were presented gold footballs by Coach Raymond Peace, who made all awards.

Letters were given to Nolan Stephens, Dennis Thurman, Johnny Merle Martin and Richard White, first year players, and Lloyd Cole, Johnny Punchard, Benny Ray Mahaffey, Floyd Mahaffey, Buddy Roberts, Gordon Vaught, Charlse Taylor, Don Baxter and Thomas Jackson, second year players.

Co-captains for the next year were announced as Bennie Ray Mahaffey and Charles Taylor.

Letters were also presented the cheerleaders, Patsy Seal, Virginia Pearson, Sarah Gambrell, Margie Evans and Betty Gambrell.

Texas Spikemen Win Southwestern Title

AUSTIN, Tex., May 13.—(AP)—The University of Texas returned to glory in Southwest Conference track and field today, winning the championship by a margin of 17 points over Texas A. and M., which had held the title for three straight years.

Five records fell before the onslaught of the finest field in Cinder path history in the southwest with Chunky Tom Cox of Rice and Flyin' Charley Parker of Texas the standouts of a meet that did not go according to form.

Parker, running his last time for Texas, won the 100-yard dash for the first time and also took the 220 his fourth straight time. He topped off his performance with a great anchor lap on the record-running sprint relay team. He was high point man with 11 1-4.

Cox, the tremendous Rice quarter-miler, set a new record of 46.9 in this event and ran a 47.4 anchor on the mile relay team that set a new mark of 3:14.3.

Texas scored 60 points, Texas A. and M. 43, Rice 32, Arkansas 20, Baylor nine, Southern Methodist seven and Texas Christian five.

Monroe's Coggins, Johnson Among Leading Hurlers; Batting Slumps

By J. P. Friend
(Cotton States Statistician)

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., May 13.—(Special)—After three weeks of play Cotton States League pitchers are beginning to close the gap on the hitters, as indicated by the percentage shrinkage for the period ending May 9, according to the Friend News Service, loop statistician.

With few exceptions, the batting averages took a sharp drop from last week's figures. For instance, Bob Kurtz, Pine Bluff third baseman, skidded from .380 to .352 but regained the leadersip. The judge infielder was able to collect but six hits in 21 tries. Two were home runs, a pair went for two bags and a couple of singles. In 19 games Bob has connected safely 25 times out of 71 chances. He has scored 17 runs and driven in 22.

Alex Cosmidis, Hot Springs shortstop, by virtue of 10-for-30 lost only 10 decimals and slipped into second place with .350.

Harry Schwegman, Pine Bluff second baseman, thanks mainly to four hits on May 5, picked up 33 points and settled comfortably in the No. 3 spot with .342 . His hit card for the week showed nine out of 21.

Hal Bollinger, Pine Bluff shortstop, experienced plate troubles, and his mace mark suffered. Six hits in 22 times at bat cost 31 points to .342 to share with Teammate Schwegman, and four points ahead of Dom Chiola, El Dorado, who finished with .338, a loss of 34 points.

Joe Jaworski, Hot Spring, added six points to his average for .333 to lead the second division of hitters. Joe Decker, El Dorado, has .326, followed by Frank Gabrys, Hot Springs, .325; Vic Fassero, Pine Bluff, .324, and Jerry Lynch, Greenville, .321.

While not a contender, Greenwood's Danny Daum provided the spotlight among the hitters. The Dodger extended his consecutive batting streak to a dozen games by hitting safely in the last eight games during which he collected 14 hits in 30 times at bat and leaped to .316, a gain of 99 points.

Cosmidis is the slugging leader with 46 total bases, and has connected the most often with 28 hits. Included in his hit assortment are six doubles, three triples and a pair of home runs. Pine Bluff's Frank Scarpace also leads in two departments. He and Hardie Nettles have clouted four home runs. The Judge first baseman has fanned only once in 80 times at bat. Chozen has not been fooled but has been at bat only 59 times. George Ruzina, Natchez, has drilled eight doubles. Another Indian, Jim Gilbert, has tagged four three baggers. Harville Jakes, El Dorado, has batted in 24 runners. Chiola is the leading scorer with 25 tallies. Wally Lindsey, Greenwood, is pulling away from the field in stolen bases with nine.

Registering wins at the expense of Hot Springs (in relief role) and Greenville, Charlie Rugg, Greenwood lefty, went into a hurling deadlock with Cliff Coggin, Monroe star, with four straight victories a no losses. Coggins humbled Hot Springs for his fourth straight mound decision. John Miskulin, Natchez, is but a step behind with 3-0, followed by Bobby Johnson, Monroe, 2-0; Eight hurlers have 1-0. Adam Stempowski, Pine Bluff, suffered his first defeat at the hands of Clarksdale after four in a row, but came back to trip Monroe and take the lead in total wins with five. Copeland Goss, El Dorado, has 4-1; five others have won three and dropped one. Paul Aube, El Dorado, has been beaten five times and has yet to break into the win column. Norm Stephens, Clarksdale, is the strikeout king with 40 whiffings, three more than Stempowski. Rugg has fanned 34; Coggins humbled 32.

Pine Bluff is setting the club batting pace with a blistering .307. Clarksdale has the highest fielding percentage, .960.

TOP HORSES AIM FOR PREAKNESS

Hill Prince, Middleground, Your Host Among Leading Entries

SPTS TOP HORSES... ... .
By George Bowen

BALTIMORE, May 13.—(AP)—This time next week we'll know the winner of the 74th Preakness. Meanwhile, the old guessing game will go merrily along.

Right now, the guessing is over which colts will be in the parade to the post next Saturday at old Pimlico at 2:30 p.m. (C. S. T.).

The outlook is for eight, give or take a couple, going after the middle leg of the turf's triple crown.

The winning Middleground from King Ranch heads a half a dozen of the Kentucky Derby starters considered entries in The Preakness. The others are C. T. Chenery's Hill Prince, C. V. Whitney's Mr. Trouble, King Ranch's On The Mark, W. M. Goetz's Your Host, and Willorene farm's Trumpet King.

Hill Prince and Trumpet King were made supplemental entries at $1,500 apiece on April 15 so there's added incentive to start them. Colts nominated at birth and kept eligible in three annual payments get in for $135.

Trainer Preston Burch of Sunglow has expressed doubt over starting the Brookmeade colt in The Preakness. Sunglow finished fourth in the Derby from which stablemate Greek Ship was a late scratch.

Hal Price Headley's Lotowhite and Whitney's Dooly also may have found the derby was their last shot at one of the three classics which wind up with the Belmont next month.

At least a couple of new faces should join the derby crowd. The most likely are Mrs. Andrew Schuttinger's Ferd, Mrs. James Carson's Kinsman and Mrs. William H. Labrot's Balkan.

All three had to pay the higher tariff of $1,500 for late nominations.

Then there's always the chance that someone overlooked among the 78 eligible will decide to go. Such was the case in the derby when W. T. Fugate surprised everybody by sending Hallieboy at the last minute in a truck from Rhode Island to Louisville.

Compared to the other two classics, The Preakness is short—in distance and dough.

The colts travel a mile and three-sixteenths. The derby is a mile and quarter and the Belmont a mile and a half. Pimlico puts $50,000 into the pot compared to Churchill Downs' $100,000 and Belmont's $75,000.

Industrial League

The Industrial Softball League, composed of five teams since Southern Carbons has declined to field a club, will begin play here this week.

Opening game is scheduled for Tuesday night with Thermatomic meeting the post office at Sterlington.

Louisiana Power and Light goes into action with News-Star in a Wednesday night game at West Monroe, and two games are on tap for Friday night when News-Star plays Thermatomic at Sherrouse, and Post Office meets Southern Bell Telephone at Recreation Field.

Rislone is an oil-improving alloy for all motor lubricants. It's a super-lubricant—with no harmful ingredients. You can keep it in your car all the time.

Modern motor-oil has gum-forming properties. But Rislone dissolves gum and sludge as soon as it forms — prevents power-robbing deposits on your valves, pistons, and other moving parts.

Tune-up as you drive

Use Rislone to keep your motor clean as you drive . . . at peak performance for smooth power at all speeds, and quick starting in all weather.

It protects your engine with instant, full lubrication. It keeps your car from getting sluggish at low speeds. In new cars (or reconditioned engines) it eliminates slow-speed break-in—permits driving at normal speeds immediately and safely.

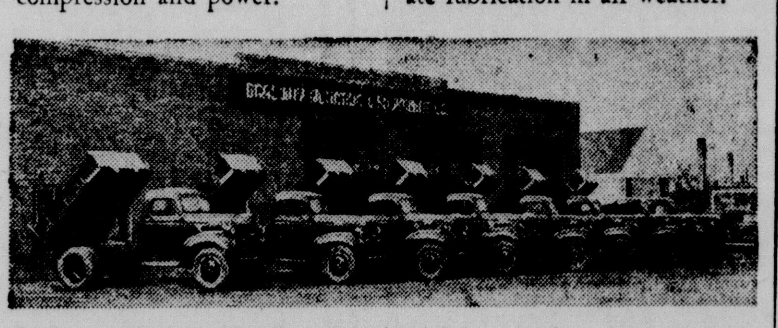
Money-back Guarantee

We are so confident that Rislone can work its "motor magic" in your car that we give you this unconditional money-back guarantee. See details below.

Fleet Operators Use Rislone, Save on Service and Repairs

Experienced truck-operators know that Rislone dissolves gum and sludge, eliminates and prevents sticking valves, and restores lost compression and power.

They use Rislone also to facilitate the break-in of new and reconditioned motors . . . and to assure quick starting and immediate lubrication in all weather.



Rislone Keeps Farm Machinery Fit All The Year

Thousands of farmers from coast to coast count on Rislone to keep engines in tip-top shape. They know it helps any internal combustion engine on the farm run better, and last longer, with less servicing.

Rislone Keeps Marine Engines at Peak Efficiency

Rislone dissolves gum and sludge to prevent dangerous, costly break-downs caused by clogged oil lines, inadequate lubrication, and excessive wear.

Rislone keeps power-plants shipshape while boats are idle, or laid away for the winter. Spring-starting is quick and easy.

Rislone Helps Contractors to Prevent Job Delays

Contractors the world over find that the regular use of Rislone reduces maintenance costs.

It maintains full power and dependability, keeps oil free-flowing, prevents sticking valves and clogged piston rings—and assures quick, easy starting even in the coldest weather.

Money-back Guarantee!

Make this test:

1. Put a quart of Rislone in your crankcase today.
2. Drive 10 miles. Watch for smoother, quieter power; new get-up-and-go; power surge pick-up.

LOUISIANA OIL AND GAS NEWS

President Asks For Plan To Reduce Oil Imports

By Joseph Huttlinger

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(Special)—Preisdent Truman has requested the state and interior departments to furnish him with a plan to reduce oil imports, it is learned. There'll be no action until the president returns from his western trip, if then. Moral suasion is the guiding principle in some official minds, with chances good that oil importing companies may be asked to reduce imports voluntarily, perhaps with counsel or direction from the government. Legislation to curb imports stands a slim chance of final enactment.

The mastermind in the government's drive to shave down the oil industry's depletion allowance was rewarded this week when President Truman named Dr. Roy Blough, 48, to his three man council of economic advisers.

Dr. Blough, for eight years director of the treasury department's division of tax research, rarely was identified publicly with the depletion allowance; but insiders regard him as the chief strategist of both the 1942 and 1950 efforts ofthe government to lower the allowance from 27.5 per cent or to abolish it entirely. Such an effort, if successful, would cost the oil producing industry about $200 to $500 million a year, depending upon whether the allowance is reduced or wiped out entirely.

This very anonymity may help Dr. Blough when his name goes before the senate banking and currency committee for confirmation. Unless the facts get out, senators from oil producing states may fail to question the economist closely about his views regarding the oil industry.

In fact, the only member of the committee from a major oil producing state expressed ignorance of Dr. Blough's record, immediately after the name went to the senate May 10.

"I'll have to know a little more about this man before I say or do anything at all," said Senator Russell Long (D., La.).

Dr. Blough's efforts to hack away at the depletion allowance were not confined to the days of his government service. After he had left, he advised various ecomic and taxation groups, the most important of which is the committee for economic development. Officials of the C. E. D. explain Dr. Blough was responsible for a section in its "tax and expenditure policy" report of last January, which said:

"Various other provisions of the federal tax laws should be carefully studied to determine whether it may be possible to improve the fairness of the tax system, prevent tax avoidance, and increase revenues.

"An important example is presented by the special optional allowances for percentage depletion which are granted to oil and gas wells; sulphur, coal and metal mines; and certain other mineral resource industries."

In this report, Dr. Blough was anonymous. Frank W. Abrams, then board chairman of Jersey Standard, and Alexander Fraser, executive committee chairman of Shell Oil Co., are listed as C. E. D. members.

Dr. Blough would replace Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, who quit as chairman of the economic council last November in disagreement with Democratic disregard of the mounting deficit. Other members are Leon H. Keyserling, whom the president has just named chairman, and Dr. John D. Clark.

The council keeps the president posted on economic trends, recommends policies to maintain employment, production and purchasing power and helps him prepare an annual economic report to congress.

Dr. Blough, who was born in Pittsburgh, August 21, 1901, attended Manchester University, Indiana. At the University of Wisconsin he took his M. A. degree in 1922 and his Ph. D. in 1929. He taught at Manchester, then at Wisconsin, and joined the Wisconsin tax commission in 1927, in a state that sent David Lilienthal and J. A. Krug to the government. After five years, he resumed teaching at the University of Cincinnati.

In 1938, Dr. Blough joined the treasury department and speedily became director of its tax research division, remaining until 1946. During the last two years, he also was assistant to the secretary of the treasury. Since October, 1946, he has been professor of economics and political science at the University of Chicago.

Back in 1942, Blough was the behind-the-scenes man in the treasury's spirited pleas to congress to shave down the depletion allowance. Congress refused. Randolph Paul, tax adviser to the secretary at the time, did the testifying. This year, Dr. Blough again advised the treasury in its preparations for the current attempt to persuade congress to shave down the depletion allowance.

This year's fight comes to a conclusion speedily. It began last January when President Truman called the allowance a "loophole." Secretary of the Treasury John M. Snyder marched to the house ways and means committee in February and asked the 27.5 per cent allowance be reduced to 15 per cent. Oil industry witnesses opposed any change. Some urged consideration be given to raising the allowance.

Right now, the house ways and means committee is studying the proposals in executive sessions. Prospects are it will act this month, possibly within a few days. Last count showed 18 of the 25 committee members opposed to any change, but the issue is to be known only when the committee acts to kill the proposal, or the full house acts.

in March and 145 in April last year. Of new completions, 118 were oil wells, 32 made gas or condensate and 41 were non-productive, is added.

The report said March oil production averaged 548,846 barrels daily, compared with 568,650 in February. Daily average gas production in March was listed as 3,-189,188,000 cubic feet, compared with 3,147,129,000 cubic feet in February.

ROCKET IS FIRED IN MID-PACIFIC

WASHINGTON, May 13. —(AP)— A big rocket whooshed up from an experimental U. S. warship last night and rose 105.4 miles into the air. That's as far as from Denver, Colo., to Cheyenne, Wyo., or from Washington to Richmond, Va.

Although the altitude was less than half the distance that man has punched upward from his earth, it set a record for an American-built, single-stage rocket.

The projectile is called a viking. It is almost 50 feet long and 2 1-2 feet thick. It was built for the navy by the Glenn L. Martin Co. of Baltimore.

It was fired in mid-Pacific by the experimental guided missile ship Norton Sound, near Christmas Island, several hundred miles south of Hawaii. The destroyer Ozburn was along to help photograph and track the rocket.

The rocket carried instruments in its nose to check on cosmic rays at high altitude. Those rays from outer space are particularly intense around the earth's equator, site of the experiment.

The previous altitude record for an American - built single - stage rocket was 78 miles, equivalent to the distance from Washington to Gettysburg, Pa. That projectile was an aerobee, smaller than the viking.

A German V-2 rocket fired at White Sands, N. Mex., went up 114 miles (Cleveland to Toledo). But a two-stage or double-header American built missile set off from the same testing ground looped up to an altitude of more than 250 miles (Detroit to Buffalo).

The Jolly Y Janes' Club of Y-Teens will meet at the Y at 3:15 p.m.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

Baptist Says Future Lies In Industry, Science, Politics

CHIGAGO, May 13. —(AP)— The frontiers of this generation lie in the fields of science, industry and politics, a Baptist educator said today.

But Christianity must be made an integral part of the lives of the "pioneers of the future" who follow these fields if our age is not to surrender to "harsh cynicism," he added.

John Wesley Raley, president of Oklahoma Baptist University Shawnee, Okla., told the Southern Baptist Convention the questions of major concern today are whether individual freedom or group strength is more important, and whether the interests of the two can be brought into harmony to the good of both.

"Some see no basis for optimism in reconciliation of these points of view," he said. "The prophets of doom declare that the crisis has become permanent and general, and that competition between organized groups of men is keenest in the field of destructive weapons.

"Men of optimistic realism know that the defeatist has seen only the background, the dark colors upon which God is even now sketching his portrait across the canvas of moving history."

Raley said that "there are new frontiers . . . beyond which lie the regions of destiny for this generation."

These, he said, include "the mysterious realm of science"; the fields of economics and industry in which "there is literally a world to win," and the area of politics, where "our frontiers seem never to recede."

"In all of these," he declared, "as in every other area of human striving, we must accent the Christian principle as the only possible agent of integration. The scientist who labors only at the command of the state or at the weapons of destruction, with no thought of the moral consequences of his discoveries, has defiled the loftiest traditions of research.

"The economist or businessman whose sole objective is profit, with no thought of the service or utility of his product or its detriment to human happiness, has yet to apply his Christianity. The true statesman knows that he can never claim success until every human soul has access to the avenue along which it can advance farthest toward the comprehension and mastery of life."

As the session headed toward its climax—a huge evangelistic rally at Chicago Stadium tonight—the approximately 10,000 messengers (delegates) in attendance voted today to move the headquarters of the Southern Baptist Foundation from Nashville, Tenn., to Houston, Tex.

The foundation, chartered in 1947, is a financial agency of the Southern Baptist Convention.

The group heard reports from its committees today prior to the closing rally tonight.

The education commission, headed by Charles D. Johnson, professor at Baylor University, Waco, Tex., reported that toal enrollment in 64 Southern Baptist colleges and schools for the last 12 months was 61,615.

The commission commented that Southern Baptists "are losing many able personalities from their leadership because our colleges offer no Ph. D. (Doctor of Philosophy) program. Some development to meet this need is expected."

The committee headed by Edward A. McDowell, professor at Southern Seminary, Louisville, Ky., suggested that:

Provision be made for theological training of college - educated Negro candidates for the ministry "comparable to that given in our white seminaries;"

Theological instruction be provided for Negro ministers who have not had college educations;

Encouragement be given to promising Negro youth to enter the Christian ministry.

And good will and cooperation between white and Negro Baptists be promoted "to the end that the vast potential of spiritual power in our separate groups may be pooled for the defense that the people of God the world over threat to the existence of man upmust make against the present on the earth."

LOSES FAITH IN UNITED NATIONS

Ex-Secretary Of War Says Other Means Must Be Sought To Avert War

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 13.—(AP)—Former Secretary of War Robert F. Patterson said today this country no longer can depend on the United Nations to avoid another war.

"If war is to be avoided, it must be by other methods and other means," Patterson told the 52nd annual convention of the Arkansas Bar Association.

"Americans had relied on preservation of peace through the United Nations," he said, adding:

"In the hostile and truculent behavior of the Russian government we have seen that reliance shattered, we have seen our policy of peace by united world action go down in defeat."

Patterson said many hazards are present which are risks of war with Russia. He listed some of them as follows:

1. The loss of an unarmed navy plane over the Baltic sea.

2. The Soviet drive to push United States troops out of Berlin.

3. Soviet efforts to defeat economic recovery in Western Europe.

4. Soviet fifth-column sabotage in France and Italy.

Patterson, who now is in private law practice, said that "as little as we like it" peace cannot be purchased by money and a meeting across the table with Stalin will not bring down the curtain on the cold war. He added:

"The best chance we have in dealing with men who believe in violence is to build our strength and to bring it home to them that we are not afraid."

FRISCO'S MAYOR RAPS GOVERNMENT

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—Mayor Elmer E. Robinson of San Francisco bluntly accused the federal government today of bungling the civil defense program.

Declaring that national survival was at stake, the Republican accused Washington officials of engaging in "fumbling, buck-passing and division of irresponsibility" in its attempts to formulate a home defense against enemy attack.

Robinson told the U. S. conference of mayors that federal agencies were "shuffling papers, plans and schemes back and forth between themselves." He charged that three congressional committees are vying with one another for jurisdiction over civil defense.

"One report supersedes another," he said. "Neither is officially accepted as a guide for local authorities but both are sent to local authorities."

He called it a "deplorable situation" with cities left to varying plans, possibly contradictory from state to state.

"And what sort of confusion and pandemonium will that produce?" Robinson asked.

Dr. Paul J. Larsen, director of the office of civilian mobilization and another conference speaker, took immediate issue with Robinson.

DEMO STRATEGY TAKING SHAPE

Leaders Cite 1948 Campaign As Example Of What Should Be Done

CHICAGO, May 13.—(AP)—Democratic leaders counseled today the party can't win the 1951 elections by "pussyfooting" but must campaign, as in 1948, with "guns smoking hot."

Speakers at a national committee meeting opening an unprecedented three-bay party conference and Jefferson jubilee hit a common keynote—a warning against over-optimism.

"Look what happened to the Republicans in '48" was the chord of caution sounded by Democratic-Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., the new vice chairman, Mrs. India Edwards, and leaders of the party's senate and house campaign committees.

Three thousand top Democrats from all parts of the country are in town for what probably will go down as the biggest political powwow outside a national convention in the nation's history.

The climax of the big show comes Monday night with a major speech by President Truman in the stadium, preceded by a gala parade.

Tomorrow afternoon the president's cabinet will hold a unique public session in the opera house with Vice-President Barkley in the chair.

Mr. Truman is due to arrive about 9 p.m. (E. S. T.) Sunday night.

All members of his official family except Secretary of State Acheson, who is in Europe, will make "reports" on their departments at the cabinet meeting.

The emphasis then will be on the workings of the government. But today the talk was all politics.

Senator Anderson of New Mexico summed up the Democrats' 1950 campaign problem by saying:

"It would be better for us if the Democrats went into this election scared and then fought as they fought in '48—with their backs to the wall, with their guns smoking hot, and with their colors nailed to the mast."

Close allies of the birds of Paradise are the remarkable bower-birds of Australia. Conspiciously beautiful in coloration, they are celebrated for an extraordinary habit of constructing "bowers" or "playing grounds."

Music Loving Painter Tangles With Juke Box

TOLEDO, O., May 13.—(AP)—The fire department rescue squad had to end Bernard Van Dette's jam session with a juke box today.

Van Dette, 28, a painter, was alone in a bar where he was doing some redecorating when he dropped a nickel in the nickelodeon to liven his work.

The music box stopped running, so Van Dette reached into the mechanism to release the record selector. But the record holder clamped onto his hand, pinning it tightly.

Dragging the 200-pound instrument 10 feet across the floor, Van Dette reached a telephone to summon the rescue squad. He was unable to reach the door when firemen arrived, however, so rescuers broke a front window.

His only injury was bruised fingers.

LOUISIANA OIL AND GAS NEWS

President Asks For Plan To Reduce Oil Imports

By Joseph Huttlinger

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(Special)—President Truman has requested the state and interior departments to furnish him with a plan to reduce oil imports, it is learned. There'll be no action until the president returns from his western trip, if then. Moral suasion is the guiding principle in some official minds, with chances good that oil importing companies may be asked to reduce imports voluntarily, perhaps with counsel or direction from the government. Legislation to curb imports stands a slim chance of final enactment.

The mastermind in the government's drive to shave down the oil industry's depletion allowance was rewarded this week when President Truman named Dr. Roy Blough, 48, to his three man council of economic advisers.

Dr. Blough, for eight years director of the treasury department's division of tax research, rarely was identified publicly with the depletion allowance; but insiders regard him as the chief strategist of both the 1942 and 1950 efforts ofthe government to lower the allowance from 27.5 per cent or to abolish it entirely. Such an effort, if successful, would cost the oil producing industry about $200 to $500 million a year, depending upon whether the allowance is reduced or wiped out entirely.

This very anonymity may help Dr. Blough when his name goes before the senate banking and currency committee for confirmation. Unless the facts get out, senators from oil producing states may fail to question the economist closely about his views regarding the oil industry.

In fact, the only member of the committee from a major oil producing state expressed ignorance of Dr. Blough's record, immediately after the name went to the senate May 10.

"I'll have to know a little more about this man before I say or do anything at all," said Senator Russell Long (D., La.).

Dr. Blough's efforts to hack away at the depletion allowance were not confined to the days of his government service. After he had left, he advised various ecomic and taxation groups, the most important of which is the committee for economic development. Officials of the C. E. D. explain Dr. Blough was responsible for a section in its "tax and expenditure policy" report of last January, which said:

"Various other provisions of the federal tax laws should be carefully studied to determine whether it may be possible to improve the fairness of the tax system, prevent tax avoidance, and increase revenues.

"An important example is presented by the special optional allowances for percentage depletion which are granted to oil and gas wells; sulphur, coal and metal mines; and certain other mineral resource industries."

In this report, Dr. Blough was anonymous. Frank W. Abrams, then board chairman of Jersey Standard, and Alexander Fraser, executive committee chairman of Shell Oil Co., are listed as C. E. D. members.

Dr. Blough would replace Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, who quit as chairman of the economic council last November in disagreement with Democratic disregard of the mounting deficit. Other members are Leon H. Keyserling, whom the president has just named chairman, and Dr. John D. Clark.

The council keeps the president posted on economic trends, recommends policies to maintain employment, production and purchasing power and helps him prepare an annual economic report to congress.

Dr. Blough, who was born in Pittsburgh, August 21, 1901, attended Manchester University, Indiana. At the University of Wisconsin he took his M. A. degree in 1922 and his Ph. D. in 1929. He taught at Manchester, then at Wisconsin, and joined the Wisconsin tax commission in 1927, in a state that sent David Lilienthal and J. A. Krug to the government. After five years, he resumed teaching at the University of Cincinnati.

In 1938, Dr. Blough joined the treasury department and speedily became director of its tax research division, remaining until 1946. During the last two years, he also was assistant to the secretary of the treasury. Since October, 1946, he has been professor of economics and political science at the University of Chicago.

Back in 1942, Blough was the behind-the-scenes man in the treasury's spirited pleas to congress to shave down the depletion allowance. Congress refused. Randolph Paul, tax adviser to the secretary at the time, did the testifying. This year, Dr. Blough again advised the treasury in its preparations for the current attempt to persuade congress to shave down the depletion allowance.

This year's fight comes to a conclusion speedily. It began last January when President Truman called the allowance a "loophole." Secretary of the Treasury John M. Snyder marched to the house ways and means committee in February and asked the 27.5 per cent allowance be reduced to 15 per cent. Oil industry witnesses opposed any change. Some urged consideration be given to raising the allowance.

Right now, the house ways and means committee is studying the proposals in executive sessions. Prospects are it will act this month, possibly within a few days. Last count showed 18 of the 25 committee members opposed to any change, but the issue is to be known only when the committee acts to kill the proposal, or the full house acts.

in March and 145 in April last year. Of new completions, 118 were oil wells, 32 made gas or condensate and 41 were non-productive, is added.

The report said March oil production averaged 548,846 barrels daily, compared with 568,650 in February. Daily average gas production in March was listed as 3,189,188,000 cubic feet, compared with 3,147,129,000 cubic feet in February.

ROCKET IS FIRED IN MID-PACIFIC

WASHINGTON, May 13. —(AP)— A big rocket whooshed up from an experimental U. S. warship last night and rose 105.4 miles into the air. That's as far as from Denver, Colo., to Cheyenne, Wyo., or from Washington to Richmond, Va.

Although the altitude was less than half the distance that man has punched upward from his earth, it set a record for an American-built, single-stage rocket.

The projectile is called a viking. It is almost 50 feet long and 2 1-2 feet thick. It was built for the navy by the Glenn L. Martin Co. of Baltimore.

It was fired in mid-Pacific by the experimental guided missile ship Norton Sound, near Christmas Island, several hundred miles south of Hawaii. The destroyer Ozburn was along to help photograph and track the rocket.

The rocket carried instruments in its nose to check on cosmic rays at high altitude. Those rays from outer space are particularly intense around the earth's equator, site of the experiment.

The previous altitude record for an American-built single-stage rocket was 78 miles, equivalent to the distance from Washington to Gettysburg, Pa. That projectile was an aerobee, smaller than the viking.

A German V-2 rocket fired at White Sands, N. Mex., went up 114 miles (Cleveland to Toledo). But a two-stage or double-header American built missile set off from the same testing ground looped up to an altitude of more than 250 miles (Detroit to Buffalo).

The Jolly Y Janes' Club of Y-Teens will meet at the Y at 3:15 p.m.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

Baptist Says Future Lies In Industry, Science, Politics

CHIGAGO, May 13. —(AP)— The frontiers of this generation lie in the fields of science, industry and politics, a Baptist educator said today.

But Christianity must be made an integral part of the lives of the "pioneers of the future" who follow these fields if our age is not to surrender to "harsh cynicism," he added.

John Wesley Raley, president of Oklahoma Baptist University Shawnee, Okla., told the Southern Baptist Convention the questions of major concern today are whether individual freedom or group strength is more important, and whether the interests of the two can be brought into harmony to the good of both.

"Some see no basis for optimism in reconciliation of these points of view," he said. "The prophets of doom declare that the crisis has become permanent and general, and that competition between organized groups of men is keenest in the field of destructive weapons.

"Men of optimistic realism know that the defeatist has seen only the background, the dark colors upon which God is even now sketching his portrait across the canvas of moving history."

Raley said that "there are new frontiers . . . beyond which lie the regions of destiny for this generation."

These, he said, include "the mysterious realm of science"; the fields of economics and industry in which "there is literally a world to win," and the area of politics, where "our frontiers seem never to recede."

"In all of these," he declared, "as in every other area of human striving, we must accent the Christian principle as the only possible agent of integration. The scientist who labors only at the command of the state or at the weapons of destruction, with no thought of the moral consequences of his discoveries, has defiled the loftiest traditions of research.

"The economist or businessman whose sole objective is profit, with no thought of the service or utility of his product or its detriment to human happiness, has yet to apply his Christianity. The true statesman knows that he can never claim success until every human soul has access to the avenue along which it can advance farthest toward the comprehension and mastery of life."

As the session headed toward its climax—a huge evangelistic rally at Chicago Stadium tonight—the approximately 10,000 messengers (delegates) in attendance voted today to move the headquarters of the Southern Baptist Foundation from Nashville, Tenn., to Houston, Tex.

The foundation, chartered in 1947, is a financial agency of the Southern Baptist Convention.

The group heard reports from its committees today prior to the closing rally tonight.

The education commission, headed by Charles D. Johnson, professor at Baylor University, Waco, Tex., reported that toal enrollment in 64 Southern Baptist colleges and schools for the last 12 months was 61,615.

The commission commented that Southern Baptists "are losing many able personalities from their leadership because our colleges offer no Ph. D. (Doctor of Philosophy) program. Some development to meet this need is expected."

The committee headed by Edward A. McDowell, professor at Southern Seminary, Louisville, Ky., suggested that:

Provision be made for theological training of college - educated Negro candidates for the ministry "comparable to that given in our white seminaries;"

Theological instruction be provided for Negro ministers who have not had college educations;

Encouragement be given to promising Negro youth to enter the Christian ministry.

And good will and cooperation between white and Negro Baptists be promoted "to the end that the vast potential of spiritual power in our separate groups may be pooled for the defense that the people of God the world over must make against the present threat to the existence of man upon the earth."

LOSES FAITH IN UNITED NATIONS

Ex-Secretary Of War Says Other Means Must Be Sought To Avert War

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 13.—(AP)—Former Secretary of War Robert F. Patterson said today this country no longer can depend on the United Nations to avoid another war.

"If war is to be avoided, it must be by other methods and other means," Patterson told the 52nd annual convention of the Arkansas Bar Association.

"Americans had relied on preservation of peace through the United Nations," he said, adding:

"In the hostile and truculent behavior of the Russian government we have seen that reliance shattered, we have seen our policy of peace by united world action go down in defeat."

Patterson said many hazards are present which are risks of war with Russia. He listed some of them as follows:

1. The loss of an unarmed navy plane over the Baltic sea.

2. The Soviet drive to push United States troops out of Berlin.

3. Soviet efforts to defeat economic recovery in Western Europe.

4. Soviet fifth-column sabotage in France and Italy.

Patterson, who now is in private law practice, said that "as little as we like it" peace cannot be purchased by money and a meeting across the table with Stalin will not bring down the curtain on the cold war. He added:

"The best chance we have in dealing with men who believe in violence is to build our strength and to bring it home to them that we are not afraid."

FRISCO'S MAYOR RAPS GOVERNMENT

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—Mayor Elmer E. Robinson of San Francisco bluntly accused the federal government today of bungling the civil defense program.

Declaring that national survival was at stake, the Republican accused Washington officials of engaging in "fumbling, buck-passing and division of irresponsibility" in its attempts to formulate a home defense against enemy attack.

Robinson told the U. S. conference of mayors that federal agencies were "shuffling papers, plans and schemes back and forth between themselves." He charged that three congressional committees are vying with one another for jurisdiction over civil defense.

"One report supersedes another," he said. "Neither is officially accepted as a guide for local authorities but both are sent to local authorities."

He called it a "deplorable situation" with cities left to varying plans, possibly contradictory from state to state.

"And what sort of confusion and pandemonium will that produce?" Robinson asked.

Dr. Paul J. Larsen, director of the office of civilian mobilization and another conference speaker, took immediate issue with Robinson.

DEMO STRATEGY TAKING SHAPE

Leaders Cite 1948 Campaign As Example Of What Should Be Done

CHICAGO, May 13.—(AP)—Democratic leaders counseled today the party can't win the 1951 elections by "pussyfooting" but must campaign, as in 1948, with "guns smoking hot."

Speakers at a national committee meeting opening an unprecedented three-bay party conference and Jefferson jubilee hit a common keynote—a warning against over-optimism.

"Look what happened to the Republicans in '48" was the chord of caution sounded by Democratic-Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., the new vice chairman, Mrs. India Edwards, and leaders of the party's senate and house campaign committees.

Three thousand top Democrats from all parts of the country are in town for what probably will go down as the biggest political powwow outside a national convention in the nation's history.

The climax of the big show comes Monday night with a major speech by President Truman in the stadium, preceded by a gala parade.

Tomorrow afternoon the president's cabinet will hold a unique public session in the opera house with Vice-President Barkley in the chair.

Mr. Truman is due to arrive about 9 p.m. (E. S. T.) Sunday night.

All members of his official family except Secretary of State Acheson, who is in Europe, will make "reports" on their departments at the cabinet meeting.

The emphasis then will be on the workings of the government. But today the talk was all politics.

Senator Anderson of New Mexico summed up the Democrats' 1950 campaign problem by saying:

"It would be better for us if the Democrats went into this election scared and then fought as they fought in '48—with their backs to the wall, with their guns smoking hot, and with their colors nailed to the mast."

Close allies of the birds of Paradise are the remarkable bower-birds of Australia. Conspiciously beautiful in coloration, they are celebrated for an extraordinary habit of constructing "bowers" or "playing grounds."

Music Loving Painter Tangles With Juke Box

TOLEDO, O., May 13.—(AP)—The fire department rescue squad had to end Bernard Van Dette's jam session with a juke box today.

Van Dette, 28, a painter, was alone in a bar where he was doing some redecorating when he dropped a nickel in the nickelodeon to liven his work.

The music box stopped running, so Van Dette reached into the mechanism to release the record selector. But the record holder clamped onto his hand, pinning it tightly.

Dragging the 200-pound instrument 10 feet across the floor, Van Dette reached a telephone to summon the rescue squad. He was unable to reach the door when firemen arrived, however, so rescuers broke a front window.

His only injury was bruised fingers.

Certain hybrid sugarbeets have been found resistant to curley top disease.

COTTON

New York

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)— Cotton futures trading was quiet today nearby deliveries were aided by export covering.

Commission house buying was attracted to new crop months by the sharp decline on Friday. Dealers also were encouraged by optimistic estimates in connection with cotton consumption trends.

Futures closed 5 to 50 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 13.—(AP)— Cotton futures declined early here today but reacted upward on trade buying and week-end short covering. Closing prices were steady, unchanged to 60 cents a bale higher. Some of the buying was stimulated by favorable textile reports and claims that Japan was in the market for an undisclosed amount of spot cotton. The early business was attributed to an accumulation of over-night selling orders. Spot cotton remained unchanged with middling 15/16 inch quoted at 32.25 cents a pound. Local sales totaled 156 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 13. — (AP) — Old crop soybeans suffered a series of selling waves on the board of trade today, dropping more than 9 cents early in the day and then doing the same thing within the last 30 minutes.

LIVESTOCK

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—A short-lived burst of buying sent radio-television stocks scurrying ahead of the rest of the market today.

The balance of the list was on firm price ground. Gains were restricted to fractions, however, and a large assortment of leaders remained at Friday's closing levels.

Business was unusually slow even for a Saturday. Volume of around 600,000 shares was one of the smallest totals for a two-hour session this year.

Small Business

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Treasury, commerce and federal reserve board officials aren't too keen for President Truman's extensive proposals for expanding the flow of credit to small business.

They are concerned to some degree over present easy credit in general, but some of them are worried even more about the government's getting deeper into the business field.

COTTON

New York

NEW YORK, May 13. —(AP)— Cotton futures trading was quiet today nearby deliveries were aided by export covering.

Commission house buying was attracted to new crop months by the sharp decline on Friday. Dealers also were encouraged by optimistic estimates in connection with cotton consumption trends.

Futures closed 5 to 50 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 13.—(AP)— Cotton futures declined early here today but reacted upward on trade buying and week-end short covering. Closing prices were steady, unchanged to 60 cents a bale higher. Some of the buying was stimulated by favorable textile reports and claims that Japan was in the market for an undisclosed amount of spot cotton. The early business was attributed to an accumulation of over-night selling orders. Spot cotton remained unchanged with middling 15/16 inch quoted at 32.25 cents a pound. Local sales totaled 156 bales.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)— Stocks: firm; TV's advance. Bonds: mixed and narrow. Cotton: steady; trade and commission house buying.

CHICAGO — Wheat: steady; May shows strength. Corn: steady: trade light. Oats: firm; nearby contracts up most. Hogs: nominally steady. Cattle: nominally steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 13. — (AP) — Old crop soybeans suffered a series of selling waves on the board of trade today, dropping more than 9 cents early in the day and then doing the same thing within the last 30 minutes.

Wheat closed 1/8 to 1 cent higher, May $2.31 5/8-3/4, corn was 1/8-7/8 higher, May $1.46 3/4-$1.47, oats were 1/8-1 1/4 higher, May 87 1/2, rye was unchanged to 1 1/2 lower, May $1.38, soybeans were 6 3/4 lower to 3 1/4 higher, May $2.90 1/4-2.91, and lard was 15 to 20 cents a hundred pounds lower, May $12.35.

LIVESTOCK

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—A short-lived burst of buying sent radio-television stocks scurrying ahead of the rest of the market today.

The balance of the list was on firm price ground. Gains were restricted to fractions, however, and a large assortment of leaders remained at Friday's closing levels.

Business was unusually slow even for a Saturday. Volume of around 600,000 shares was one of the smallest totals for a two-hour session this year.

Small Business

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Treasury, commerce and federal reserve board officials aren't too keen for President Truman's extensive proposals for expanding the flow of credit to small business.

They are concerned to some degree over present easy credit in general, but some of them are worried even more about the government's getting deeper into the business field.

TALLULAH WILL REVIVE ROMANCE

Will Be Host To Woman Who Is Daughter Of One Giving Name To Town

Romance, love and love scorned, all intermingled in the building in the eighties of the past century of the old V. S. and P railway, will be retold in Tallulah this week when tales of the past will be revived.

The actual reason for this retelling of ancient tales lies in the fact that Mrs. Tallulah Horne Russell, of Charlotte, N. C., for whose mother the town of Tallulah was named, will make her first visit to the place and will be entertained by city officials, Chamber of Commerce staffs, service clubs and book clubs at a tea in her honor Wednesday from 4:30 to 5 p.m. in the Tallulah Book Club's rooms.

Mrs. Russell's visit has resulted from correspondence that has passed between the Chamber of Commerce of Tallulah and herself, when it was learned of her identity and that she is daughter of the woman for whom the town was named. Also interest is added in that she wrote that she had never visited the town and was eager to do so.

The story goes that when the railroad was planned, that all expected that Richmond, parish seat then of Madison parish, would be on the new railroad, the routing of which was in charge of Capt. Pierce Horne. But the captain was infatuated at the time with a wealthy widow who urged that the new railroad pass through extensive lands she owned, in and around the present city of Tallulah. She managed to persuade him according to her wishes and the road was built as she desired and little Richmond faded away and lost prestige and identity.

But the romance between the widow and the captain lagged and was completely disrupted. Then it was that he decided to name the place for his old sweetheart, Tallulah Johnson, which was done. Miss Johnson was a daughter of a governor of Georgia, it is stated incidentally.

Now as years have passed, the daughter of the woman whose name was used for the town of Tallulah, is to make her maiden visit to the community, which plans to put on a big spectacle for her and to make her well pleased that her mother's name is being kept alive in this little town in the deep south."

Bears Bare Knees For Southern Fans

MOBILE, Ala., May 13. —(AP)— The Mobile Bears are going to bare their knees to Southern Association fans.

Effective tomorrow, they're going to shed their traditional full length wool uniforms for new-style shorts and lightweight nylon shirts.

It's part of a new deal aimed toward increased speed and comfort in the warm southern climate.

The new outfits, about half as heavy as the regular woolies, are the same as those inaugurated by Hollywood earlier in the season.

The difference is that the shorts will be official agrb for all Mobile games. The Pacific Coast club wears them only during hot weather.

The pants are made of the same material as the old uniforms except they stop at the knees, and have built-in sliding pads. The nylon shirts are the pullover type with metal fasteners instead of buttons.

Altogether the new uniforms weigh one pound, 14 ounces. The regulation garb comes to two pounds, 11 ounces at the opening of the game and gets heavier as the game moves along.

When you build thru the Turpin Lumber & Supply Co. your home is designed and supervised, FREE OF CHARGE, by a registered architect (not just a draftsman). Whether you select one of our regular plans, or have us design a home especially for you, this competent professional service assures you of getting careful attention to room arrangement, furniture spacing, elimination of wasted space, and the many other details that you want in your new home.

MORE SERVICE TO THE BUILDER

We furnish plans and specifications free of charge, we put your F.H.A. loan through for you without charging any brokerage fee—When the loan is approved we buy the lot for you—We take care of all the legal details of your loans—We furnish all the materials and labor for the complete house, and we finance the house while it is under construction (You do not need to go to the trouble and expense of arranging a temporary bank loan to cover "INTERIM FINANCING").

MORE QUALITY FOR THE BUILDER

Buying in large quantities for our two stores enables us to select the best in building materials of carload prices and pass the savings on to you. You will be pleased with the kind of materials used throughout your home.
We specialize in residential construction, and have our own crews of carpenters, painters, plumbers and electricians who work entirely for us. Many of these men have been with us continually for more than three years. Naturally they are more interested in their work than temporary employees. This experience and interest, plus our careful supervision, has built our reputation of QUALITY CONSTRUCCTION.

MORE VALUE FOR THE BUILDER

Your TURPIN-BUILT home will include many features not usually found in reasonably priced homes, such as GENUINE YOUNGSTOWN METAL KITCHEN CABINETS, a vented floor furnace or central heating system, complete, draft free weather stripping on windows and exterior doors, a four foot, six inch high baked enamel Congowall wainscote in the kitchen and bath, hardwood floors throughout, inlaid linoleum in kitchen and baths, a built-in linen closet with soiled clothes hamper, an outside storage closet for garden tools and more than enough clothes closets.

Yet, You Pay Less

Yes, you will save time and trouble by having your entire house handled by one firm —and you will also save money. When you build through the TURPIN LUMBER & SUPPLY Co. you are paying only one overhead and one profit. By concentrating on residential construction, by buying in quantity and by building a number of houses at a time we can keep the overhead cost down—and can afford to make less profit per house.

C., for whose mother the town of Tallulah was named, will make her first visit to the place and will be entertained by city officials, Chamber of Commerce staffs, service clubs and book clubs at a tea in her honor Wednesday from 4:30 to 5 p.m. in the Tallulah Book Club's rooms.

Mrs. Russell's visit has resulted from correspondence that has passed between the Chamber of Commerce of Tallulah and herself, when it was learned of her identity and that she is daughter of the woman for whom the town was named. Also interest is added in that she wrote that she had never visited the town and was eager to do so.

The story goes that when the railroad was planned, that all expected that Richmond, parish seat then of Madison parish, would be on the new railroad, the routing of which was in charge of Capt. Pierce Horne. But the captain was infatuated at the time with a wealthy widow who urged that the new railroad pass through extensive lands she owned, in and around the present city of Tallulah. She managed to persuade him according to her wishes and the road was built as she desired and little Richmond faded away and lost prestige and identity.

But the romance between the widow and the captain lagged and was completely disrupted. Then it was that he decided to name the place for his old sweetheart, Tallulah Johnson, which was done. Miss Johnson was a daughter of a governor of Georgia, it is stated incidentally.

Now as years have passed, the daughter of the woman whose name was used for the town of Tallulah, is to make her maiden visit to the community, which plans to put on a big spectacle for her and to make her well pleased that her mother's name is being kept alive in this little town in the deep south."

Bears Bare Knees For Southern Fans

MOBILE, Ala., May 13. —(AP)— The Mobile Bears are going to bare their knees to Southern Association fans.

Effective tomorrow, they're going to shed their traditional full length wool uniforms for new-style shorts and lightweight nylon shirts.

It's part of a new deal aimed toward increased speed and comfort in the warm southern climate.

The new outfits, about half as heavy as the regular woolies, are the same as those inaugurated by Hollywood earlier in the season.

The difference is that the shorts will be official agrb for all Mobile games. The Pacific Coast club wears them only during hot weather.

The pants are made of the same material as the old uniforms except they stop at the knees, and have built-in sliding pads. The nylon shirts are the pullover type with metal fasteners instead of buttons.

Altogether the new uniforms weigh one pound, 14 ounces. The regulation garb comes to two pounds, 11 ounces at the opening of the game and gets heavier as the game moves along.

Vows Exchanged At Nuptial Mass At St. Matthew's Catholic Church

The St. Mattnew's Catholic Church was the scene of a beautiful spring wedding on Thursday morning, April 27, when Miss Christine Elizabeth Jacola and John Alton Roberts were united in marriage at a nuptial Mass at 9:30 a.m. with Father Marvin Bordelon officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Jacola and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Roberts, both of this city.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with white calla lilies. Mrs. Della Williamson presided at the organ rendering a program of traditional nuptial music. Mrs. Mary Thodes sang "Ave Maria."

Entering on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was wearing a lovely traditional bridal gown of white satin with scalloped yoke of imported chantilly lace and pearl trim, with a fitted bodice, long sleeves which tapered to lily points over the hands and full skirt that cascaded from the waist down to its extravagant cathedral train trimmed in matching chantilly lace. Her soft bridai veil of imported illusion fell from a coronet of embroidered seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of stock and white roses centered with a white orchid.

Miss Vita Marie Jacola, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, and Mrs. James Balsamo served as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Bill Humble, Miss Catherine Adragna, and Miss Rosina Lisotta. The flower girl was Cathie Ann Jacola.

The bridesmaids wore identical dresses of shell pink with fitted bodice of taffeta and yoke of marquisette, a full skirt of marquisette with crushed taffeta in apron effect, and matching head pieces and gloves. MONROE GARDEN CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS AT ANNUAL MEETING

The annual business meeting and election of new officers for the Monroe Garden Club was held in the home of Mrs. George Snellings, Jr. last week.

Mrs. John Sherrouse, Jr., vice-president, presided in the absence of Mrs. Kent Breard. Yearly reports were given by the outgoing officers and committee chairmen. Other than the numerous well known lecturers presented throughout the year to the public as well as members, the most outstanding work done in 1949 and 50 by this club was the landscaping of the colored library and three study groups conducted for members on horticulture, flower arranging and landscaping.

A motion was made and carried to the effect that the 140 members wished to go on record as being opposed to the cutting of the large oak trees on Jackson street. It was asked that a committee go before the necessary officials to oppose this destruction.

The following 1950-51 officers were elected: Mrs. George Snellings, Jr., president; Mrs. John Sherrouse, Jr., president - elect; Mrs. H. H. Mouk, vice president; Mrs. John Theus, recording secretary; Mrs. Gilbert Stovall, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. C. Earnest, treasurer, and Mrs. Kent Breard, historian.

Mrs. Flora Potts gave a most interesting report on the National Convention of the Federated Garden Clubs.

Four of Monroe's leading gardens, Mrs. Mildred Swift, Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher, Mrs. John Breard, Jr. and Mrs. H. G. Thompson, served on a board to answer questions presented by the members concerning their individual gardening problems. Mrs. Gilbert Stovall acted as moderator and a lively discussion was held which ironed out quite a lot of members gardening troubles.

Following the business meeting the ladies gathered in Mrs. Snellings spacious dining room. Mrs. C. R. Tidwell served punch while Mrs. A. D. Tisdale and Mrs. Corbin Turpin served sandwiches and cookies.

The messengers of the Senate, House and Supreme Court have their school in the Library of Congress. Although the school is directly supported by appropriations from Congress it is, like public high schools in the District of Columbia, under supervision of the local Board of Education. It offers virtually the same four-year course as is found in other local high schools.

MY MAN and YOURS

By Margene Danch

Today's column was sent in by Norene Creighton of Berrien Springs, Mich:

"My husband used to be one of those people who has to have another forty winks after the alarm goes off. The forty usually lengthens into eighty, and so until I have finished in the bathroom, and breakfast is nearly ready before I can get him up. And then we are apt to be late. .

I tried all the usual methods of getting him up, such as the ice water drip, and setting the clock ahead, but it didn't work. He didn't mind the ice water, and he could look at his watch and know that the clock was wrong. But I finally found the solution that works with such amazing success that I wonder why I didn't think of it before.

I'll pass it on so some of the wives with husbands who are hard to get up in the mornings, can try it on them. . . . I have it down to such a science that now all I have to do is speak one word, and hubby pops out of bed like he had been poked by a pin from beneath.

The first morning I tried it, I said, 'If you don't get up I will spray you with some of my perfume.' I got the usual answer—'Ummmmmmmm — snore.' He didn't think I would do it. But I did! I didn't use cheap cologne either that would evaporate too soon! I used my best Black Satin perfume that he had given me for Christmas, and the fragrance clings—and clings.

My husband is a student in college, and one session in class sitting between a couple of fellows who sniffed and asked him what brand he used, was enough to do the trick. Now, if he is reluctant to get up, I just have to threaten him, and he gets right out. He doesn't dare take a chance, because once the damage is done—it won't even wash off! Swinging at me doesn't do any good, because my aim with the atomizer is pretty good even when operating beyong arm's reach! .

There's just one drawback. I'm about out of Black Satin, and I understand I'm getting stationery from my husband for my birthday in April!"

WELCOME GARDEN CLUB TO PRESENT MRS. HOWARD S. KITTEL

Flower lovers of the Twin Cities are looking forward to the lecture by Mrs. Howard S. Kittel of Fort Worth which is scheduled for May 24th, at 10:00 a.m. at the Virginia Hotel. Mrs. Kittell is coming back to Monroe through the auspices of the Welcome Garden Club. They are extending an invitation to club members of all other garden clubs to hear this well-known lecturer. Tickets may be obtained from any Welcome Garden Club members, or at the door on the morning of the lecture.

Mrs. Kittel is certainly well qualified in her field, having won many honors from the New York Horticultural Society, as well as honors throughout the south where she has been floral art instructor in garden club circles.

Those wishing to work will have the opportunity to attend the afternoon clinic. At this time Mrs. Kittel will conduct a class of instruction for those wishing to learn the fundamentals of flower arranging. Mrs. ittel asks that each "pupil" bring a flat container, a pillow vase or tin can, scotch tape, needlepoint holders and clippers. Minimum requirements as to floral material are: three sprays of any greenery two feet long, three shorter sprays, and three flowers of any kind.

Members of the club are asked to gather floral material and have at the hotel the day before the meeting in order that Mrs. Kittel has ample time to arrange several displays beforehand. In order that the flowers are properly conditioned we recall that last year she stated all flowers should stand overnight in water "up to their necks."

Burns-Kirk

Personals

Mrs. David A. Hill of Cleveland, Ohio, arrived on Saturday by plane to attend the marriage of her sister, Miss Nell McCormick to Lloyd F. Church on May 20.

Josephine Mary Traina Bride Of James Edwin McCormick

Ceremony At St. Matthew's Catholic Church Unites Couple

A beautiful wedding of the spring season was that of Miss Josephine Mary Traina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Traina to James Edwin McCormick, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McCormick of St. Marys, Kansas, which was solemnized Monday, April 10, at 9 a.m. in St. Matthews Catholic Church.

Father Marvin Bordelon, assistant pastor, St. Matthews Catholic Church officiated when the bridal couple exchanged vows at the impressive double ring ceremony before the altar which was banked with white lilies and floor baskets of white carnations and stock. Reserved pews were marked with bows of white satin ribbon.

The organist, Mrs. Delma Williamson, played several selections. The traditional wedding marches marked the beginning and end of the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in the traditional bridal gown of white satin sweetheart neckline, with fitted bodice, buttoned down the front, and a yoke of white marquisette, embroidered in seed pearls, beads and sequences. The sleeves were long fitting and coming to a point at the waist. The full gathered skirt was fashioned in a bustle effect, and ended in a chapel length train. The finger tip veil of illusion was fastened to a crown of white orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and stephanotis with streamers of white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Leota McCormick and Miss Nina Giovingo, served as matron of honor and bridesmaid. They wore identical floor length dresses, fashioned of white organdy over aqua blue taffeta with fitted bodice and full skirts, matching hats and mittens. They carried colonial bouquets of blue and white flowers centered in pink rosebuds with streamers of pink satin ribbon.

Mr. Morris L. McCormick, brother of tthe groom, served him as best man. Mr. Robert Benard of Shreveport, served as usher.

The bride's mother wore a lovely navy model with a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Veronica Harvey of Salida, Colo., wore a model of navy with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception was held at the bride's parents home immediately following the ceremony. Guests were received by the bride and groom and members of the bridal party. The reception rooms were beautifully decorated with calla lilies and white orange blossoms.

The bride's table was covered with a lovely hand made lace table cloth and centering the table was a tiered wedding cake, topped with a minature bride and groom.

Following the reception, the bridal couple left on their wedding trip to Monterrey, Mexico. The bride was wearing a suit of dusty rose with accessories of navy and a corsage of white rosebuds and stephanotis, taken from the brides bouquet.

Out of town guests included: Mr. C. E. McCormick, father of the groom, St. Marys, Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harvey, Salida, Colo.; Misses Inez and Frances Traina, New Orleans; Mrs. Louis Chiario and sons, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. B. G. Benard, Mrs. Betty Gillum, Mrs. Walter Jordan, Miss Helen Henderson, Billy, Richard and Gomer Benard, Jr., all of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Traina and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Traina, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Traina all of Jonesboro; and Mr. Sam Valenti of Baton Rouge.

The messengers of the Senate, House and Supreme Court have their school in the Library of Congress. Although the school is directly supported by appropriations from Congress it is, like public high schools in the District of Columbia, under supervision of the local Board of Education. It offers virtually the same four-year course as is found in other local high schools.

MY MAN and YOURS

By Margene Danch

Today's column was sent in by Norene Creighton of Berrien Springs, Mich:

"My husband used to be one of those people who has to have another forty winks after the alarm goes off. The forty usually lengthens into eighty, and so until I have finished in the bathroom, and breakfast is nearly ready before I can get him up. And then we are apt to be late.

I tried all the usual methods of getting him up, such as the ice water drip, and setting the clock ahead, but it didn't work. He didn't mind the ice water, and he could look at his watch and know that the clock was wrong. But I finally found the solution that works with such amazing success that I wonder why I didn't think of it before.

I'll pass it on so some of the wives with husbands who are hard to get up in the mornings, can try it on them. . . . I have it down to such a science that now all I have to do is speak one word, and hubby pops out of bed like he had been poked by a pin from beneath.

The first morning I tried it, I said, 'If you don't get up I will spray you with some of my perfume.' I got the usual answer—'Ummmmmmmm — snore.' He didn't think I would do it. But I did! I didn't use cheap cologne either that would evaporate too soon! I used my best Black Satin perfume that he had given me for Christmas, and the fragrance clings—and clings.

My husband is a student in college, and one session in class sitting between a couple of fellows who sniffed and asked him what brand he used, was enough to do the trick. Now, if he is reluctant to get up, I just have to threaten him, and he gets right out. He doesn't dare take a chance, because once the damage is done—it won't even wash off! Swinging at me doesn't do any good, because my aim with the atomizer is pretty good even when operating beyong arm's reach!

There's just one drawback. I'm about out of Black Satin, and I understand I'm getting stationery from my husband for my birthday in April!"

WELCOME GARDEN CLUB TO PRESENT MRS. HOWARD S. KITTEL

Flower lovers of the Twin Cities are looking forward to the lecture by Mrs. Howard S. Kittel of Fort Worth which is scheduled for May 24th, at 10:00 a.m. at the Virginia Hotel. Mrs. Kittell is coming back to Monroe through the auspices of the Welcome Garden Club. They are extending an invitation to club members of all other garden clubs to hear this well-known lecturer. Tickets may be obtained from any Welcome Garden Club members, or at the door on the morning of the lecture.

Mrs. Kittel is certainly well qualified in her field, having won many honors from the New York Horticultural Society, as well as honors throughout the south where she has been floral art instructor in garden club circles.

Those wishing to work will have the opportunity to attend the afternoon clinic. At this time Mrs. Kittel will conduct a class of instruction for those wishing to learn the fundamentals of flower arranging. Mrs. ittel asks that each "pupil" bring a flat container, a pillow vase or tin can, scotch tape, needlepoint holders and clippers. Minimum requirements as to floral material are: three sprays of any greenery two feet long, three shorter sprays, and three flowers of any kind.

Members of the club are asked to gather floral material and have at the hotel the day before the meeting in order that Mrs. Kittel has ample time to arrange several displays beforehand. In order that the flowers are properly conditioned we recall that last year she stated all flowers should stand overnight in water "up to their necks."

Catholic Daughters Of America Have May Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America was held Monday evening in the Knights of Columbus Hall: Mrs. Gladys Watkins presiding. A record attendance at this May meeting was motivated by the election of officers which resulted in the following order:

Grand regent, Mrs. Marie Mulhearn; prophetess, Mrs. Marguerite Morrison; vice regent, Mrs. Lorethia Monaco; lecturer, Mrs. Angie Carso; historian, Mrs. Lucille Theriot; financial secretary, Mrs. Rose Haddad; treasurer, Mrs. Laura Slater; monitor, Mrs. Clemie Roberts; sentinel, Mrs. Emma Jungina; organist, Mrs. Della Williamson; chaplain, Monsignor Marsh.

Two vacancies occurred on the board and were filled as follows: Mrs. Gladys Watkins, out-going grand regent, and Mrs. Allye Moore were re-elected to the board. The court reluctantly accepted Mrs. Gladys Watkins withdrawal for a second nomination to the high office of grand regent. Her efforts have been untiring, her accomplishments, many. Her sweet unassuming manner won many candidates who sought admission to the court portals and court St. Matthew 1144. All will long remember Mrs. Watkins' regime.

Delegate to the Catholic Daughters of America's Convention, Mrs. Watkins gave a vivid account of court activities and spoke of what an incentive for court expansion this convention proved to be. The C. D. A. Convention will be held in Monroe in 1952.

Miss Mattea Scalia gave her report in story form which was quite unique as well as descriptive and detailed to the point of giving hourly accounts of their many entertainments. The group representing court 1144 included: Mrs. Mamie Hodges, alternate to convention, Miss Leona Biggar, Mrs. Rose Haddad, Mrs. Angie Cascio.

The court voted to purchase an album of records which give a ritual of cononization and solemn proper of the Mass. An Anniversary Mass will be offered, Sunday June 4, for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Alice Boucher.

The beautiful gold medal was displayed at the meeting, and will be awarded to the high school student, at Saint Matthew's, making the highest average, in Christian Doctrine. It will be presented at the banquet by Mrs. Gladys Watkins, grand regent for the past year.

The installation of the new officers will be held on the second Monday of June, in the new headquarters on Grammont street.

Catholic Daughters Of America Have May Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America was held Monday evening in the Knights of Columbus Hall: Mrs. Gladys Watkins presiding. A record attendance at this May meeting was motivated by the election of officers which resulted in the following order:

Grand regent, Mrs. Marie Mulhearn; prophetess, Mrs. Marguerite Morrison; vice regent, Mrs. Lorethia Monaco; lecturer, Mrs. Angie Carso; historian, Mrs. Lucille Theriot; financial secretary, Mrs. Rose Haddad; treasurer, Mrs. Laura Slater; monitor, Mrs. Clemie Roberts; sentinel, Mrs. Emma Jungina; organist, Mrs. Della Williamson; chaplain, Monsignor Marsh.

Two vacancies occurred on the board and were filled as follows: Mrs. Gladys Watkins, out-going grand regent, and Mrs. Allye Moore were re-elected to the board. The court reluctantly accepted Mrs. Gladys Watkins withdrawal for a second nomination to the high office of grand regent. Her efforts have been untiring, her accomplishments, many. Her sweet unassuming manner won many candidates who sought admission to the court portals and court St. Matthew 1144. All will long remember Mrs. Watkins' regime.

Delegate to the Catholic Daughters of America's Convention, Mrs. Watkins gave a vivid account of court activities and spoke of what an incentive for court expansion this convention proved to be. The C. D. A. Convention will be held in Monroe in 1952.

Miss Mattea Scalia gave her report in story form which was quite unique as well as descriptive and detailed to the point of giving hourly accounts of their many entertainments. The group representing court 1144 included: Mrs. Mamie Hodges, alternate to convention, Miss Leona Biggar, Mrs. Rose Haddad, Mrs. Angie Cascio.

The court voted to purchase an album of records which give a ritual of cononization and solemn proper of the Mass. An Anniversary Mass will be offered, Sunday June 4, for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Alice Boucher.

The beautiful gold medal was displayed at the meeting, and will be awarded to the high school student, at Saint Matthew's, making the highest average, in Christian Doctrine. It will be presented at the banquet by Mrs. Gladys Watkins, grand regent for the past year.

The installation of the new officers will be held on the second Monday of June, in the new headquarters on Grammont street.

Ill-Kept Apt. House Means Woe For Tenants

NEWARK, N. J., May 14.—(AP)—One tenant complained of 150 stray cats in the cellar. And one of them, he said, was dead.

Another said the rent was collected by a landlord's agent who parked his car at the curb and blew his horn. The tenants then trooped out and paid up.

Another said his bathtub fell off its legs. To repair it, he said, the landlord sent a man who propped the tub up again by placing a block of wood under it. Baths since then, the tenant complained, have become a precarious affair.

Michael J. Pecora, area rent director said he was impressed. Pecora today ordered a new hearing to reconsider rent increases granted previously to the 347-family apartment development known as Hoboken Estates, Inc.

The BEST air conditioning

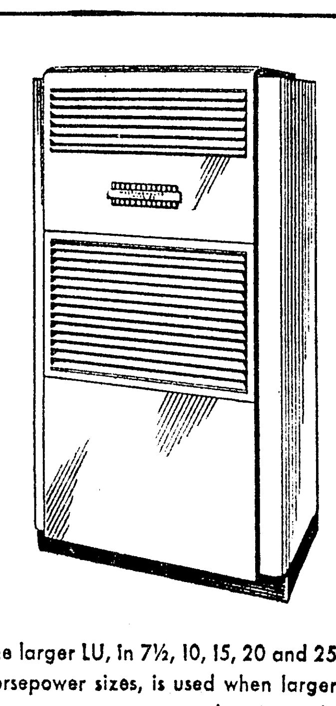
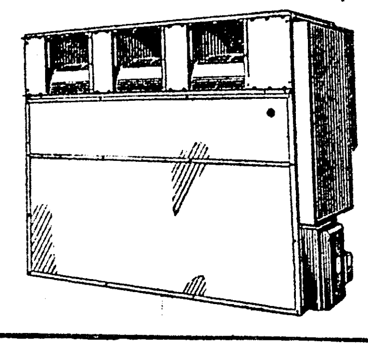
That's why so many stores, restaurants and offices are using Westinghouse UNITAIRES powered with the

Westinghouse Life-Line Compressor-Motor Unit



Westinghouse UNITAIRES come in two models, both completely self-contained. The SU, with capacities of 2, 3 and 5 horsepower, is ideal for smaller stores, offices and restaurants.



The larger LU, in 7½, 10, 15, 20 and 25 horsepower sizes, is used when larger areas must be air conditioned through an easily installed duct system. All UNITAIRES are readily moved to new locations. Installation is made by experienced personnel—an added assurance of long, trouble-free service.

No air conditioning unit is stronger than its heart—the compressor. And no air conditioning compressor is finer than the Westinghouse LIFE-LINE Compressor-Motor Unit—hermetically sealed in steel for long, dependable service. Power and refrigerant are sealed in, dirt and trouble are sealed out ...important protection against costly breakdowns.

Each UNITAIRE...from the smallest 2 hp. unit to the largest 25 hp.—is fully assembled and tested at the factory. Whether you need to air condition a single room or many rooms, there's a UNITAIRE to do the job.

ROBERTA FRANCES GOZA BRIDE OF ORAN DAVID D'ROSSETT

The home of Reverend and Mrs. James T. Horton was the scene of a quiet wedding uniting Roberta Frances Goza and Oran David DeRossett in marriage on Sunday, April 30. Reverend Horton performed the impressive double ring ceremony before a few relatives and close friends of the bride and groom. Tall baskets of pink and white gladiolus on either side of the fireplace formed an altar for the ceremony.

The bride was wearing a white embossed organdy ballerina length model with matching hat. She carried pink and white carnations mounted on white satin Bible.

Her matron of honor and only attendant was her sister, Mrs. James E. Tripp, Jr., who was dressed in rose imported organdy with matching hat. Her corsage was of white carnations. Truman McCrea, Jr., served the groom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Peters, where a beautiful heart-shaped wedding cake was cut. Iced drinks and individual cakes embossed with Roberta and David were also served.

News From The Girl Scouts

Troop 28, intermediate, Mrs. Clay Albright and Mrs. Thomas Davenport, leaders, had a picnic-hike at Indian mound that sounds as if it must have been lots of fun. Each girl brought a guest and enjoyed a lunch planned by a committee, topping the lunch with those popular "s'mores" made around a camp fire. Features of the afternoon were a knot-tying demonstration given by Mrs. Davenport, and a nature treasure hunt. For the hunt, the picnickers were divided into 3 teams, then each team was given a slip of paper with the following nature "treasures" to find: A cricket, a lady bug, a large leaf, a small leaf, a blackberry, a grape vine leaf, a catolpa leaf, and moss. The team bringing forth the most treasures was, of course, the winner. Chaperones at the picnic were Mrs. Henry Hinkle, Mrs. DeMott Fisk, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. T. F. Wilson and Mrs. Harrell Webster. Members of this troop are Nancy Albright, Nancy Starr Breard, Trudy Baugh, Charlotte Bruscota, Mary Jo Davenport, Emily Kay Eusminger, Cheryl Fink, Joyce Green, Sally Hinkle, Janice Joyce, Beverly Leach, Marie Martin, Betty Fisk, Penny Prophit, Mary Emma Wilson and Mary Elizabeit Webster.

Troop 17, intermediate, Mrs. F. H. Peterson and Mrs. Harry Moore, leaders, had a cook—out at the home of Mrs. E. J. Shirah. Troop members built a reflector oven, and with roll dough which had been prepared ahead of time they made up and baked the loveliest rolls imaginable. Mrs. Peterson brought along some of her own watermelon preserves to add the right touch and taste and—ummmn! Make you hungry? Troop 17 also participated in a hike down on south Grand, around Grayling Bend. They gathered wild purple and white daisies, and wild buttercups. All 20 members of this troop planned to spend this past Friday and Saturday troop camping at Camp Ki-Ro-Li. We're sure they had a wonderful trip and just as soon as we get some first hand information about it you'll be reading about it right here. Mrs. E. J. Shirah, Mrs. P. B. Swift, Mrs. Robert E. Watkins and Mrs. S. A. Elliott went along as aides.

We hear that Troop 34, Brownies, Mrs. H. V. Brady, leader, made Mother's Day cards to their mothers today. How thoughtful they are, and how pleased must their mother's be! This troop is making plans for a picnic for the families of all the members 'round about May 22.

A tribute to their mothers from Brownie Troop 10, was a tea given at the home of the leader, Mrs. Arthur Wedemeyer, Friday afternoon from 4 to 5. The table centerpiece was a Brownie doll surrounded by lovely spring flowers. The girls made their own Brownie napkins for the occasion, by the way. Mrs. C. B. McEachern made the hour quite enchanting with her soft piano melodies. Open faced sandwiches, iced drinks and punch were served.

Troop 6, intermediates, Mrs. Fran J. Brennan and Mrs. Edwin Crowley leaders, made a bicycle trip from the Georgia Tucker School to the home of Mrs. Fred Seamon on Island drive, where they stopped to enjoy the lunches each had brought. Cold drinks were a refreshing treat at this time. First class rank has been attained by the following members of this troop: Loretta Ray, Dorothy Brennan, Ann Reed, Jane Walker, and Katherine Carso, and several more are to reach this rank by the end of the month. All have now, since this trip, completed their bicycle badges.

Troop 19, Brownies, Mrs. O. B. Copeland, and Mrs. W. E. Chitty leaders, made camp fire stew at Bernstien Park last Friday. They built their own fire, did their own cooking, ate like real Brownies and then cleaned up the area spic'n span. Mrs. C. E. Wharton, Mrs. B. J. Reagan went along as helpers.

Raps Encouragement To Wasting Talent

AKRON, O., May 12.—(AP)—A new Yale professor says the country is full of "jackass college professors wanting boys to get PHD's (doctor of philosophy) for which they have no use."

Dr. Paul B. Sears, recently appointed head of Yale University's conservation department, spoke last night at a meeting sponsored by the Ohio Forestry Association.

"I'm sore about this situation of wasted young talent, Dr. Sears said. I've seen these boys spending their years and energies studying subjects they can never use and then becoming discouraged after they are out of school."

He said there were "perfect opportunities" in their own communities for young men to perform constructive services.

Dr. Sears now is winding up his teaching duties at Oberlin College.

BRIDE AND GROOM

Mr. and Mrs. Oran David DeRossett shown following their recent wedding. The bride is the former Miss Roberta Frances Goza, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hugh Goza of Monroe. Mr. DeRossett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Paul DeRossett also of this city.

ROBERTA FRANCES GOZA BRIDE OF ORAN DAVID D'ROSSETT

The home of Reverend and Mrs. James T. Horton was the scene of a quiet wedding uniting Roberta Frances Goza and Oran David DeRossett in marriage on Sunday, April 30. Reverend Horton performed the impressive double ring ceremony before a few relatives and close friends of the bride and groom. Tall baskets of pink and white gladiolus on either side of the fireplace formed an altar for the ceremony.

The bride was wearing a white embossed organdy ballerina length model with matching hat. She carried pink and white carnations mounted on white satin Bible.

Her matron of honor and only attendant was her sister, Mrs. James E. Tripp, Jr., who was dressed in rose imported organdy with matching hat. Her corsage was of white carnations. Truman McCrea, Jr., served the groom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Peters, where a beautiful heart-shaped wedding cake was cut. Iced drinks and individual cakes embossed with Roberta and David were also served.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hugh Goza of Monroe. She is a member of the Lionettes, Honor Society and the choir of Ouachita Parish High School.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Paul DeRossett of Monroe. He is a member of the Ouachita Parish High School band and was a member of the Ensemble that made the trip to Llangollen, North Wales for the 1949 International Eisteddfod.

The bride and groom are graduating in the 1950 class of Ouachita Parish High School. Following graduation this June they will make their home in Natchez, Mississippi.

News From The Girl Scouts

Troop 28, intermediate, Mrs. Clay Albright and Mrs. Thomas Davenport, leaders, had a picnic-hike at Indian mound that sounds as if it must have been lots of fun. Each girl brought a guest and enjoyed a lunch planned by a committee, topping the lunch with those popular "s'mores" made around a camp fire. Features of the afternoon were a knot tying demonstration given by Mrs. Davenport, and a nature treasure hunt. For the hunt, the picnickers were divided into 3 teams, then each team was given a slip of paper with the following nature "treasures" to find: A cricket, a lady bug, a large leaf, a small leaf, a blackberry, a grape vine leaf, a catolpa leaf, and moss. The team bringing forth the most treasures was, of course, the winner. Chaperones at the picnic were Mrs. Henry Hinkle, Mrs. DeMott Fisk, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. T. F. Wilson and Mrs. Harrell Webster. Members of this troop are Nancy Albright, Nancy Starr Breard, Trudy Baugh, Charlotte Bruscota, Mary Jo Davenport, Emily Kay Eusminger, Cheryl Fink, Joyce Green, Sally Hinkle, Janice Joyce, Beverly Leach, Marie Martin, Betty Fisk, Penny Prophit, Mary Emma Wilson and Mary Elizabeit Webster.

Troop 17, intermediate, Mrs. F. H. Peterson and Mrs. Harry Moore, leaders, had a cook—out at the home of Mrs. E. J. Shirah. Troop members built a reflector oven, and with roll dough which had been prepared ahead of time they made up and baked the loveliest rolls imaginable. Mrs. Peterson brought along some of her own watermelon preserves to add the right touch and taste and—ummmn! Make you hungry? Troop 17 also participated in a hike down on south Grand, around Grayling Bend. They gathered wild purple and white daisies, and wild buttercups. All 20 members of this troop planned to spend this past Friday and Saturday troop camping at Camp Ki-Ro-Li. We're sure they had a wonderful trip and just as soon as we get some first hand information about it you'll be reading about it right here. Mrs. E. J. Shirah, Mrs. P. B. Swift, Mrs. Robert E. Watkins and Mrs. S. A. Elliott went along as aides.

We hear that Troop 34, Brownies, Mrs. H. V. Brady, leader, made Mother's Day cards to their mothers today. How thoughtful they are, and how pleased must their mother's be! This troop is making plans for a picnic for the families of all the members 'round about May 22.

A tribute to their mothers from Brownie Troop 10, was a tea given at the home of the leader, Mrs. Arthur Wedemeyer, Friday afternoon from 4 to 5. The table centerpiece was a Brownie doll surrounded by lovely spring flowers. The girls made their own Brownie napkins for the occasion, by the way. Mrs. C. B. McEacherr made the hour quite enchanting with her soft piano melodies. Open faced sandwiches, iced drinks and punch were served.

Troop 6, intermediates, Mrs. Fran J. Brennan and Mrs. Edwin Crowley leaders, made a bicycle trip from the Georgia Tucker School to the home of Mrs. Fred Seamon on Island drive, where they stopped to enjoy the lunches each had brought. Cold drinks were a refreshing treat at this time. First class rank has been attained by the following members of this troop: Loretta Ray, Dorothy Brennan, Ann Reed, Jane Walker, and Katherine Carso, and several more are to reach this rank by the end of the month. All have now, since this trip, completed their bicycle badges.

Troop 19, Brownies, Mrs. O. B. Copeland, and Mrs. W. E. Chitty leaders, made camp fire stew at Bernstien Park last Friday. They built their own fire, did their own cooking, ate like real Brownies and then cleaned up the area spic'n span. Mrs. C. E. Wharton, Mrs. B. J. Reagan went along as helpers.

MANY NEW BOOKS FOR CHILDREN ADDED TO THE COLLECTION OF THE OUACHITA PARISH PUBLIC LIBRARY

Children's books grow more beautiful all the time. In the past few weeks many new titles have been purchased by the Ouachita Parish Public Library for the use of the juvenile patrons. Young readers have their definite likes and dislikes just as adults do. One of the most popular series of books with children in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades is "The Childhood of Famous American Series" published by the Bobbs - Merrill Company. There are now fifty titles in this series, dealing with the childhood of people who have helped to make our country great. The library has at least four copies of each one of the series. The latest one is "Amelia Earhart, Kansas Girl" by Jane Moore Howe. In Monroe there was a long waiting list on the book before we received it and young readers are very happy with it.

Teenn age readers do not care to read children's books, neither are they interested in adult novels. In the past few years many books have appeared, written especially for teen-agers. One of the most popular of this type was "Seventeenth Summer" by Maureen Daly. Recent books of this type are "Linda's Homecoming" by Phyllis Whitney, "You Can't Tell About Love" by Helen Olds, "Teen Age Horse Stories" by David Thomas. "Linda Takes Over" by Florence Choate, "Sharon's Nursing Diary" by Dorothy Deming and "Nancy Goes To College" by Helene Laird. Boys of the same age will like "Arctic Venture" by Kenneth Gilbert, "Partners in the Saddle" by Adolph Reggli, "The Scarlet Jib" by David Moore and "Hans, a Dog of the Border Patrol" by Sterner Meek.

Readers from the ages of nine to twelve will be interested in "Page Boy for King Arthur" by Eugenia Stone, "Indigo Hill" by Elanor Lattimore, "Cowboys, Cowboys, Cowboys" by Phyllis Reid Fenner; "Secret of the Whispering Willow" by Harriet Evatt, "The Dog Next Door" by Keith Robertson, "Johnny Texas" by Carol Hoff, "Tophill Road" by Helen Garrett, "Here Comes the Showboat" by Ellis Credle, "Little Pilgrim to Penn's Woods" by Edna Albert and "White Mare of the Black Tents" by Eleanor Hoffman.

There are two types of books for the smallest children, those for the beginning readers who want to read their own book and books for parents to read to their children. The library has recently purchased many of both types. Books for first and second readers to read are: "Tip and Mitten" by Paul McKee, "Summer is Here" by Bertha Morris Parker", "He Likes to do Things" by Walter M. Mason, "Little Lost Puppy" by Margaret Otto, "Five Little Finger Playmates" by Charlotte Steiner, "Wheels and Noises" by Mary Elhumor of this story is irrestible. ous to mention.

Picture books are exceedingly lovely and any parent should be glad to read an attractive book to his child. "The Egg Tree" by Katherine Mulhous is an exquisite Easter story, the colors are incredible. "Uncle Sylvester" by Joan Howard is a charming picture book telling the adventures of Uncle Sylvester, a mole. The homor of this story is irrestible. "Great Grandfather in the Honey Tree" by Sam and Zoa Swayne is a funny story about great grandfather who went out hunting with only one load of shot for his gun and by a most fortuitous series of accidents came home with enough food for the family for the entire winter.

"Foxie" by Ingri and Edgar Parin D'Aulaire is another picture book of great beauty and charm. "The Little Wild Horse" by Hetty Burlingame Beatty is a bright and attractive picture book telling how a little wild horse was tamed. "A Pussycat's Christmas" by Margaret Wise Brown is a sweet little story that every little girl will love. "Two Little Trains" by Margaret Wise Brown has a great appeal as does "Bobcat" by Clarence William Anderson, which is a story of a horse.

Last summer the Ouachita Parish Public Library conducted a most successful summer reading club. This year it is hoped to have even more children participate. Watch this column for announcements about this project. It is hoped that all mothers will cooperate with the library and have their children take part in this program.

One of the loveliest pre-nuptial affairs for Miss Nell McCormick was a dinner party on Wednesday evening at a local tea room. Lovely garden flowers in pastel shades were so arranged as to create hues of the rainbow. This rainbow illusion was the high light of the decorative scheme. Each place-setting was marked by a miniature basket of tiny flowers representing a bridal bouquet. At one end of the table was a low basket overflowing with sweet-peas, poppies and Queen Ann's lace.

Following the candelight dinner the bride-elect received many beautiful gifts presented in a most unique manner.

The guests were Miss McCormick, Miss Al Sims, Miss Dorothy Holt, Miss Alma Green, Mrs. Bertha Patterson, Mrs. Courtland Fluitt, Mrs. Richard Watkins, Mrs. J. D. Trout, Mrs. J. C. Thrower, Mrs. Fred Jones and Mrs. Jack Dyer.

On Saturday morning Mrs. W. D. McGee, Jr. on Auburn Ave. entertained Miss Nell McCormick with a coffee hour. Mrs. P. C. Mason was co-hostess.

Lovely corsages were presented to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Joseph McCormick. The twenty-five guests were welcomed by Mrs. McGee, Miss McCormick and Mrs. Joseph McCormick.

The refreshment table was overlaid with a handsome cut work cloth with a bowl of sweet peas in all colors of the rainbow as a centerpiece. A variety of open faced sandwiches and sweet meats were offered the guests. Mrs. Mamie Neal, Mrs. P. C. Mason and Mrs. H. S. Stansell assisted in the dining room.

Miss Rosemary Worsham complimented Miss Nell McCormick with a luncheon at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. C. Worsham. Miss McCormick's place at the luncheon table was marked with a corsage and a silver compote.

A delicious lunch was enjoyed by the honor guest, Mrs. George Whitmeyer, Mrs. Sam Walker, Mrs. R. T. Faulk, Jr., Mrs. William Bolton, Miss Skeet Wall and the hostess, Miss Rosemary Worsham.

A few intimate friends met at the home of Mrs. O. G. Barlow with Mrs. Herbert L. Brown hostess honoring Miss Nell McCormick with a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening.

Boys of the same age will like "Arctic Venture" by Kenneth Gilbert, "Partners in the Saddle" by Adolph Reggli, "The Scarlet Jib" by David Moore and "Hans, a Dog of the Border Patrol" by Sterner Meek.

Readers from the ages of nine to twelve will be interested in "Page Boy for King Arthur" by Eugenia Stone, "Indigo Hill" by Elanor Lattimore, "Cowboys, Cowboys, Cowboys" by Phyllis Reid Fenner; "Secret of the Whispering Willow" by Harriet Evatt, "The Dog Next Door" by Keith Robertson, "Johnny Texas" by Carol Hoff, "Tophill Road" by Helen Garrett, "Here Comes the Showboat" by Ellis Credle, "Little Pilgrim to Penn's Woods" by Edna Albert and "White Mare of the Black Tents" by Eleanor Hoffman.

There are two types of books for the smallest children, those for the beginning readers who want to read their own book and books for parents to read to their children. The library has recently purchased many of both types. Books for first and second readers to read are: "Tip and Mitten" by Paul McKee, "Summer is Here" by Bertha Morris Parker", "He Likes to do Things" by Walter M. Mason, "Little Lost Puppy" by Margaret Otto, "Five Little Finger Playmates" by Charlotte Steiner, "Wheels and Noises" by Mary Elhumor of this story is irrestible. ous to mention.

Picture books are exceedingly lovely and any parent should be glad to read an attractive book to his child. "The Egg Tree" by Katherine Mulhous is an exquisite Easter story, the colors are incredible. "Uncle Sylvester" by Joan Howard is a charming picture book telling the adventures of Uncle Sylvester, a mole. The homor of this story is irrestible. "Great Grandfather in the Honey Tree" by Sam and Zoa Swayne is a funny story about great grandfather who went out hunting with only one load of shot for his gun and by a most fortuitous series of accidents came home with enough food for the family for the entire winter.

"Foxie" by Ingri and Edgar Parin D'Aulaire is another picture book of great beauty and charm. "The Little Wild Horse" by Hetty Burlingame Beatty is a bright and attractive picture book telling how a little wild horse was tamed. "A Pussycat's Christmas" by Margaret Wise Brown is a sweet little story that every little girl will love. "Two Little Trains" by Margaret Wise Brown has a great appeal as does "Bobcat" by Clarence William Anderson, which is a story of a horse.

Last summer the Ouachita Parish Public Library conducted a most successful summer reading club. This year it is hoped to have even more children participate. Watch this column for announcements about this project. It is hoped that all mothers will cooperate with the library and have their children take part in this program.

Lifting the burden of fear

Is there a way to be free from fear — for oneself, one's health and welfare, and concerning those one loves?

A mighty and increasing multitude can answer "We have found the way!" Men and women in all walks of life, in heartfelt thankfulness testify that Christian Science is showing them how to replace fear with confidence and assurance unshakable.

Through the thoughtful study of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy they are proving step by step, in a plain and practical way, what real understanding of God does for man. ENGAGED

Miss Estelle Morgan, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Willis Hayes Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor of Ruston, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Morgan, of Oak Grove. The wedding will take place May 27.

MISS MARY JO DAVIS AND JAMES MADISON ELLIS WED IN TALLULAH

A wedding which claimed the interest of a host of friends in Louisiana and Arkansas was that of Miss Mary Jo Davis, attractive daughter of Mrs. Virgil H. Davis and the late Mr. Davis and James Madison Ellis, son of Mrs. James M. Ellis and the late Mr. Ellis which took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Richard Keller, Jr., Saturday afternoon. The Rev. R. M. Maure of St. Edward's Catholic Church officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony.

The vows were said before the mantle which held a lovely flat bouquet of white gladioli and Easter lilies and on either side were placed white floor baskets of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums and floor candelabra holding white tapers. Robert Cagnolatti and Shields Bray served as candle lighters.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Rowena Taliaferro sang in lovely voice, "Because" and at the end of the service, "The Lord's Prayer". She was accompanied by Mrs. J. C. Sherwin who played the traditional nuptial music.

The bride had as her only attendant, her sister, Mrs. Richard Keller who wore pink organdy over taffeta, fashioned with a boat neckline and designs of embroidery on the bodice and circular skirt. She wore a pink tulle head dress and pink mits and carried a floral wedding ring of pink rosebuds and matching tulle and satin fushsia trim.

The bride was lovely in her wedding dress of Swiss organdy with bands of white pique. The bouffant skirt was ballerina length and the buttoned jacket with French puff sleeves covered a camisole bodice. Her shoulder length net veil fell from a halo with pearl bead trimming and she carried a bride's bouquet of stephanotis and lilies of the valley, centered with a white orchid. The bridegroom had as his best man, Billy Post. All gentlemen of the wedding party were attired in black trousers and white coats.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Davis was dressed in navy crepe with white trim and Mrs. Ellis, mother of the groom wore a black and white ensemble. Each wore a pink cymbidium orchid corsage.

Immediately after the ceremony a large and beautiful reception was held at the Book Club building which had been decorated with magnolia foliage, white candles in floor candelabra, floor baskets of chrysanthemums and white gladioli and masses of other flowers. Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Joe Milton Clark and in the receiving line with the bride and groom were their mothers, Mrs. David and Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Richard Keller, Mrs. W. E. Blackburn of Forest City, Ark., Mrs. S. M. Hall, Houston, Miss., Mrs. Lon T. Jones, and Mrs. Ruth Holbrook of Ashdown, Ark.

Mrs. E. B. Towne presided at the bride's book for registration of guests.

The refreshment table with its linen cover held a centerpiece of pink carnations, pink roses and white stock flanked by white candles in silver candelabra . At each corner was placed a pink rosebud in a bow of pale pink tulle. At one end of the table was the beautifully embossed three tiered wedding cake topped with tiny pink roses and at the other end stood the crystal punch bowl. Individual cakes embossed in pink rosebuds and pink mints were served with the punch. Mrs. O. P. Avinger of Shreveport presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Jeff Goza and Miss Billye Davis alternated at srving the wedding cake after the first slice had been cut by the bride and groom.

The bride changed her wedding attire for a going away suit of navy blue silk shantung with white linen trim with which she wore white and navy accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple then left for a motor trip to Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis are graduates of Tallulah High School and Louisiana State University where the bride was a member of Kappa Delta social sorority, Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary freshman fraternity; Beta Gamma Sigma and Phi Kappa Phi, honorary business fraternities. Mr. Ellis was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity. They will reside here at the home of the bridegroom's mother on Bayou drive.

KELLOGG PLANT AT SICILY SOLD

Rogers Brothers Plan To Operate As New Owners

JONESVILLE, La., May 13.—(Special)—The Richard D. Kellogg Lumber Co., Inc., of Sicily Island has been purchased by Norman and Ruben Rogers of Waterproof, and is expected to resume operations next Monday.

The mill was shut down March 10 because of high water.

The new owners operate Rogers Bros., a lumber company with a mill at Waterproof, and they plan for the present to maintain the office for the Sicily Island concern at Waterproof.

After purchase of the mill earlier this month, they began hauling in hardwood logs so that operations would get underway by Monday. They intend to buy some of their logs "F. O. B. mill" from independent loggers, according to reports.

This is the second sale of the mill within the year.

Vets Asked To Report Changes

BATON ROUGE, La., May 13—Director Joseph L. Golsan of the state department of veterans' affairs today urged all Louisiana veterans to "report immediately to the veterans administration" any change in their mailing address.

The director indciated that delaying this move might result in monetary loss to the veteran or his dependents.

"Suppose, for instance," he said, "a veteran filed a request for disability compensation with the V. A. Then this same veteran moves to another address, without informing the V. A., and before he gets a reply from them as to whether or not he is entitled to compensation. The V. A. sends the notice to the old address, the veteran doesn't get the answer and the notice is returned to the V. A. unclaimed.

"On the other hand," the director explained, "if a veteran sends in a change of address form to the V. A. as soon as he moves, there will be no delay in his V. A. mail."

Change of address forms of this type are available at local parish service offices of the department of veterans' affairs, the director concluded.

The service office for Ouachita parish is located at Room 204, Parish Courthouse, Monroe, Louisiana.

Rogers Brothers Plan To Operate As New Owners

JONESVILLE, La., May 13.—(Special)—The Richard D. Kellogg Lumber Co., Inc., of Sicily Island has been purchased by Norman and Ruben Rogers of Waterproof, and is expected to resume operations next Monday.

The mill was shut down March 10 because of high water.

The new owners operate Rogers Bros., a lumber company with a mill at Waterproof, and they plan for the present to maintain the office for the Sicily Island concern at Waterproof.

After purchase of the mill earlier this month, they began hauling in hardwood logs so that operations would get underway by Monday. They intend to buy some of their logs "F. O. B. mill" from independent loggers, according to reports.

This is the second sale of the mill within the year.

Vets Asked To Report Changes

BATON ROUGE, La., May 13—Director Joseph L. Golsan of the state department of veterans' affairs today urged all Louisiana veterans to "report immediately to the veterans administration" any change in their mailing address.

The director indciated that delaying this move might result in monetary loss to the veteran or his dependents.

"Suppose, for instance," he said, "a veteran filed a request for disability compensation with the V. A. Then this same veteran moves to another address, without informing the V. A., and before he gets a reply from them as to whether or not he is entitled to compensation. The V. A. sends the notice to the old address, the veteran doesn't get the answer and the notice is returned to the V. A. unclaimed.

"On the other hand," the director explained, "if a veteran sends in a change of address form to the V. A. as soon as he moves, there will be no delay in his V. A. mail."

Change of address forms of this type are available at local parish service offices of the department of veterans' affairs, the director concluded.

The service office for Ouachita parish is located at Room 204, Parish Courthouse, Monroe, Louisiana.

TEACHER GROUP FOR BOND ISSUE

Unanimously Approve Passage Of Measure At Polls On May 23

The following resolution was unanimously approved by the Monroe City Teachers' Association at its meeting the past week:

Whereas the realization of the Monroe School Board of its responsibilities as representatives of the citizens of Monroe has led to a thorough study of the Monroe City Schools in terms of the functions of modern education; and

Whereas because of the rapid growth and development of the city, a continuous increase in enrollment in each school is anticipated, making necessary immediate expansions of the teaching programs and school services; and

Whereas these improvements grow directly out of the needs of all the people in each community; and

Whereas the City School Board and officials of the city of Monroe have called an election to vote on a bond issue of $2,500,000.00 to increase school facilities and to improve the present school plants: Therefore be it

Resolved, that we, The teachers of the Monroe City Schools, approve of the proposed school bond issue which will make possible our continued role of educational leadership and advanced educational practices. TEACHER GROUP FOR BOND ISSUE

Unanimously Approve Passage Of Measure At Polls On May 23

The following resolution was unanimously approved by the Monroe City Teachers' Association at its meeting the past week:

Whereas the realization of the Monroe School Board of its responsibilities as representatives of the citizens of Monroe has led to a thorough study of the Monroe City Schools in terms of the functions of modern education; and

Whereas because of the rapid growth and development of the city, a continuous increase in enrollment in each school is anticipated, making necessary immediate expansions of the teaching programs and school services; and

Whereas these improvements grow directly out of the needs of all the people in each community; and

Whereas the City School Board and officials of the city of Monroe have called an election to vote on a bond issue of $2,500,000.00 to increase school facilities and to improve the present school plants: Therefore be it

Resolved, that we, The teachers of the Monroe City Schools, approve of the proposed school bond issue which will make possible our continued role of educational leadership and advanced educational practices. We pledge our full cooperation and enthusiastic support in helping to pass this school bond issue on May 23, 1950.

Attend The Church Of Your Choice Today And Every Sunday

© 1949 by Williams Newspaper Features, P. O. Box 231, Ft. Worth, Tex.

Every hour of every day... and night... consciously or subconsciously... we draw upon Mother's strength and love. It is a meager tribute that we should pause once a year and dedicate one day to Mother.

Mother is what makes the wheels go round. Home isn't home without Mother. The countless details, the careful planning, the constant loving care... that takes Mother every time. Children won't tick without Mother. Form the start, Mother is our warm meal when we are hungry, our extra blanket on a cold night, our light in a dark room. Little minds and hearts reach out for MOTHER. Baby-sitters aren't the same. Servants are insufficient. Even Daddy isn't quite enough. A well child runs on eager feet to tell MOTHER of his joys; a sick child calls constantly for MOTHER to soothe away his pains. There's something special, something extra, that comes only from Mother.

Who else can kiss a hurt and make it well? Who else can give us lovely memories of a happy childhood, rich with fun and friends? And who, but Mother, can lead us from our earliest days to find Him as our Refuge and Strength, a very present Help in time of trouble?

Life brings floods of uncertainties, disappointments, failures. Mother is the rock that stands fast. Her faith is sure, her spirit never wavering, her love never failing. Life, too, brings joy, achievement, success. Then we know one heart is happier even than our own. Mother is then the soaring cloud of radiant rapture, lifting us to new attempts.

As long as Mother lives, we shall not lack for care or love or prayers. When separation comes, as come it must, "death is swallowed up in victory." Life will not change Mother's love; death will not conquer it. Mother's spirit will walk ever beside us; her love will wrap us close. Her gentle hand will guide us; her sweet voice will echo in our ears. Again we'll feel that extra blanket slipped quietly over us, in the coldness of our night! Mother is and will be forever more our guardian angel. In this world or in the next, we know that we may draw eternally upon the strength and the love that is... MOTHER. Go to your church this Mother's Day.

MORE NURSES NOW REQUIRED

Young Women Needed To Take Up This Profession At St. Francis

The growing demand for more nurses creates a bright future for young high school graduates who rank in the middle or upper third of their class. To prepare those who are eligible to enter this important career, St. Francis School of Nursing announces the acceptance of its next class the first week in September 1950. To qualified young women between the ages of 17 1/2 and 35, St. Francis School of Nursing offers a three year course in nursing without cost to the student. Textbooks and uniforms are furnished, and there is no tuition. A monthly stipend is given after the first six months in the school.

A nursing education offers security; a well-rounded nursing education assures the graduate of a choice of positions the day she passes the state board of examination to obtain her license or the coveted "R. N." in almost any section of the United States.

The curriculum of the school is based on the outline suggested by the National League of Nursing Education and is approved by the Louisiana State Board of Nurse Examiners, which qualifies graduates from this school for preparation in any specialized type of nursing and advanced college work.

The first six months is spent at Baton Rouge under a centralized program. The nursing school student has experience in medical and surgical nursing, obstetrical and pediatric nursing, and an affiliation in psychiatric nursing.

Young women of Northeast Louisiana and surrounding territory can apply for admission to the September class by writing or calling upon the director of the School of Nursing, St. Francis Sanitarium, Monroe.

MORE NURSES NOW REQUIRED

Young Women Needed To Take Up This Profession At St. Francis

The growing demand for more nurses creates a bright future for young high school graduates who rank in the middle or upper third of their class. To prepare those who are eligible to enter this important career, St. Francis School of Nursing announces the acceptance of its next class the first week in September 1950. To qualified young women between the ages of 17 1/2 and 35, St. Francis School of Nursing offers a three year course in nursing without cost to the student. Textbooks and uniforms are furnished, and there is no tuition. A monthly stipend is given after the first six months in the school.

A nursing education offers security; a well-rounded nursing education assures the graduate of a choice of positions the day she passes the state board of examination to obtain her license or the coveted "R. N." in almost any section of the United States.

The curriculum of the school is based on the outline suggested by the National League of Nursing Education and is approved by the Louisiana State Board of Nurse Examiners, which qualifies graduates from this school for preparation in any specialized type of nursing and advanced college work.

The first six months is spent at Baton Rouge under a centralized program. The nursing school student has experience in medical and surgical nursing, obstetrical and pediatric nursing, and an affiliation in psychiatric nursing.

Young women of Northeast Louisiana and surrounding territory can apply for admission to the September class by writing or calling upon the director of the School of Nursing, St. Francis Sanitarium, Monroe.

Ladd Has Exciting Role In 'Capt. Carey, U. S. A.'

Alan Ladd's latest Paramount picture, the thundering action drama "Captain Carey, U. S. A.," is the thrilling screen fare due next Thursday at the Paramount Theater. Wanda Hendrix is co-starred, while Francis Lederer and Joseph Calleia head a brilliant featured cast.

Set against the intriguing background of today's Italy, the picture spins the exciting, suspenseful story of an ex-O. S. S. officer who refuses to lay down his gun until he avenges the war-time betrayal of his Partisan friends and the beautiful Italian girl he loved.

There's no further evidence needed that Ladd is Hollywood's but according to advance reports top man in the action department, he outdoes himself in "Captain Carey, U. S. A." There's one tremendous fight sequence that took three days to film, and is said to be the most spectacular gun and knife duel ever seen on the screen.

AT THE PARAMOUNT TODAY

Sizzling is the word for Betty Grable as she launches into her "I wish I Could Shimmy like My Sister Kate," number in the glittering Technicolor musical "Wabash Avenue," opening today at the Paramount. Betty plays the part of a honky tonk queen of the gay 90's and is co-starred with Victor Mature and Phil Harris.

'Wabash Avenue' Showcases Grable, Mature And Harris

Technicolor Musical To Open Engagement Today At Paramount

Betty Grable is at her singing and dancing best in Twentieth Century-Fox's Technicolor musical "Wabash Avenue," coming today to the screen of the Paramount Theater.

Co-starred with Betty are Victor Mature, and Phil Harris, radio's bad boy, playing his first straight screen role.

Mature, as a fast talking, honky-tonk character, displays his versatility as an actor, after a series of heavy dramatic parts.

The story of Wabash Avenue" revolves around the adventures of a Chicago dance hall queen, who is pursued by Mature and Harris as rival swain, with the climax of the picture coming during the great Columbia Exposition of 1893.

Both of the boys are aided and abetted in their plotting by Reginald Gardiner and James Barton.

Best known for his stage portrayal of Jeeter Lester in Tobacco Road" and an old time vaudevillian, he revives his song and dance act in keeping with the nostalgic theme of the picture.

Gardiner, usually portraying an impeccably dressed society leech, becomes at his own request a shabby, ne'er do well barfly.

'Wabash Avenue" is filled with plush production unmbers topped off with spectacular costuming and tunes old and new.

Among the old time songs are "Shimmy Like My Sister Kate," "Honeyman," "Floating Down The Old Green River," and "Walking Along With Billy."

The top songwriting team of Mack Gordon and Joseph Myrow has come up with five great new hits: "Baby, Won't You Say You Love Me," "Wilhelmina," "May I Tempt You With A Big Red Rosy Apple?" "Down On Wabash Avenue," and "Clean Up Chicago."

"Wabash Avenue," with its great roster of stars, music and dancing, brings the screen all the lusty brashness and gaiety of an era long gone but well remembered.

Lucille Ball, Holden In New Comedy Picture

Columbia's Miss Grant Takes Richmond," co-starring Lucille Ball and William Holden, will be the next featured attraction at the Joy Drive In Theatre. Supporting the stars are featured players Janis Carter, James Gleason, Gloria Henry and Frank McHugh.

Since S. Sylvan Simon, who directed and produced Red Skelton's convulsively funny comedy, The Fuller Brush Man," authored by Frank Tashlin and Devery Freeman, collaborates again with these writers in Miss Grant Takes Richmond," comedy fans are expecting another big harvest of laughs from the new Columbia comedy. And from advance reports, they aren't going to be disappointed, as lovely Miss Ball and Holden, a brace of brilliant comedians, are said to carry out the promise of a script that crackles with laughter and romance.

The merriment in Miss Grant Takes Richmond" stems from the humorous complications that result when Miss Ball, a secretary whose lovely exterior belies her ineptness at office work, is hired by Holden. Holden, it seems, operates a flourishing book-making establishment behind the staid facade of a real estate office. Luscious Miss Ball, however, is conscientious, if nothing else, and she sets to work to see that her friends acquire housing!

Before the bewildered Holden realizes it he is knee-deep in sponsoring a housing project. Shrewdly figuring that the project will fall flat on its face if Miss Ball masterminds it, Holden has her placed in charge, resulting in what is said to be one of the most hilarious construction jobs in the country. But he doesn't count on falling in love with her. How he gets out from under the housing project and from exposure of his bookie activities is sure to make for a mirth-quaking climax.

'Station West' Stars Dick Powell In Mystery

With Dick Powell and Jane Greer in the stellar roles, R. K. O. Radio's Station West" treats in exciting fashion of an Army post mystery in the Wyoming of 1872, and of the exploits of an officer sent to investigate conditions which seem to be tied in with a mystery woman.

Powell portrays a major in the Intelligence Department who is ordered to find out why two soldiers guarding a gold shipment were murdered. Posing as an Army-hating civilian, Powell reaches Rock Pass, secretly makes contact with the commander of the Army post, and distinguishes himself, as part of his campaign, by whipping the biggest man in town in a rousing fight.

This brings him to the attention of Charlie (Miss Greer), beautiful proprietress of the principal saloon and gambling house. She gives him a job operating the stage line. Under cover of this he goes about his difficult task of identifying the bandits who killed the soldiers and whose depredations have made the local mine-owners fearful of shipping out their gold, most of which is stored at the Army post for safety.

Powell daringly accomplishes his mission, foils a carefully laid plan to rob the post itself, and brings retribution down on the heads of the criminals. Agnes Moorehead, Burl Ives, Tom Powers, Gordon Oliver and Steve Brodie are featured in Station West," which was directed by Sidney Lanfield and produced by Robert Sparks, with Dore Schary in charge of production.

'The Outriders' Showing At The Joy All This Week

Joel McCrea And Barry Sullivan Starred In Moving Western Story

A magnificently photographed absorbingly dramatic motion picture is being shown at the Joy Theater this week in M-C-M's "The Outriders," one of the year's prize-contending outdoor dramas.

Filmed in Technicolor against the spectacular mountain and canyon settings of Utah, here is the compelling story of three Yankees who escape from a Missouri prison stockade during the Civil War and embark on one of the strangest and suspense-filled adventures to be shown on the screen in a decade of film-making.

Joel McCrea, Barry Sullivan and James Whitmore form the oddly assorted trio who make their escape only to find themselves prisoners again, this time in the hands of a roving band of guerrillas led by one of Quantrell's infamous raiders. In exchange for their lives they agree to head for Santa Fe, New Mexico to become instruments in a plan to ambush a wagon train carrying a million dollars in gold bullion for the federal treasury in St. Louis. Before this 800-mile trek is completed, the members of the wagon train encounter one hazard after another, including an Indian attack, a disastrous stampede of livestock and a terrifying episode in which the caravan is forced to cross the rain-swollen Arkansas river and in which the youngest rider in the group, played by Claude Jarman, Jr., loses his life in an act of cowardice. An enmity builds up between McCrea and Sullivan who become rivals for the love of Arlene Dahl and the story moves to a thundering climax of intrigue and gunplay in which this romance is finally resolved and in which McCrea proves himself a true patriot.

Some of the finest acting portrayals of the year are engendered in the principals of "The Outriders." Joel McCrea, who has come to be the screen's foremost representative of virile western heroes, is superb as the strong-willed fearless Will Owen. Barry Sullivan scores as his double-crossing partner and James Whitmore tops his famous "Battleground" role with another striking performance as Clint Priest, the squat, stooped and squint-eyed third member of the trio of outriders. Arlene Dahl gives a warm and sympathetic appeal to the role of the young widow who becomes the cause of dissension between the two rivals, Claude Jarman, Jr. is unforgettable in his role as the cowardly Roy, and another outstanding role is played by Ramon Novarro, remembered as one of the screen's most famous stars, who now makes his return in the part of Don Antonio, leader of the wagon train.

Additional credit goes to Irving Ravetch for his exceptional screen play, to Roy Rowland for his forceful and discerning direction and to Producer Richard Gladstone who has given his picture magnificient production values. It all adds up to making "The Outriders" a notable addition to the current crop of outdoor advanture dramas.

Civilians are barred from the Farallon Islands, a bird refuge off the California coast, from April to August.

MASON-PEARSON OPENS OFFICE

Formal Opening Of Finance Corp.'s New Building At 306 South Grand Monday

The formal opening of Mason-Pearson, Inc., one of Monroe's newest financing corporations now located in a new modern building at 306 South Grand street is scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday.

Stockholders in the corporation which was formed last October are: Dr. C. H. Hill, Ralph C. Brice, S. K. Heninger, Earl T. Mason and Wade D. Pearson.

The company originally opened an office at 128 Jackson street and moved into their new location last week.

Pearson, manager of the corporation, asserted that the late model brick office building was constructed at an estimated cost of $10,000. Construction was begun in April by Jack Armstrong, local contractor and completed within the last week.

The building contains three private offices, a reception room and cashier office. It is air-conditioned and contains 900 square feet of floor space. Woodwork throughout the building is for finished in natural varnish with light aqua colored walls and asphalt tile floors.

Pearson pointed out that Mason-Pearson, Inc., are dealers and brokers in mortgaged notes. The company, he said, arranges real estate and personal loans.

The Flag Resolution adopted by the continental congress did not prescribe how the stars were to be arranged. As a result, in the beginning they were arranged in various ways, including a circle. Some say the circle was to indicate the equality of the states, while others contend it was to symbolize the hope that the Union would be without end.

Foremost Installs Plant And Ice Cream Store Here

Leading Ice Cream And Dairy Product Company Locates In West Monroe

Foremost Dairies, Inc., one of the south's largest ice cream and dairy product companies, recently installed a $10,000 plan tand ice cream store at 1509 Cypress street in West Monroe, making their products readily available to residents of the Twin Cities for the first time.

Formal opening of the plant is scheduled within the next week though C. G. Marechal, manager of the West Monroe branch of Foremost, pointed out the ice cream store opened for business last week.

Between 45 and 50 Foremost plants are located in the south with the general office in Jacksonville, Fla. The West Monroe retail and wholesale ice cream store is a branch to Foremost Dairyland at Shreveport.

Marechal asserted that Foremost would operate here for the purpose of supplying ice cream to the Twin Cities and surrounding territories in a 50 mile radius.

Glenn M. Kelley, formerly of Shreveport, will be assistant manager of the local plant which will employ some 10 persons.

The building in which Foremost is now operating was completely remodeled in the past eight weeks. It was leased from Tom Johnson and now maintains a complete fountain and table service.

Retail trade at the Foremost plant includes sodas, sundaes, malts, cones, cups and carry-home packages ranging from a pint to a gallon. For the convenience of Twin City motorists, Foremost is also providing curb service.

Marechal stated that Foremost's outstanding success has been built through quality and service. For a number of years a few grocery stores in the Monroe area have sold Foremost ice cream, Marechal said, but the company did not maintain a plant in this section until the Cypress street establishment was opened.

The first steam engine to run on rails in America was built by John Stevens in 1825 and was operated on a circular experimental track on his estate at Hoboken, N. J. Stevens' engine was never put to practical use. The first American-built locomotive acutally to be operated on a common-carrier railroad in the United States was the "Tom Thumb," built in 1829.

S.L.I.'s $425,000 Coliseum Is Completed At Lafayette

LAFAYETTE, La.,—(Special)—Completed at a cost of $425 000, the new Stafford M. Blackham coliseum on the Southwestern Louisiana Institute campus gives this state an outstanding example of modern, economical auditorium construction.

The auditorium with a seating capacity of 5,000 persons will be used for stock shows, flower shows, basketball games and the annual mid-winter fair.

The structure is oval in shape, 250 feet long by 150 feet across, and is surmounted by a mammoth dome. A system of steel trusses supports the roof. There are no pillars or posts to obstruct vision or divide the floor area. This arrangement provides for large floor space, ample ceiling room and large seating capacity.

The brick sidewalls are comparatively low and topped by a continuous band of windows. Probably the most notable feature is the dome, which was constructed of corrugated asbestos-cement sheets. Though giving the appearance of being continuously curved to the ridge, the dome was built of flat sheets of the corrugated material except for the starting course. The latter consists of specially made curved sheets. Three rings of skylights are cut into the dome.

Economy of construction was achieved by using the corrugated sheets over skeleton construction. The corrugated asbestos-cement material provides protection against fire and weather. Additional savings will accrue because the sheets do not require painting and are virtually free from maintenance expense.

Institute officials predict that the new coliseum, through its flower and stock shows, will further stimulate the interest of southwest Louisianans in horticulture and livestock. Winter events will include a camellia pageant, a camellia flower show and a number of garden club exhibits.

The coliseum was designed by A. Hays Town, Baton Rouge architect. The contractor was the E. B. Ludwig Construction Company of New Orleans.

Monroe P.-T.A. Members Visit Modern Schools

Members of the Monroe Parent-Teachers Association, in a campaign to raise public interest in the coming school bond election, have scheduled trips to neighboring cities to inspect modern school construction.

Tuesday, Mrs. R. M. Troy, president of the Georgia Tucker P.-T. A., Mrs. N. Klam and Mrs. Paul Thompson journeyed to Crossett, Ark., to inspect the new Crossett High School.

Among the features of the structure, built in 1949, the group noted especially the lighting, ventilation and congestion-reducing conveniences.

The Crossett school is a concrete-faced, two story building of modern design, with facilities for 800 students. The present enrollment of approximately 600 is divided into classes which average about 25 per teacher.

The school contains 20 classrooms, plus a gymnasium, band room and rehearsal rooms, library, study hall, administrative offices and several utility rooms which will be used as classrooms when expansion becomes necessary.

Under the present system, the school can be completely evacuated in little more than one minute, due to the wide, modern halls and strategic location of the many outside exits.

The building was built at a cost of approximately $565,000, and was designed by the architectural firm of Wanger and Smith. The student body is composed of pupils from the seventh through the twelfth grades.

On the return from Crossett, the Monroe delegation stopped briefly at the Morehouse Training School, a Negro high school in Bastrop, La.

The Bastrop school, nine months old, incorporate much of the features recommended by school planners and architects.

First Presbyterian Church Throws Open New Building

Handsome Modern Two-Story Educational Structure, Costing $150,000, To Be Used For Sunday School And Youth Groups

Mother's day will have a double meaning for the members and attendants of the First Presbyterian Church today for it will be not only the day held sacred in memory of a beloved parent but will also mark the culmination of hopes, plans and economies that have made possible the erection of the fine $150,000 educational building. For the first time the doors of this handsome art brick structure will be thrown open to Sunday school and youth groups for their exercises.

The building is two stories and basement and faces on Catalpa St. immediately north of the church sancturary on Grammont street. It i so designed as to form an integral part of the present church edifice. There are four entrances, two from Catalpa street, one from Grammont street and one from the alley just north of the building. Access is also permitted directly into the educatiinal building from the present church edifice.

It is anticipated that this educational building will meet needs of this church for years to come.

The plan of the building is such that each department is separated from other departments by corridors, thereby reducing to a minimum, interference between departments. Each room is an outside room with ample light and ventilation. Numerous closets, and an abundance of plumbing facilities are notable throughout the building.

On the first floor there is a large fellowship hall which will seat 250. It has a large stage suited to the presentation of plays and a kitchen as modern as any hotel here possesses, is an adjunct to this room. Banquets will be held here from time to time.

Ample provision is made on the first floor for the beginners and primary classes and there is to be a nursery on this floor. Floors are of asphalt tile throughout the building which also is air conditioned.

It is planned to alter the present Sunday school rooms so as to provide for the Elizabeth Wills Class, the church office and the pastor's study.

The second floor will accommodate the Intermediates, Juniors, and Seniors as well as the College Class, Millsaps class and young adults' class. The same general scheme is followed out on this floor as the one on the first floor. Two sets of stairs are provided so that the building, already fire proof, can be emptied in any emergency.

The basement has a huge room for Boy Scouts and for shuffle board and other games. It is expected that this room will be in use throughout the week by the youth of the church and will prove useful in diverting from other sources of amusement that may be of unsatisfactory nature.

Much careful thought and a great deal of planning and consultation was required before this building was erected. The plans were prepared by Smith & Padgett, Monroe architectural firm. The firm of Jesse F. Heard & Sons, was the general contractor for the building.

The building committee charged with financing and supervising this important construction was composed of the following: A. T. Shotwell, Dr. D. M. Moore, Lee Hodges, D. Curtis Smith, Bunn Beasley, W. R. Hatchell, R. W. Cretney, George Hemphill, W. R. Hammond, F. F. Millsaps and D. Curtis Seamon.

In ths connection something concerning the past history of the church is of interest. In the fall of 1855 the first steps were taken toward forming a Presbyterian church for Monroe. But the war between the states occurred and it was not until Aug. 13, 1871, that the church was actually established. The ministers were T. H. Cleland and J. E. Bright and elders were F. L. McCormick, Monroe and J. S. Logan, Three Creeks Church, Ark. The first pastor was John M. Campbell. One of the first reports forwarded to the Presbytery bears date of March 30, 1873 and shows five added by profession, six by letter, a membership of 25 and contributions, $1,228.

At the present time, this church has grown numerically. A total of 701 are classed as resident and 131 as non-resident. And retired roll, 96, which means that there are on the church rolls, today a total of 928 names, of which 96 are not counted.

This church has been led along constructvie, consecrated channels by its pastor, Ernes Duncan Holloway, who in November 1947, celebrated 20 years as its pastor. Much of the success of recent years is attributable to him.

A native of Mississippi, where he was born 58 years ago, he attended Jefferson Military Academy and later the University of Mississippi where he received his Bachelor's degree in 1914. He received his divinity training in Union Seminary, Richmond, Va., and also he pursued a postgraduate course in Princeton University. Last summer the culmination of a series of summers spent in postgraduate work at Union Seminary, was achieved when he earned his doctor's degree. But he is an unassuming, earnest, humble servant of the Lord. He does not care to make an issue of superior education and is quite content to have the "Doctor" eliminated from his name.

Dr. (we will use the title) Holloway is the friend of man. He makes an instantaneous hit even with strangers who see in him a well directed, consecrated, religious leader. He never bores, he spreads sunshine wherever he goes, and one of his habits is to visit each day every sick room possible in the hospitals here. He stays only about two minutes, and then after a brief word of comfort and fully as brief prayer, he is off and away, leaving the patient wishing he had made a longer stay.

Realtors Are Seeking License Examination

The state legislature is expected to take action next week on the Louisiana Real Estate Association's bill which if passed will require applicants for a real estate operator's license to take an examination.

The association pointed out that the regulations would be amendments to the existing Real Estate License Law passed in 1920.

The amendment will require that an examination be taken by all persons applying for a real estate broker's license. Applicants would be furnished with a list of questions and answers pertaining to the real estate profession. They would be required to study these and pass an examination based upon the questions and their knowledge of the general practice of a real estate broker.

Should the bill pass, it was pointed out, the Louisiana real estate board, the licensing agency would be given more money to enforce the real estate license law.

A spokesman for the association said the meat of the proposed amendment is to protect the public in dealing with real estate brokers and to educate our members so they will have sufficient knowledge to remain in the real estate business.

"We want to create better and more informed real estate brokers and to supply sufficient financial assistance to the state to employ enforcement officers to see that the proposed amendments are properly enforced."

The spokesman asserted that the association believes the state legislature may object to the education clause.

"Education in the real estatte field is becoming so important and complex due to its various phases of appraisal, management, financing and so on that universities through the country are establishing real estate courses and giving degrees in real estate. Louisiana State University this year is graduating four students who majored in this phase of the real estate business," he said.

The proposed amendment to Section 11 of the license law reads:

"For the protection of the public, the board shall, in addition to requiring proof of honesty. . . .set up a list of questions, subject to revision from year to year, designed to acquaint applicants for a license with subjects considered pertinent to the real estate business. . . .After an applicant had had an opportunity to study said questions and the general rules practices of real estate business, he shall be required to submit to a written examination, which shall consist of some of the questions contained in said list, to establish that the applicant has sufficient knowledge of the code of ethics and rules of conduct governing the real estate business."

It was pointed out that the amendment would not affect real estate men who already hold state licenses.

The new fees would be $25 for the first year for brokers and $15 per year thereafter. Salesmen's licenses would cost $15 the first year and $10 afterwards. If the salesman changed offices during the year he would pay $5 more upon making the change.

The group's spokesman said the hike in fees is necessary to get additional funds in order to enforce the license law.

Southwest Conference Discusses Busy Agenda

AUSTIN, Tex., May 12.—(AP)—Big-wigs of the Southwest Conference opened their spring meeting today with a busy agenda including the explosive censure of Arkansas for rough football play.

Arkansas is seeking a new hearing with the hope of removing the censure which came after the Arkansas-Texas Christian football game last fall. The conference faculty committee took the action on protest of Coach Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian and based its findings on a report from James H. Stewart, conference executive secretary.

A new executive secretary is to be named by the committee. Stewart has resigned to become vice-president and general manager of the state fair of Texas. Many names have been mentioned for the job but there has been no indication from the conference of whom it is considering.

However, unofficial sources said a subcommittee named to screen the nominees for the job had settled on three men — Howard Grubbs, Texas Christian athletic director; Morley Jennings, athletic director at Texas Tech, and Claude Kellam, director of high school athletics at San Antonio.

HERMAN MASUR IS HIGHLY HONORED

Appointed Chairman Of Jewish Charities, Lauded By Wise

Herman Masur, prominent business man here and recently appointed chairman of the United Jewish Charities of Northeast La., Inc., has been commended by Jonah B. Wise, national chairman of the United Jewish Appeal.

In his letter to Masur, Wise stated: "I am sure that the qualities of leadership and devotion which have brought you to the helm of campaign activities in Monroe during this critical period will act to spur the community to new levels of generosity."

Wise began his letter by writing: "I am gratified to know that you are acting as chairman of Monroe's 1950 campaign on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal.

"The months ahead are tremendously important in the great effort to build a strong, self-sufficient Jewish community in Israel, one that will be able to liquidate the tragic problems of homelsssness and persecution suffered by Jews in other parts of the world. The task has only really begun. The gates of Israel must be kept open for immigration. But the whole program is imperilled because some 90,000 new immigrants —men, women and children—are still living in dangerously primitive reception camps, without adequate food or clothing. Funds in unprecedented amounts must be speeded to Israel in order that these camps may be cleared, and the flow of immigration into Israel may continue unchecked. Any slowup in the time table of these programs will condemn thousands of Jews to a cruel prolongation of persecution and homelessness. To avert this disaster is the measure of our responsibility this year," Wise wrote.

Seven main tasks in 1950 for the joint distribution committee, United Jewish Appeal, were listed as:

(1) Speed the emigration of 146,000 Jews to Israel and other lands.

(2) Assist 55,000 breadwinners to self-support.

(3) Provide medical services for 80,000 monthly.

(4) Bring life-saving relief to 350,000.

(5) Care for 63,000 children, 15,000 of them orphans in J. D. C.-supported institutions.

(6) Give increased opportunity to children in Moslem lands.

(7) Participate in a new program for the "hard core" in Israel.

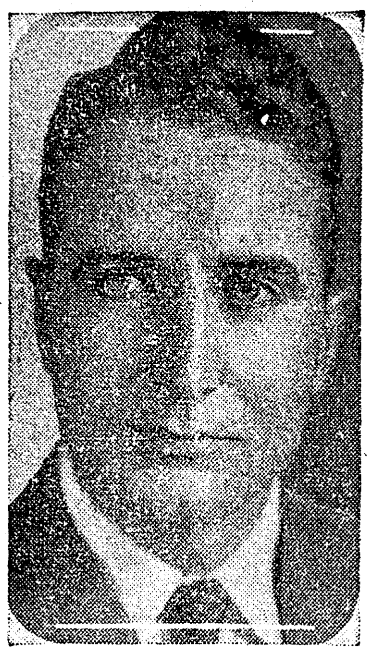
GUEST SPEAKER



MARLIN H. BRUNER

DUPONT OFFICIAL TO SPEAK HERE

Kiwanis Club In West Monroe To Hear Marlin Bruner On Balanced Agriculture

Kiwanian D. C. Metcalf, of the West Monroe club, program chairman for the luncheon this week, has secured as speaker, Marlin H. Bruner, southern district manager of the Du Pont company's extension division. Mr. Bruner, of Clemson, S. C., is widely known as a speaker on industrial and chemical developments. His talk will be entitled: "Balancing Agriculture and Industry."

He not only will show some of the newest developments in chemical research, but also will discuss what makes them possible and how they get out of the test tubes and into the hands of the public as useful products. He will also tell the story of nylon, the development of polythene—the versatile new plastic—and many other chemical discoveries. Some are so new that they are still in the experimental or evaluation stage.

As a result of his intimate knowledge of chemical developments with the Du Pont Company and his long connection with agriculture and forestry in the south, Mr. Bruner says that industry and agriculture are rapidly becoming balanced in the southern states, resulting in more personal income and better living. He adds that as the basic chemical industry develops there, it is bringing into being many smaller businesses to use its products.

Mr. Bruner is a graduate in forestry from the Pennsylvania State College and Yale University, from which he received a master's degree. He is a specialist in forestry and for three years he worked on national forest projects in North Carolina, Tennessee, and Louisiana. Subsequently he was extension forester, first with the University of Arkansas and later with Clemson College.

With the Du Pont Company he continued his interest in agricultural improvements and extended his interests to studying the broad economic and social benefits of the industrial development of chemical products. In this connection, he has been a frequent speaker throughout the south.

He is active in the Society of American Foresters and the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers and is a member of other forestry and scientific organizations.

BIGGER CITIES MAY JOIN HANDS

Use Of Combined Strength Against Rural Areas Considered

By Edmond Lebreton

BATON ROUGE, La., May 13.—(AP)—For years, Louisiana population has been drifting to the towns and politicians have been saying that some day the bigger cities might get together and see what their combined strength could accomplish.

This week New Orleans forces offered what could be a basis for an alliance of cities in the current legislative session.

The program advance by New Orleans lawmakers, with Mayor DeLesseps Morrison s blessing, is intended primarily to fill what the mayor has defined as New Orleans' needs. But it also contains provisions, both for more revenue and for more local freedom in government, that could well interest Louisiana's other municipalities, especially the larger ones.

These include, on the financial side:

1.—A bigger share of the state tobacco tax for cities above 25,000 population. At present those of 25,001 to 50,000 receive $3.50 per capita per year and those with greater populations $2 per capita. There is also a $650,000 ceiling affecting New Orleans only. The New Orleans-backed revision would give $4 per capita to all cities above 25,000, with no ceiling. Some observers have questioned, however, whether the $6,000,000 appropriation would cover disbursement at the proposed new rate.

2.—A bigger state appropriation to larger parishes for road and drainage work. At present all parishes alike receive $30,000 a year. One of the New Orleans-backed bills would limit this distribution to 58 of the parishes. For the "big six" — Orleans (New Orleans), Caddo 'Shreveport), East Baton Rouge, (Baton Rouge), Calcasieu (Lake Charles), Ouachita (Monroe), and Rapides (Alexandria), there would be set up a $560,000 fund to be divided on a formula based on the amount of gasoline sales in these parishes.

On the governmental side, the New Orleans administration, which complained bitterly that its form of government had been changed without local referendum by the legislature in 1948, has offered a general bill under which any municipality of any size could adopt a "home rule" charter of its own making and subsequently amend it without recourse to the legislature.

The argument usually raised by spokesmen for the cities seeking more revenue is that now much more than half the state's population lives in incorporated places, that the residents of cities pay a big proportion of the state taxes and that existing laws limit the sources city governments can use to raise funds for their own use. They contend that cities are being called on more and more for government services and have no way of paying the bills.

For years the "city" versus "country" division has been one of the facts of Louisiana politics—not a division evident on every issue, but one sure to recur sooner or later. "City" traditionally means New Orleans and "country" the rest of the state.

The 1950 census is expected to show at least two cities outside New Orleans with population well above 100,000 and several more ranging around 50,000 or higher. The old "country" classification, already inaccurate for generations? Becomes almost absurd.

Anything like a permanent "cities" bloc would be something new in Louisiana affairs — and would make the 1950 session politically memorable if it should develop now.

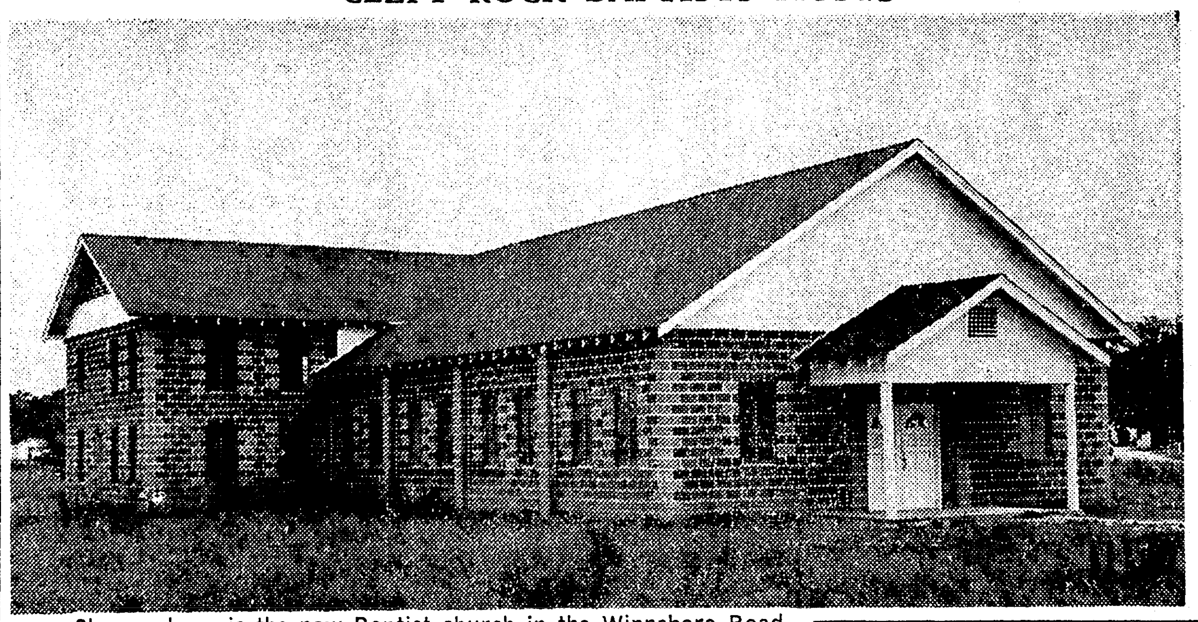
CLEFT ROCK BAPTISTS HOSTS



Shown above is the new Baptist church in the Winnsboro Road area. Open house will be held there today (Sunday) from 2 to 5 p.m. when the public will be welcomed.

CLEFT ROCK IS TO OPEN DOORS

Will Have Public As Guests Sunday Afternoon; Much I Progress Made

The Cleft Rock Baptists will have an open house May 14, from 2 to 5 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The church is celebrating its first birthday and is the newest Baptist church in the Twin Cities. It had its beginning as a mission of the First Baptist Church, Monroe, sponsored by their Brotherhood, with the Bates Real Estate Co. furnishing the building. The first service was held on January 1, 1949, with R. B. Kitchingham as mission pastor. It continued to grow as a mission until May 12, at which time a church was organized with 89 charter members, calling R. B. Kitchingham as the pastor.

On July 11, the ground was broken for the auditorium and educational buildings. The educational building is a two-story stone construction consisting of 29 assembly and class rooms. The auditorium has a seating capacity of 450 with all the modern conveniences.

We now have 164 members with a Sunday school enrollment of 166 and Training Union of 122. Out of the 164 members 122 have been by baptism.

GUEST SPEAKER

MARLIN H. BRUNER

DUPONT OFFICIAL TO SPEAK HERE

Kiwanis Club In West Monroe To Hear Marlin Bruner On Balanced Agriculture

Kiwanian D. C. Metcalf, of the West Monroe club, program chairman for the luncheon this week, has secured as speaker, Marlin H. Bruner, southern district manager of the Du Pont company's extension division. Mr. Bruner, of Clemson, S. C., is widely known as a speaker on industrial and chemical developments. His talk will be entitled: "Balancing Agriculture and Industry."

He not only will show some of the newest developments in chemical research, but also will discuss what makes them possible and how they get out of the test tubes and into the hands of the public as useful products. He will also tell the story of nylon, the development of polythene—the versatile new plastic—and many other chemical discoveries. Some are so new that they are still in the experimental or evaluation stage.

As a result of his intimate knowledge of chemical developments with the Du Pont Company and his long connection with agriculture and forestry in the south, Mr. Bruner says that industry and agriculture are rapidly becoming balanced in the southern states, resulting in more personal income and better living. He adds that as the basic chemical industry develops there, it is bringing into being many smaller businesses to use its products.

Mr. Bruner is a graduate in forestry from the Pennsylvania State College and Yale University, from which he received a master's degree. He is a specialist in forestry and for three years he worked on national forest projects in North Carolina, Tennessee, and Louisiana. Subsequently he was extension forester, first with the University of Arkansas and later with Clemson College.

With the Du Pont Company he continued his interest in agricultural improvements and extended his interests to studying the broad economic and social benefits of the industrial development of chemical products. In this connection, he has been a frequent speaker throughout the south.

He is active in the Society of American Foresters and the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers and is a member of other forestry and scientific organizations.

FIRE ALARMS

At 3:15 a.m. Saturday firemen were summoned to a house fire at the rear of 904 Jackson street. The blaze was caused from a burning tree stump, firemen said, and damaged the corner room of the dwelling. The house was owned and occupied by Mrs. A. B. Collins. Firemen from engine companies 1, 2 and ladder 1 extinguished the flames.

BIGGER CITIES MAY JOIN HANDS

Use Of Combined Strength Against Rural Areas Considered

By Edmond Lebreton

BATON ROUGE, La., May 13.—(AP)—For years, Louisiana population has been drifting to the towns and politicians have been saying that some day the bigger cities might get together and see what their combined strength could accomplish.

This week New Orleans forces offered what could be a basis for an alliance of cities in the current legislative session.

The program advance by New Orleans lawmakers, with Mayor DeLesseps Morrison's blessing, is intended primarily to fill what the mayor has defined as New Orleans' needs. But it also contains provisions, both for more revenue and for more local freedom in government, that could well interest Louisiana's other municipalities, especially the larger ones.

These include, on the financial side:

1.—A bigger share of the state tobacco tax for cities above 25,000 population. At present those of 25,001 to 50,000 receive $3.50 per capita per year and those with greater populations $2 per capita. There is also a $650,000 ceiling affecting New Orleans only. The New Orleans-backed revision would give $4 per capita to all cities above 25,000, with no ceiling. Some observers have questioned, however, whether the $6,000,000 appropriation would cover disbursement at the proposed new rate.

2.—A bigger state appropriation to larger parishes for road and drainage work. At present all parishes alike receive $30,000 a year. One of the New Orleans-backed bills would limit this distribution to 58 of the parishes. For the "big six" — Orleans (New Orleans), Caddo (Shreveport), East Baton Rouge, (Baton Rouge), Calcasieu (Lake Charles), Ouachita (Monroe), and Rapides (Alexandria), there would be set up a $560,000 fund to be divided on a formula based on the amount of gasoline sales in these parishes.

On the governmental side, the New Orleans administration, which complained bitterly that its form of government had been changed without local referendum by the legislature in 1948, has offered a general bill under which any municipality of any size could adopt a "home rule" charter of its own making and subsequently amend it without recourse to the legislature.

The argument usually raised by spokesmen for the cities seeking more revenue is that now much more than half the state's population lives in incorporated places, that the residents of cities pay a big proportion of the state taxes and that existing laws limit the sources city governments can use to raise funds for their own use. They contend that cities are being called on more and more for government services and have no way of paying the bills.

For years the "city" versus "country" division has been one of the facts of Louisiana politics—not a division evident on every issue, but one sure to recur sooner or later. "City" traditionally means New Orleans and "country" the rest of the state.

The 1950 census is expected to show at least two cities outside New Orleans with population well above 100,000 and several more ranging around 50,000 or higher. The old "country" classification, already inaccurate for generations? Becomes almost absurd.

Anything like a permanent "cities" bloc would be something new in Louisiana affairs — and would make the 1950 session politically memorable if it should develop now.

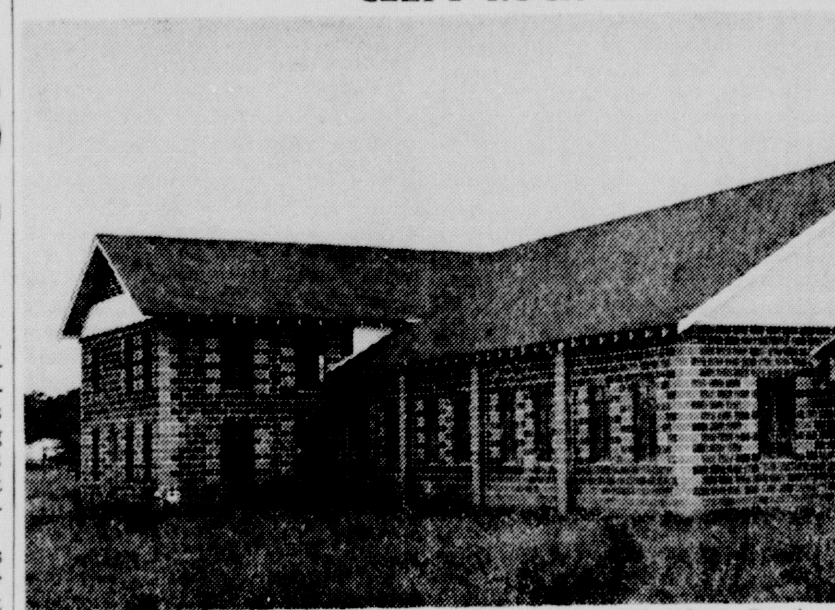
CLEFT ROCK BAPTISTS HOSTS



Shown above is the new Baptist church in the Winnsboro Road area. Open house will be held there today (Sunday) from 2 to 5 p.m. when the public will be welcomed.

CLEFT ROCK IS TO OPEN DOORS

Will Have Public As Guests Sunday Afternoon; Much I Progress Made

The Cleft Rock Baptists will have an open house May 14, from 2 to 5 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The church is celebrating its first birthday and is the newest Baptist church in the Twin Cities. It had its beginning as a mission of the First Baptist Church, Monroe, sponsored by their Brotherhood, with the Bates Real Estate Co. furnishing the building. The first service was held on January 1, 1949, with R. B. Kitchingham as mission pastor. It continued to grow as a mission until May 12, at which time a church was organized with 89 charter members, calling R. B. Kitchingham as the pastor.

On July 11, the ground was broken for the auditorium and educational buildings. The educational building is a two-story stone construction consisting of 29 assembly and class rooms. The auditorium has a seating capacity of 450 with all the modern conveniences.

We now have 164 members with a Sunday school enrollment of 166 and Training Union of 122. Out of the 164 members 122 have been by baptism.

FOUR ELECTIONS SET FOR PARISH

Catahoula To Ballot Ofen In Months Of June And July

JONESVILLE, La., May 13.—(Special)—With six candidates announced for the Catahoula parish school board, politics is again becoming the subject of a lot of conversation throughout the parish. Four separate elections are scheduled in the months of June and July in Catahoula.

First election will be on June 6 to vote on a renewal of a five-mill school maintenance tax for five years. The tax has been voted every five years for the past 25 years, according to Aubrey Brooks, parish school superintendent. Only resident property owners will be qualified to vote.

A week later, on June 13, the town of Jonesville and the village of Harrisonburg will each have a municipal election. Harrisonburg will elect a mayor and three aldermen. Jonesville will elect a mayor, five aldermen and a town marshall.

Deadline for qualifying in the Harrisonburg race was set as Friday, May 12, at 12 noon. Deadline in the Jonesville race is 4 p.m., June 2.

Only July 25 a primary election will be held to nominate a U. S. senator, a congressman and three parish school board members.

The school board posts to be filled are in ward one, for which no candidate has announced (Hubert Garner of Foules is the incumbent), ward five, for which three candidates have announced, and ward six, for which three candidates have also announced.

Candidates for the school board post in ward five are T. M. Cater (incumbent), Jack Owens and Lamar Randall. Candidates in ward six to fill the post held by the later M. T. Dowdy on the board are Mrs. G. D. Babin, R. M. Cotton and Bob Scott.

THE BAIT, ANNIE! LIVE BAIT! THEY CAUGHT IT!
LATER
HERE WE ARE, SKIPPER-- WHEN WE'RE ASHORE, YOU'LL HAVE TIME BEFORE DAYLIGHT TO DROP BACK DOWNSTREAM---

AH--FINE-- HERE WE ARE--THE LITTLE CABIN JUST AS WE LEFT IT-- PEACEFUL HERE, EH?
LOOKS AWFUL WILD TO ME-- WHAT I CAN SEE OF IT, SO FAR!

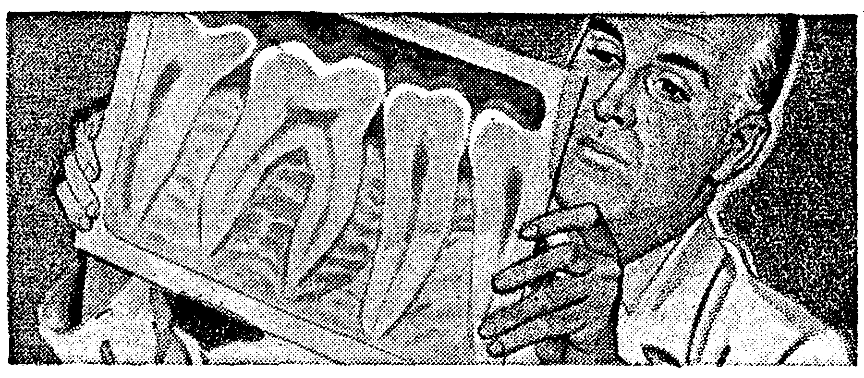
No Other Dentifrice Offers Proof of Such Results! Proof That Using

COLGATE DENTAL CREAM

HELPS STOP TOOTH DECAY!

2 Years' Research at FIVE LEADING UNIVERSITIES Proves That Using Colgate's Right After Eating Helps Stop Tooth Decay Before It Starts!



THE MOST CONCLUSIVE PROOF IN ALL DENTIFRICE RESEARCH ON TOOTH DECAY! Proof based on 2 years' research at leading universities—hundreds of case histories! Conclusive proof that when teeth are brushed with Colgate's right after eating, Colgate's helps stop decay before it starts! Colgate Dental Cream has been proved to contain all the necessary ingredients, including an exclusive patented ingredient, for effective daily dental care.

YES, THE TOOTHPASTE YOU USE TO CLEAN YOUR BREATH WHILE YOU CLEAN YOUR TEETH, offers a safe, proved way to reduce tooth decay! Modern science shows decay is caused by mouth acids which are at their worst right after eating. Brushing teeth with Colgate's as directed, helps remove these acids before they harm enamel. And Colgate's penetrating foam gets between teeth where food particles often lodge.

CHILDREN LOVE COLGATE'S FLAVOR! By the time they enter school, 9 out of 10 children have one or more decayed teeth. Children love Colgate's flavor—so it's easy to start them on the proved Colgate way to reduce decay! No dentifrice can stop all tooth decay, or help cavities already started. But using Colgate's as directed is a safe way to reduce cavities—help stop tooth decay! And only Colgate Dental Cream offers proof of such results!

NO OTHER DENTIFRICE OFFERS PROOF OF SUCH RESULTS!
